REDS FIGHT GERMANS TO STANDSTILL

BRITISH HOLD GAINS AS EGYPT BATTLE RAGES

U. S. General Lee Tanks Arrive To Strengthen Allies; Crisis Believed Near.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, July 17—British troops holding newly-won advance positions in the center of the El Alamein line have been fighting off violent attacks since yesterday in a great battle of armored forces which still is continuing, general headquarters said today.

Sharp fighting also was reported at the southern end of the line, where the enemy was said to have withdrawn slightly, and in the coastal sector to the north.

British troops in the center of the El Alamein line were reported today to have brought up American-made General Lee tanks to give additional power to their defense.

New Gen. Lee Tanks

The General Lee, an improved version of the General Grant, mounts 75 millimeter guns in the turret instead of at the side and has streamlined armor. The General Grants previously had proved a mainstay of British armored forces in the desert.

Other dispatches indicated much of the armored strength of both sides was engaged in the struggle and it appeared that a crisis in the battle for Egypt was near.

RAF Kept Busy

British headquarters said that the RAF was strongly supporting the imperial ground forces and that bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters were continuing to hammer at the enemy around the clock.

The immediate objective of the attacks against the British was a position on Ruweiset ridge, running east and west 10 miles south of the coast.

Observers said the position would have to be erased before the axis forces could make any advance elswhere.

From the scale of the action observers believed Marshal Erwin Rommel, whose German-Italian forces have been stalled before El Alamein since June 30, might be staking everything on a new all-

City Bus Routes Shortened Under War Travel Order

In compliance with orders issued by the office of defense transportation several changes will be made in the city transportation service operated by the Marion Rapid Transit Co., effective Sunday, July 19, it was announced today by Paul Whitenack, chief clerk. The north loop will be reversed and changes will be made on the Mt. Vernon avenue and West Center and Davids street runs.

The changes are being made in compliance with federal orders for conservation of rubber, parts and other factors, as well as a safety measure, Mr. Whitenack said. The order was issued by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation.

To Reduce Mileage

The changes will cut the mileage of the 15 buses, exclusive of the large 100-passenger bus, approximately 110 miles a day, netting a savings of approximately 2,300 miles per operating month.

In revamping the North loop the buses will leave the business section from the north side of Center street at the courthouse, go west on Center street to Main, north on Main to Hecker, east on Hecker to State, south on State to Fairground, east on Fairground to Greenwood, south on Greenwood to George, west on George to State and south on State to Center and to the courthouse.

This change is being made, Mr. Whitenack states, because of the many left turns encountered in the route as it is now scheduled, and also because of the extreme hazardous entrance from Hecker

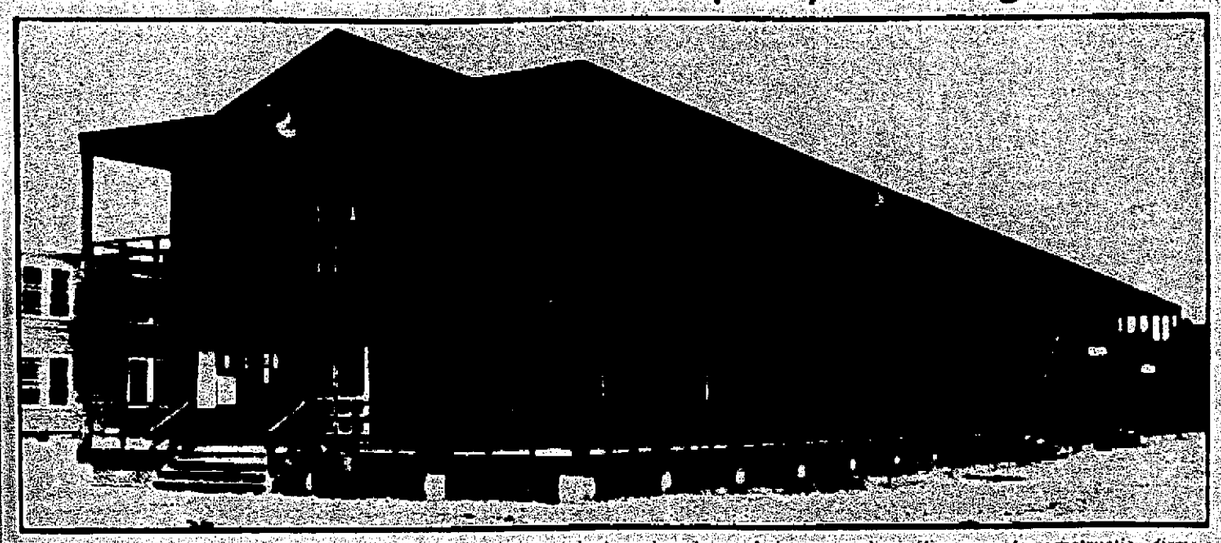
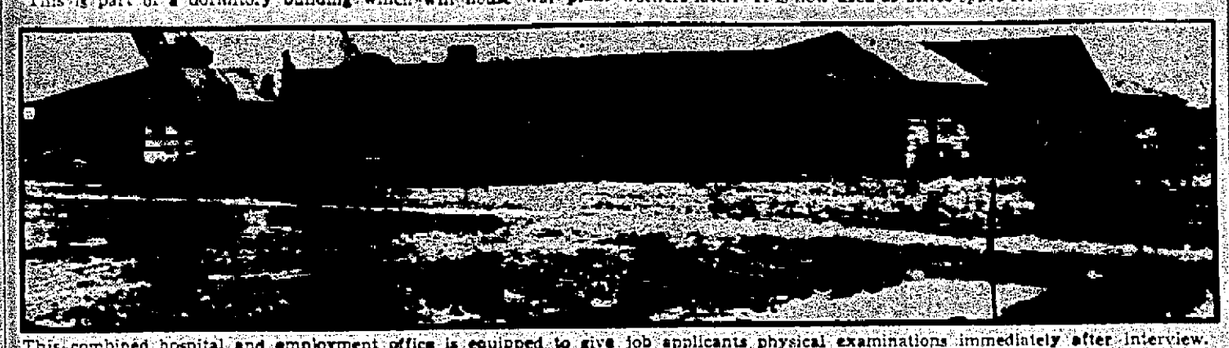
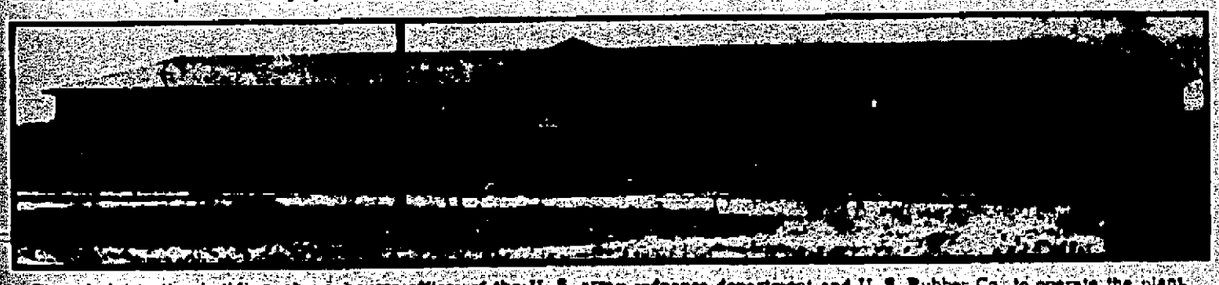
Scioto Ordnance Plant Rapidly Taking Shape



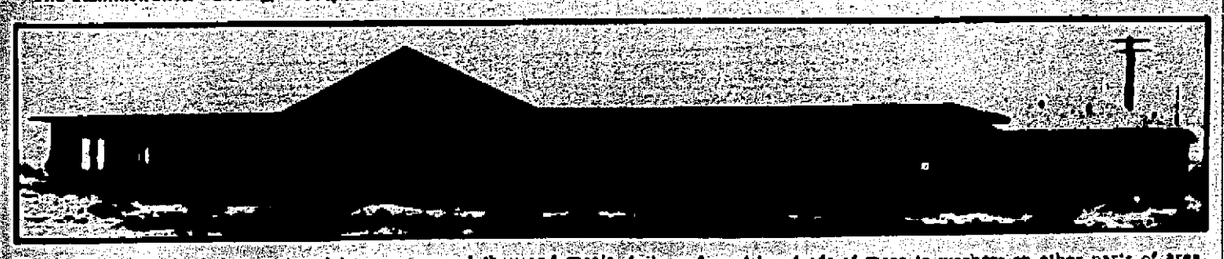
This is part of a dormitory building which will house war plant workers later. It is now used as office space for construction firms.



This combined hospital and employment office is equipped to give job applicants physical examinations immediately after interview.

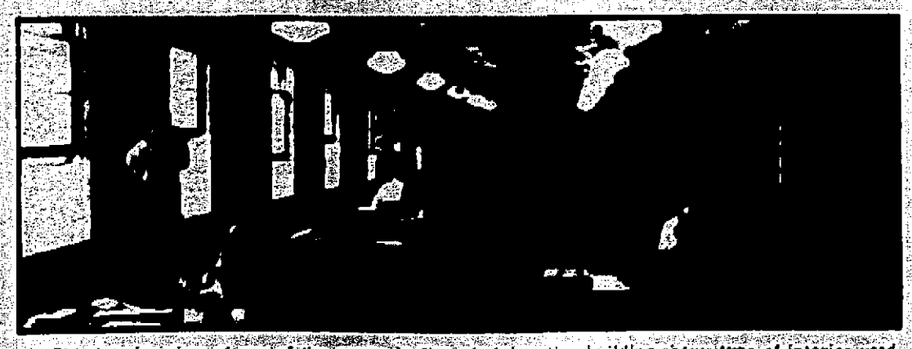


The administration building, above, houses offices of the U. S. army ordnance department and U. S. Rubber Co., to operate the plant.



This is the cafeteria, being equipped to serve several thousand meals daily, and send hundreds of more to workers on other parts of area.

Above is Major John S. Sears, commanding officer of the ordnance plant for the duration of the current sick leave of Col. John Huling Jr. Major Sears and his staff moved to the plant area this week, completing the removal of offices from the downtown area to the plant site.



This interior view of one of the rooms in the administration building shows type of interior used.

All War Plant Executive Offices Now Housed in Administration Area as Work Progresses.

By BOB BYRD

A cluster of buildings including those shown in the accompanying photographs, making up the administration of the Scioto Ordnance Plant, became the nerve center of the huge war project this week, following the completion last week-end of the moving of war plant executive offices from the downtown business district.

The move was completed when the office of Major John S. Sears, commanding officer, and his ordnance department staff moved into the administration building. The ordnance department and the U. S. Rubber Co. which will operate the plant for the war department will share the administration building.

In dormitory buildings like the one shown in an accompanying photograph, offices of the Huntington-Conkey Construction Co., Hubbard & Root, architect-engineers, and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in charge of Major Robert Lockridge now have office space. From these offices will direct the administration building will be handled the operation of all phases work on the plant, with probably over 1,000 office employes.

The largest unit of the administration area is the combination hospital and employment office, a large, sprawling, one-story building that is larger than the cafeteria and has approximately half the floor space of the administration building. The hospital section is planned on a standard layout from the surgeon-general's office and will include only a few beds. It will be well equipped to handle cases of all types of emergency cases and will handle the work of giving examinations to applicants for employment.

Three dormitory buildings, with 80 rooms, the cafeteria, administration building and 65 [illegible] 22 average size homes. It is broken up into private offices and long work rooms where workers sit at rows of desks.

Nearby is the cafeteria, to be operated by the U. S. Rubber Co., where facilities are being provided to serve several thousand meals daily, plus other hundreds of lunches to be sent to workers in distant parts of the area. There will be seating facilities for several hundred persons at one time, plus a private dining room equipped to serve 65. This building contains 10,000 square feet of floor space and is one story high. It will be by far the largest restaurant in Marion county.

Also in the administration area is the combination hospital and employment office, a large, sprawling, one-story building that is larger than the cafeteria and has approximately half the floor space of the administration building. The hospital section is planned on a standard layout from the surgeon-general's office and will include only a few beds. It will be well equipped to handle cases of all types of emergency cases and will handle the work of giving examinations to applicants for employment.

HEAVY BRITISH BOMBERS BLAST NAZI SUB BASE

Stirlings Carry Destructive Loads Near Luebeck.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 17—A force of Stirlings, Britain's biggest four-engined bombers, struck at Germany before the fall of darkness last night in an attack on submarine building yards five miles from hard-hit Luebeck and on shipyards at Flensburg, near the German-Danish border.

The raids carried to a climax daylight raids yesterday on objectives in Germany which opened with single-plane assaults on the Ruhr.

CAMP FOR WOMEN TO BE HELD AUG. 6-9

Places Open for Twenty-Five from Marion County.

Annual camp for women in the rural areas of Marion, Crawford, Wyandot, Richland, Seneca and Erie counties will be conducted Aug. 6-9 at Camp Pittenger, 13 miles north of Upper Sandusky.

Twenty-five Marion county women will be accepted, according to Mrs. Christine S. Cook, county home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Cook, Mrs. H. O. Kraner, Miss Mary Brockelsby, Mrs. A. G. Spring and Mrs. Hayes Holland will discuss the women's camp in a broadcast Saturday at 12:30 p. m. from Station WMRN.

Among the speakers will be Bruce Tom, rural sociologist from Ohio State university, and Miss Nina Mae Burson, Wyandot County home agent, who will give an illustrated talk on Thursday, Aug. 6.

Camp will open at 8 p. m. on Thursday with registration. At 9 there will be a homemade games display by Mrs. Tom. After supper there will be boating, committee meetings, the talk by Miss Burson and a musical game party in charge of Mr. Tom.

Friday and Saturday the mornings will be devoted to committee meetings, crafts for one group and discussions on community recreation.

At 2:30 each afternoon Miss Thelma Beall, home management specialist from Ohio State university, will speak and at 4 there will be a period for swimming, visiting, reading, hobbies, knitting and games.

The Seneca county women will be in charge of vespers both nights. Friday night Leo McCann of Ohio State university, who visited in Mexico this spring, will speak on "Our Southern Neighbors" and Saturday night there will be a program, "Camp 100 Years From Now."

Sunday morning there will be a Bible nature hike and at 3 the camp will close.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Bacon's Ruse

ALLEN shrugged and looked at the plain-clothesman. "Ready?" he asked and walked over to the door where he turned. "Sorry, Dean," he said. "This may be pretty rotten for the firm but there's not much I can do about it now."

"Bye, Joyce." And thanks, Dec," she added not looking at her. "Don't let them bully you and don't worry."

"Worry?" Della stood up and faced him. "Why should I worry? Do you? Have you ever?"

Joyce gasped at the outburst. Gone from the girl was the look of pain and dejection now her eyes struck sparks and her voice was still with emotion.

"It's that hateful pride of yours. You don't want help from me or anyone else. No matter how intolerable the situation you'll always have that stubborn indifference to protect you. You don't want a lawyer, you can't be bothered to defend yourself. You'd rather stay here than admit you're in trouble. All right. Stay here and rot a while. Maybe it will do you some good."

After that the silence was oppressive. Della continued to stare at him, waiting for some answer, but none came. With the first angry flare of spirit Ward Allen had recalled as though someone had struck him, then the look of hurt was gone, leaving his face stiff and impassive. Without a word he left the room.

Della sagged. She tried not to, keeping her head up defiantly, but something had gone out of her.

"Why did I have to do that?" she said, hopelessly.

Bacon stood glaring at the door, his long face still flushed. Thorndike ran his hand over his jaw and shook his head, scowling, his eyes puzzled.

Joyce was completely miserable. She did not know what to believe. She had seen the shocking effect of O'Conner's announcement in Ward Allen's face, seen him steel himself against the questioning that followed. Either Ward had thrown the gun away or the taxi driver had been mistaken.

But it was not this alone that made her feel so faint inside. Something terrible and frightening had happened to Ward and Della.

Cigarette Case

A chair scraped and Thorndike was walking around the table. "Now, now," he said. "He'll be all right and so will you. We'll get a lawyer and have him out before night."

He patted Della's shoulder, squeezing it so that she looked at him and tried to smile. Joyce stood up and Thorndike started for the door.

"Just a minute, Miss Stewart," Bacon was turned to the desk. "Will you take a look at this, please?"

Della gave him a questioning glance and stepped up beside him. Joyce could see Bacon gesture to something flat and gleaming on the desk.

"Ever see that before?"

Della picked up the object and Joyce saw it was a silver cigarette case. She waited while the girl turned the case over in her hand.

"I'm sorry, I haven't," she said. She did not replace the case but extended it to Bacon so that he had to accept it. Not until then, as he took it, holding two edges between thumb and middle finger, did Joyce realize what had happened.

Fear struck at her and she went cold inside. Della was walking towards Dean Thorndike. Bacon put the case on the desk, his back to the room, then Joyce knew what she had to do and was walking resolutely towards him.

"By the way, Lieutenant. Are you still holding that man Hueburn?"

"Yes," Bacon said, "but I don't know for how long. We haven't cracked him and his lawyer must have influence. Some pressure come down the line to the D. A. from Washington. If we don't get something soon we'll have to let him go."

He had turned to face her, leaning back on the desk, his hands braced at his sides. She stood quite close to him, trying to edge around him, talking, not knowing exactly what she said. Presently she made her smile a little more winning and approached the problem directly.

"Could I see that case?" Perhaps I may have——"

"I doubt it," Bacon said. He was smiling too, but there was a queer look in his gray eyes. "I don't think you've even seen it before."

A plain-clothes man appeared beside her and she realized that Bacon had pressed the buzzer.

"You can have this now, Wasey," he said, stepping so close to Joyce that she had to move back. "She can't identify it."

Joyce saw the plain-clothes man reach for the case. When he started out she saw he was holding it the same way Bacon had.

Then he was gone and she was walking to where Thorndike and Della waited, drawing on her gloves so that they would not see the fear in her eyes. Even in the hall she kept her face averted lest it should reveal her feelings. Della's fingerprints were on that case—and very soon now those prints would be compared with those on the glass from which Delia had sipped her drink in Perry Clarke's apartment.

Maybe He Did

Dean Thorndike handed them into his car and drove slowly down Berkeley Street, easing to a stop in front of the traffic light.

"We'll go down to the office," he said, "and I'll call Arnold Gage. He's the best lawyer in town for this sort of thing."

"I think Della would rather go home," Joyce said.

"Yes, please," Della said. "For a little while."

Thorndike started to speak, checked himself when he looked down at the girl at his side. The light changed and he shifted gears, continuing straight across.

"All right. I'll drop you off. You do look done in."

She was staring straight ahead, a look of blank despondency in her eyes.

"Why did I do that?" There was a catch in her voice but she quickly controlled it. "I wanted so to let you know it didn't matter to do something to help him. I didn't mean to be such a nasty little beast but——"

"Of course you didn't," Joyce said.

"I couldn't stand it. He just sat there as if nothing could possibly matter to him any more, as if he didn't even want us around."

"He didn't expect us," Joyce said. "He came in prepared to put up a good front and not let the lieutenant rattle him, and he didn't dare let down."

"Yes," Della said. "And how perfectly awful it must be for him."

"Just the same," Thorndike said, "I think he's taking the wrong attitude. That taxi driver could be mistaken but it does look as though Ward was out and around about that time. Why shouldn't he explain his movements? I don't know, Dee. I think he's hiding something."

There was more silence and then Thorndike spoke again.

"I don't like to say it, but there's one thing we ought to consider. Maybe he did kill Clarke."

Marion State Guard Company To Leave for Camp Sunday

Marion's Co. H, 2nd Infantry, Ohio State Guard, inducted June 8, will leave the armory Sunday at 8 a. m. for a week's training at Camp Zaleski in Vinton county.

At the camp they will join approximately 600 other members of the 2nd Infantry, including men from the Delaware and Marysville companies.

Saturday night from 7 to 9 the three officers and 35 of the 52 men in the Marion company who have arranged to be away from their work for a week will meet at the armory to receive equipment and roll their packs.

They will report at the armory at 7 Sunday morning and will leave at 8 on chartered buses.

Parents, families and friends of the men will be welcome to visit at the armory from 7 to 8 Sunday morning, Capt. Carl F. Ebert said.

Co. H Officers

Co. H officers in addition to Captain Ebert are County Clerk of Courts Elmer E. Smith, who is first lieutenant, and Howard D. Price, second lieutenant.

Each man will go to camp with two state-issue uniforms, their uniform in Marion Rifles, the organization from which they were recruited, for fatigue wear, and two blankets. They will provide their own toilet articles, underwear, socks and handkerchiefs and will be encouraged to take along athletic equipment such as tennis rackets and baseball equipment, and musical instruments for camp programs. Those who want to hike three miles to Lake Hope for swimming may take bathing suits.

Captain Ebert said that because of space limitations in transportation the men were being discouraged from taking cameras, except small models.

The captain said he presumed the weapons, such as tommy guns and weapons suitable for the anti-invasion tactics in which the State Guard will be trained, will be issued at camp.

"The men have done very well in arranging their employment schedules in order to have the week in camp and the officers are well satisfied with the turn-out for camp," Captain Ebert said.

Army Pay Scale

One man reported to him that his employer was cooperating to the extent of giving him a check which, added to what he will be paid at camp, will amount to a full week's pay.

The State Guard men will be paid on the same pay scale of the regular army, Captain Ebert said, starting with the $50 a month base pay for privates.

Camp Zaleski is located seven miles out of McArthur, O., in the Zaleski state park. Relatives and friends writing to the men in camp should address mail as follows:

GUARDSMAN'S NAME, RANK
CO. H, 2ND INFANTRY, O. S. G.
CAMP ZALESKI
ZALESKI, O.

The 2nd Infantry is scheduled to leave camp on Sunday, July 26, at 8 a. m. Co. H will be at the armory about noon.

WING ASSEMBLY LINE CHANGES

Detroit Plant Turns Out War Material a Little Differently Now.

DETROIT, July 17 — (Wide ...) the plant of the Murray Corporation of America they ... Wings for Victory"— ... assemblies of aluminum, ... and welded with up-to-... techniques for giant ... planes and high speed ...

... along on overhead ... and move on wheels ... assembly line ...

Only a few of the older workers in the plant recall that in the same buildings a quarter century ago ... plane sub-assemblies were produced—of plywood.

It was in the Murray plant, ... the factories of the J. C. ... company, that panels for ... wings and motor ... were made for planes ... to train American and British pilots for that earlier war.

C. H. and C. D. Widman, brothers still with the corporation in executive capacities, recall that the sub-assemblies then were referred to as "Flying Wood work." Production problems were numerous despite the fact many techniques of the automobile industry, including the overhead convevor system, were adapted to the job.

Forming of the panels, for example, was accomplished by soaking sheets of plywood in hot water and tying them onto forms, where they were kept about 24 hours to dry into the desired shapes.

Joining presented another problem. Tests showed that rivets would pop out of joined pieces before the plywood gave way under weight. So the manufacturers used screws and glue.

The Widmans recall that they had no such difficulties as have developed in connection with keeping certain types of heat-treated aluminum sheets soft and ready for use. This problem incident to present-day mass production of the bomber plane assemblies, has been overcome through use of portable iceboxes into which the flat aluminum sheets are stored after going through the heat-treating process.

The brothers also report that employment of young women on aircraft sub-assembly work is not new. Many were employed in 1917, but instead of the trim slacks now mandatory in the interests of safety, they wore ankle-length dresses that resembled "Mother Hubbard" costumes, and head coverings of the boudoir cap type.

The department of commerce has files on 600,000 foreign business firms.

LAND TROOPS MUST LICK FOE

British Sources Feel Heavy Air Raids Won't Defeat Germany.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 17—Devastating as it has been in spots, Britain's air offensive against Germany still is short of expectations and still below the peak of striking power it must—and will—develop to become a decisive factor, air experts said today.

The appraisal of these sources, who would not permit their names to be used, is based on the 47 nights since the RAF opened the allies' second front in the air with the mass attack on Cologne last May 30, the first of three 1,000-plane raids on Germany.

Associated Press tabulations show that beginning with the Cologne raid the RAF has made about 8,750 bomber-trips against Germany in fulfillment of Prime Minister Churchill's promise to erase Nazi industry "city by city."

The air offensive, made at an announced cost of 261 bombers up to last night is regarded by informed British sources, however, as below expectations.

They said they believed the high hopes raised when the mass bombing of Cologne thrilled the United Nations appeared premature and "really intensive" attacks on industry in central and eastern Germany must wait for the longer nights of autumn.

These experts agreed that three reasons explain the RAF's failure to keep up the thousand-plane pace.

1. Exceptionally bad weather—air officers say the nights must be "pretty nearly perfect" or else targets are obscured and fog imperils the RAF's huge bombers taking off and landing on home airfields.

2. Drain on the RAF bomber command by operations elsewhere—the campaign in Egypt, the threat to India.

3. Failure of the allied air forces to produce a long-range fighter capable of escorting heavy bombers over targets in daylight attacks.

This it was asserted, the RAF's scale apparently does not yet mean relief for Russia.

Soviet sources here appreciate the immense damage British bomber have dealt to German war plants but, in the opinion of one:

"Only British and Americans soldiers fighting on the continent of Europe under the protection of their bomber and fighter fleets will divert German troops from the eastern front."

GROCERY SELLS BONDS

Alfred LaPierre, manager of the master Kroger store here, has announced that beginning today, American Heroes day, defense bonds will be sold in all Kroger stores. The grocery firm has just received the approval of the United States Treasury department to sell and issue the bonds. According to the plan now in effect, either war stamps, which have been on sale in Kroger stores for more than a year, or cash will be accepted in payment for the bonds. Customers will fill out application forms in Kroger stores to be sent to the nearest branch office of the company where the bonds will be issued and sent directly to purchasers within one week.

HEER RECOMMENDS RELEASE OF FUNDS

Would Turn Over Ohio Funds to Federal Government.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 17—Walter F. Heer, seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next month, suggested today that Ohio turn over its treasury surplus except money needed for home defense, to the federal government "for the business of winning the war."

Estimating a surplus next Jan. 1 of between 40 and 50 million dollars, Heer said in a campaign pamphlet:

"If I am elected governor, my first act will be to ask the general assembly to enact the legislation necessary to make these millions available to the extent that they are not needed for home defense, by loans to the federal government or otherwise, for the business of winning the war."

Heer also said he would ask the legislature to reduce the present 3 per cent sales tax to two cents on the dollar and abolish the coupon system of collection.

It takes 71 railroad trains, each with a minimum of 20 cars, to move an army division of 15,000 men with weapons and equipment.

LARGE CROWD SEES BOMB RAID DRILL

Incendiary Bombs Demonstrated at Stadium.

A large group of citizens witnessed the demonstration on the handling of incendiary bombs given last night at the Harding stadium. Present in a body were the air raid wardens, for whom the demonstration was planned as part of their instruction for civilian defense, the auxiliary police of the civilian defense organization and representatives from various factories.

Four training incendiaries were set off and the sand and water methods of extinguishing them demonstrated. The first two were demonstrated by Earl Ruhlman, chief air raid warden, and the remaining two were extinguished by two air raid wardens chosen from the group. The bombs were mounted on wooden platforms and were so rapidly extinguished that the platform was only slightly burned.

This meeting completes the air wardens' instruction on the handling of incendiary bombs. War gases will be studied next.

O.S.U. DEAN, COSTA RICA BROTHERS TO BROADCAST

To Present Weekly Radio Forum at WMRN Sunday

Dean Estor Allen Gaw of Ohio State university and two Costa Rica brothers studying in the United States, will appear on the weekly Marion Community Forum broadcast Sunday at 4:30 p. m. over Station WMRN.

Mrs. W. N. Harder, for whom the Pan-American scholarship fund of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs is named, and D. T. Mills, county superintendent of schools, will preside as co-chairmen for a discussion of the achievements of the "good neighbor policy."

With Dean Gaw will be Jorge Manuel Dengo and Omar Dengo. Jorge Manuel, elder of the brothers, a student at Ohio State for two years, is now studying to graduate in engineering at the University of Minnesota. He is in this country on a scholarship from his own country which provides him with all necessities. Omar is at Lawrence college in Appleton, Minn., studying a liberal arts course on a scholarship from Lawrence college.

Both young men speak English. Dean Gaw said in a letter this week to Mr. Mills.

FARM BUREAU OFFERS NEW AID PROPOSAL

Would Replace Crop Control with Subsidies.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 17—Distribution and consumption subsidies should replace government crop control in a wartime program for more abundant production, trustees of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation assert.

The board termed a program outlined in a resolution to the American Farm Bureau Federation yesterday a "new approach to the farm problem."

It urged the national organization to shift its emphasis "from crop restriction for higher prices to increased production and distribution at the lowest possible cost consistent with fair returns to farmers, laborers and capital."

"In view of war demands for all-out production, the present program . . . should be abandoned and a plan substituted to encourage production of all things needed," the resolution stated. "The ever-normal granary . . . should not be used as a price-fixing instrument."

If government subsidies are continued, the trustees declared, "it is safer . . . to subsidize distribution and consumption of the goods we need and desire than to subsidize the restriction of production."

ASSOCIATION ASKS AID TO CARE FOR PATIENT

Bed Sought for Man Ill From Tuberculosis.

An appeal for a twin-size bed, springs and mattress for a Marion man who is an advanced tuberculosis patient and must be isolated from his family, was made today by Mrs. W. E. Miley of 203 South Seffner avenue, executive secretary of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis association.

Anyone having the badly needed furnishings and willing to give them to the association should call Mrs. Miley at 4687. Transportation arrangements will be made by the association.

The bed will be set up in the association's portable one-room tuberculosis cottage, which will be erected on the lawn of the patient's home. The structure, with screened sides, was built about eight years ago by boys of the Harding High school vocational shop and has not been used for several years because the association and county commissioners had funds to hospitalize serious cases, Mrs. Miley said in making the appeal.

However, both the commissioners and the association now are without funds for hospital care and the cottage is being brought into use.

CANTON CHOSEN FOR TEST SCRAP DRIVE

Plan to Move Discarded Cars to Junkyards.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 17—Canton has been chosen as a jumping-off place for a test drive to move discarded old jalopies to the automobile graveyards to be scrapped for war production, the office of war information disclosed today.

Under supervision of John J. Sheehan, district chief of the automobile graveyard section of northeastern Ohio, war production board inspectors will contact scores of locations where old discarded jalopies are known to be, and request the owners to sell the old cars to auto-wreckers.

"This test drive, if successful, will be the pattern for a nation-wide drive of similar nature," said Sheehan. "Canton was chosen because the citizens of that city have proven they are scrap-conscious and cooperative with all the scrap programs thus far initiated by the government.

OPA's Present Budget Would Curtail Activity

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 17 — The present figures in the office of price administration's budget, says the OPA Director Birkett L. Williams, will mean a reduction in price control activities in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and Michigan.

The senate approved an appropriation of $125,000,000 yesterday and sent the measure to the house, which previously had set the figure at $75,000,000. The OPA's budget request was for $161,000,000.

This five-state region would have had $15,000,000 for services designed to hold down the cost of living under the original budget request, but under the senate figure would make only $9,000,000, said Williams.

HOME BIRTHS MAY INCREASE

CHICAGO, July 17—Gasoline rationing and the tire shortage may increase the number of home deliveries of babies, Dr. Margaret Baker of Columbus, O., told the American Osteopathic Association today. She added that should military needs require "rationing" of hospital services, maternity cases probably would be among the first affected.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Barbed wire used by Uncle Sam's fighting forces is vastly different from that used on American farms. Army and Marine barbed wire is much heavier and the barbs, about three inches in length, are more vicious than ordinary barbed wire.

The Marine Corps pays fifty cents for each twelve yards, or 36 feet of this specially manufactured barbed wire. The Army and Marine Corps needs thousands upon thousands of feet for defensive warfare. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will insure sufficient quantity for their needs. Invest at least ten percent of your wages in War Bonds every pay day.

LIGHT REGISTRATION SHOWS INTEREST LAG

Indications of Small Primary Vote Seen in Apathy.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 17 — A dearth of new registrations and voter transfers indicated widespread lack of interest in the Aug. 11 primary, and presages very light balloting, political observers asserted today.

In Cuyahoga county, where interest in Democratic primary contests probably is greatest because of organization fights against two incumbent congressmen, new registrations and transfers were about half those in 1938, when there also was no presidential election. Election board reports from many other counties show a similar lack of interest.

Another indication of the average voter's current lack of interest in politics was the general apathy towards former Gov. Martin L. Davey's endorsement of former State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Morrow County Board Votes on School Date

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 17—The Morrow county board of education has voted to recommend that all schools in the county school system, which includes all but Mt. Gilead, be opened two weeks later than usual this fall.

The serious shortage of farm labor, combined with the fact that the Morrow county fair is scheduled for the first week in September, is responsible for the decision. Mt. Gilead school officials have not acted on the matter.

Rationing Board Rooms Approved in Mt. Gilead

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 17—Dr. G. B. Robinson, owner of the Tucker Block building, said Thursday that he had been notified by Steve McKirgan, chairman of the Morrow county rationing board, that the federal OPA has approved rental of the rooms formerly occupied by the Carter 5c to $1 store on South Main street.

The rationing board offices will be moved from their present location to the new one today. A. T. Breese, former county coordinator, will act as clerk of the county rationing board under the new setup and Mrs. Warren Gordon will serve as clerk in the rationing offices.

Bucyrus Mayor Fines Youth on Suspicion

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 17—Charged with being a suspicious character Donald Feighner, 20, of East River street, was fined $23 and costs in the courts of Mayor William F. Whiteamire Thursday.

Police stated Feighner had been identified as the man who followed a Park avenue woman home from her night shift work at the General Electric plant Wednesday and also as the prowler who had been reported in various sections of the residential districts during the last two weeks.

$25,000 IN GLASS BROKEN

CINCINNATI, July 17—A glass company executive estimated that at least $25,000 of window glass was shattered in Wednesday night's downtown gasoline explosion which killed four men. Eighteen truck drivers volunteered last night to give blood to Kenneth Bottorf, 24-year-old truck driver, who was near death at General hospital early today. Bottorf and the four men killed were in or at the entrance of the Hodge rent-a-car agency when the gasoline exploded.

They'll Do

MORALE has been worked overtime. Too many busybodies have tried to do too many things to improve it when all it needed to put it in the pink was a little news of the right kind. There's no substitute for facts.

Give the people a few more stories like the flying marines who went aloft to defend Midway against Japanese bombers, knowing they were at a hopeless disadvantage but fighting so well that only one of 30 survived to tell about it, and let the orators keep their morale restoratives, vitamins and sedatives.

Let the people have the evidence as it becomes obtainable of the stupendous performance of their army's service of supply that is transporting men and materials to the four corners of the earth and they'll refuse to be discouraged by the pinheadedness of their congressmen, so many of whom are out kissing for votes that action on important legislation must be held off till they can be coaxed to come back to Washington.

Tell the straight story—and tell it often—of the accomplishments of the men of action in the nation's war effort on the production front. Give the Donald M. Nelsons their just dues and turn out the lights on the pikers and hecklers hoping to sell their various and sundry patent political medicines to cure the results of their own chowder-headed mistakes.

The men in the camps, the men on the fighting fronts, the men on the machines, the men on the ships are all right. They'll do. They've proved themselves. Day by day they're building a new tradition of American courage and toughness. They are becoming the heroes of a new national legend. This country has nothing to apologize for when they put their best foot forward. All it needs to overcome for the sake of its morale is to keep its worst foot from coming forward instead. The war has placed a premium on results. They're all that count now.

New Fronts Aren't Improvised

ONE of the distinct probabilities of the war is growing resentment against the United States and Great Britain for not opening a new front at any cost to relieve Russia. The resentment, it may be expected, will be voiced sharply, loudly and often by Russia's ideological sympathizers in both countries.

What strategists may be planning in secret, but it is obvious, that new fronts can't be improvised; that to attempt to open front unsuccessfully would be disastrous; and that Russia cannot blame the British and Americans if they are in the embarrassing predicament of not being able to strike at Germany, while its hands are full with another enemy. Had it not been for Russia's decision to stand aloof from Great Britain and France in 1939—and in fact to reach an understanding with Germany—there might never have been a first front. To the extent that they are handicapped in their present life-and-death struggle by the inability of their allies to relieve them of a large share of the fighting burden, the Russians can explain the situation to themselves in terms of their inability—or was it failure?—to relieve France and Great Britain when they were fighting for their lives in 1940.

This will not be acceptable, of course, to the friends of Russia, but it may have a slightly soothing effect on ordinary Americans who feel uncomfortable in the presence of demands for all-out assistance to the harrassed Russians at once. They are anxious for their government to do everything possible, and they believe it is. No recriminations for inability to do more are in order.

Their Faces

AT FIRST glance there is nothing about the faces of the men and women picked up by the FBI for treason and espionage to distinguish them. They might belong to anybody.

But as more and more of them are published one peculiarity is noticeable. Perhaps it is the circumstances under which they are being photographed for identification that makes them look so deadly serious, but probably it is more than that.

These are the faces of men and women who have been a long time absent from pleasant ways of living. The tell-tale lines of good humored people even when they are wearing serious expressions are not there.

They are the faces of human beings who have struck off deliberately from the middle course and plunged into the bramble patches of fanaticism. Theirs is the lean and hungry look that has marked extremists ever since they first turned their talents to the disruption of political structures.

Perhaps it is only an accidental impression that might be destroyed if all the faces of the German agents and sympathizers plotting to destroy the United States could be studied in a group. But perhaps it is not accidental at all. One does not expect a person who plots against the lives of others to have a normal appearance. A professional murderer cannot reasonably be expected to look like the famous Mr. and Mrs. Doaks, U. S. A.

News Behind the News

Farm Lobbyists Add Troubles to Henderson's Efforts To Control Prices.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 17—One day last week the farm lobbyists trooped unobserved into a closed session of a senate appropriations sub-committee. In line they came, representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Grange, the U. S. live stock group. The newspapers did not find out about it.

Next day a peculiar amendment, loaded with poison arrows for Leon Henderson, the price administrator, appeared strangely in the annual appropriation bill for the office of price administration which the sub-committee had been handling. This amendment, said Mr. Henderson shall not fix the price ceiling on farm products or even processed goods, like cotton shirts and leather shoes—which does not reflect 110 per cent of parity back to the farmers.

Everyone said it was merely a restatement of existing law, but no one bothered to explain why the farm lobbyists felt it necessary to restate such a law in an appropriation bill dealing with other matters. To the initiated in this peculiar political farm business, however, it was evident that the farm lobbyists had set out to break up Mr. Henderson's price policy.

Effect On Henderson's Plan

The amendment would cause Henderson to abandon his present program, reopen thousands of price items in the farm and processed schedules and this time follow Agriculture Secretary Wickard's direction to fix much higher prices than now allowed—prices which would give the farmer that 110 per cent parity index.

The farm lobbyists and their congressional bloc felt justified in playing this and other little tricks on Mr. Henderson because he has not followed the law they wrote for him in the first place. They feel tricked too.

Some months ago they succeeded in enacting provisions which they thought would give Agriculture Secretary Wickard veto power over Henderson and would assure the farmer his 110 per cent. Mr. Roosevelt stopped that by ominously informing the world in general (but particularly Mr. Wickard) that Mr. Wickard worked for him and would be expected to follow his wishes.

Henderson never consulted Mr. Wickard on anything except wool at the outset and later on fruits and vegetables.

Lately Mr. Wickard has reformed hands with farm lobbyists and is supposed to be working on Mr. Roosevelt to get an approval of the pending separate bill granting 100 per cent loans to farmers. Mr. Roosevelt's budget director has approved this, although some authorities suspect that such a permanent step now would put all private trading out of business.

Henderson Angered

On the other hand and in the other corner Mr. Henderson is mad as a hornet. He is particularly angry at Wickard for having written him the recent letter forcing him to boost the prices on dried and canned fruits, which he had set to reflect less than 110 per cent parity. He held an off-the-record press conference to vent his anger. Some of the words he used were hotter than the American airmen customarily employ when they go into a dive on a Jap ship.

All this back and forth news devolves down into the issue of whether the administration's price program will be allowed to stand. There is some justice in the arguments on both sides.

The farmers' goal for years has been 100 per cent parity, and now that the war has brought it in sight the farm bloc seems greedy in seeking the 110 per cent. Yet the average farm income is much less than the nation's average. Farm labor costs are practically doubled and a shortage exists. Furthermore the administration has let labor break through its economic ceiling in some few lines and is supposed to be about to increase the whole labor scale in the "little steel" test case.

But as far as justice is all the people is concerned, it is obvious that a breakdown of the Henderson effort at this early date would hoist the nation into a dangerous inflationary realm. Prices would be forced up abnormally by either farm or labor concessions and start a destruction of values, the end of which no one can perceive.

Only one decision is possible for Mr. Roosevelt if he wants to protect the interests of all. He must stop both the farm and labor blocs.

Deals Death in Darkness

Czech Flier Knows How To Find Jerries at Night.

LONDON—The Czech ace, Karel Kuttelwascher, who has what colleagues call the uncanny knack of smelling out homeward-bound German bombers, is recognized by Air Ministry officials as Britain's best night fighter.

Week after week the stocky, fair-haired flyer, 27, is mentioned in air ministry bulletins for night fighting exploits. Sometimes they report shooting down one, two or three German planes on lone night patrol; sometimes only breaking up a raid by inflicting damage. In ten days he was credited with destroying seven bombers at night and has an official bag of 15 destroyed at night, six in daytime.

Fellow pilots like the quiet, unassuming Czech and call his "Old Kuttel," envy his gift for finding Germans at night.

Since his arrival in England he has married a Welsh girl. On leave he putters around in the garden at his Mill Hill (London) home.

But flying a four-cannon Hurricane, he is reckoned a deadly killer. Other pilots in his squadron say he'll look at a map in the operations room, point to perhaps a small, unimportant German airdrome and say: "I'll go there tonight."

It's odd-on, pilots say, that the Germans will be using that airdrome that night and that "Old Kuttel" will relieve the Luftwaffe of a plane or two.

His tactics are simple. He developed them himself, but now they are widely used by R.A.F. "intruder" pilots.

He hovers high over a German airdrome waiting for landing lights to be switched on, then pounces on a German bomber when it is only a few hundred feet high, preparing to land. The German plane, it is reckoned, will crash even if not badly damaged because of the low altitude. Defending guns are unable to open up on him because they might hit their own plane.

Kindness Pays

By International News Service

SPRINGFIELD, O.—An act of kindness performed by Mrs. Bertha Becker Fish's father 36 years ago paid dividends amounting to $175,000.

When David Stockschalder, his wife and seven children ran out of money while attempting to drive from New York to California in a wagon drawn by a team of horses, they stopped at J. L. Becker's home near Springfield. That was in 1906.

Becker and his family sized up the situation and took the Stockschalders into their home, fed and sheltered them for nearly three months. When his confidence was restored and his family well and happy once more, Stockschalder decided to continue westward.

"Friends are few. I find in my travels," Stockschalder vowed as he left the Becker home. "Some day, if the Lord wills, I will repay you three-fold."

Mrs. Fish is the only surviving member of the Becker family. A telegram from Stockschalder's attorney informed her she had been named the sole heir to the Californian's $175,000 estate.

Mrs. Fish said she had not learned how Stockschalder had made his fortune. All members of his family have died, she said.

So Let's Have Another Cup of Coffee

A Bulletin from National Geographic Society.

AMERICANS—all 130,000,000 of us—have been drinking coffee at the rate of 550 cups apiece each year. This country consumes more coffee than any other country—more than 2,000,000,000 pounds a year. This is the coffee rationing problem looming on the horizon where German submarines are sinking boats northbound from South America and vice versa.

More than 60 per cent of the coffee consumed by the United States comes from Brazil. Almost three billion of the world's four billion trees sweep up the mountain slopes and spread along the valley floors of this one South American country. The entire economic structure of Brazil is linked with the coffee market, and any threat to American coffee cups is a threat to Brazil. Second in world coffee production and exports is Colombia. The balance comes from 12 other Latin American coffee producers with a very small portion arriving in American ports from Arabia, Africa and the Netherlands Indies.

Up and Down

Coffee—or kahweh, as the Arabians first called it—has fallen into disgrace and risen many times since the early Mohammedans first used it to keep awake during long religious ceremonies. After its introduction into Cairo in the 1500's it was forbidden on the grounds that it was highly intoxicating. Warehouses storing the seditious berry were burned and coffee house owners driven from the villages. Later the feeling leaned so far the other way in favor of coffee that two Persian doctors were hanged because they said coffee was harmful.

The popularity of the coffee house spread from Constantinople, where the first was reported to have been established, to almost every corner of Europe. English tea drinkers opened their first coffee house in 1652, and when Charles II came into power there were at least 3,000 such places in London alone. Charles viewed them as centers of political agitation and ordered them stamped out.

Coffee was first used not as a beverage but as a paste similar to a chocolate bar. Even when its use became more general it was sold only in pharmacies and not by the pound but by the ounce. In London, during a serious smallpox epidemic, inhabitants living near the coffee-roasting plants escaped the dreaded disease. At that time medical men claimed the "protective" fumes from the coffee roasters to be responsible, and coffee was used in sick rooms as a disinfectant. Certain Viennese doctors even claimed steam from hot coffee to be extremely beneficial to the eyes.

25 Per Cent Cut

A 25 per cent reduction in coffee deliveries to retail stores has reduced the number of packages and cans on grocers' shelves, but there is no shortage of coffee in the producing countries. Brazil alone can produce enough coffee in a single year to supply the entire world for a year and two months. For the past several years Brazil has produced too much coffee to be consumed by existing markets, and coffee was burned and dumped into the Atlantic.

America's coffee import quota—set by agreement for 1942 at 19 over the two billion pound mark—is a good portion of this already has reached port. Whether the balance will come in depends upon ships. The threatened shortage, as with other commodities shipped over water, boils down to the shortage of available ships.

Sailing vessels idly bobbing around in southern waters, too small for real war duty, but large enough to carry coffee and other Latin American commodities to American ports are being considered for this purpose. Wood and wind—yesterday's travel—slower but less subject to submarine attack because of the absence of motors, may replace the swifter but more vulnerable steel and steam of today's freighters. If the plan goes through, the blue Caribbean will be flecked with the white sails of the "coffee fleet."

The United States can raise coffee. In the 1920's the department of agriculture experimentally testing the behavior of the coffee tree in American soil and climate produced coffee both in southern Florida and in sheltered spots along the coast of southern California. But like rubber, coffee has always been imported more cheaply than it could have been produced in the less favorable soils and climates of the United States.

Postal Employes Getting Along on Wage Scale Established in 1925 When Things Were Cheap.

By DAMON RUNYON

IT WILL no doubt astonish many of my readers to learn that those faithful public servants, the postoffice employes, have had no salary advance in 17 years.

In these times, with the cost of living away up and with workers in almost every other line the beneficiaries of wage increases, the postoffice employes must get along on the same money they have been receiving since February 28, 1925.

According to the bureau of labor statistics the general level of all wholesale prices has advanced 30 per cent and the cost of living in New York City has gone up 14 per cent.

The weekly wage earnings of workers in defense and manufacturing industries have been boosted 41 per cent, yet no additional remuneration has been given postoffice workers. They must meet the higher cost of living on the wage scale of 1925, which strikes me as a deplorable situation in view of the service given the public by these workers.

"Those increases," said Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada, referring to the wage boosts received by the industrial workers, "were obtained by employes who were in a position to enforce their demands, whereas the postal workers can only appeal to congress and accept what is granted."

DURING the depression years the postal employes took a 27 per cent salary cut. This was restored to them when business picked up, but the scale for postoffice clerks and letter carriers of from $1,700 to a maximum of $2,100 has not been improved in almost a generation. From this amount 3 per cent is deducted for the pension fund for an approximate weekly scale of $38, though I believe the deduction increased to 5 per cent the first of this month.

Now then, out of their wages which seem so pitifully inadequate as compared to what is being paid millions of other workers at present, the postoffice employes must pay the same prices for food and clothing and other necessities. They must contribute to the national defense effort by buying War Stamps.

They must maintain their homes and bring up their families and lend support to the neighborhood churches and to charitable movements, local and community. It would be small wonder if many of the skilled postal employes decided to leave the service and enter war activities where their income would be commensurate with the cost of living.

THE work of these employes in handling the mail during our great emergencies has been of enormous value. A vast amount of new labor was added to their routine lately, but it is taken care of with such efficiency that the general public does not realize the magnitude of the task. We have come to accept the perfection of the postoffice department as a matter of course, without pausing to consider what it would be without it.

Just think for some of the little jobs that have been handed to the department and its employes in the past few years—the handling of the mails for the publicity campaign of the NRA, the soldiers' bonus, the unemployment census, the social security, the alien registration, the motor vehicle tax stamps, the enemy alien registration and the defense savings stamps and bonds. These taxed the facilities of the department and the patience and energy of the employes to the utmost, but there was never a hitch.

The salaries of the employes are fixed by law and they must therefore depend upon the public to speak in their behalf. They have no labor relations board to appeal to, to maintain the standard of living and thus enable them to continue to buy the necessities required. The answer would seem to be immediate action increasing the wage scale to a degree commensurate with the conditions of the times.

Designs Last Type Face

LOS ANGELES—Frederic William Goudy, hailed as one of the greatest typographic artisans of all ages, is now working on his last type design.

White-haired and 77 years old, he envisages the end of his long career in the three decades and more that he has devoted to his trade, the master craftsman has designed 113 faces of type.

Asked the name of his final contribution to the printing craft, he said, "I'm going to call it the 'Goudy 30,' explaining that in printing "30" long has been the symbol for the end.

Goudy yet doesn't know just how this "30" will turn out and described it only as Roman type, with a Gothic influence. Judging from his 113 past performances it should be something of simplicity and beauty.

But the ruddy, genial typographer believes he has made enough type faces for one man and has decided to retire at the completion of the "Goudy 30."

His theory of type design is that fine printing demands fine type—a type without mannerism, its forms distinct, its legibility easy."

Printers credit Goudy's influence with spreading type of the curlicues, scrollwork and flourishes which typographers prior to his time thought necessary.

"They should be designed to help the reader not to display the skill of the designer," he says.

The dean of type designers has a favorite of the hundred odd types he has designed—a face described as "Medieval," inspired by an old manuscript which he Romanized.

"I've never been seduced by the modern trend," he relates. "I've always been a traditionalist. I've taken the best of the old designs and improved them to the best of my ability."

Goudy views his contribution to one of the world's oldest crafts from a matter-of-fact standpoint. He speaks with pride, not of his work, but of his accomplishments during his spare time.

"I've published four books now, and they all selling," he declares proudly. "How's that for a fellow who never even went to college?"

MARYSVILLE PROSECUTOR USES FLYING TACKLE!

Football Tactic Stops Boston Man AWOL

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 17—A flying tackle by Prosecutor William [illegible] Coleman saved a man for the U. S. army. The man, Charles Johnson of Boston, Mass., is being held in county jail here. He broke away from Sheriff Homer S. Roosa who was returning him to jail after taking him to a dentist for treatment.

When Johnson started running, the sheriff fired a shot into a tree on North Court street here, hoping to stop him. The bullet changed courses several times and finally went through the front window of the home of Robert Ackerman who was deputy sheriff under Roosa for one term.

With many residents in pursuit, Johnson ran to the edge of town where he was headed off by Prosecutor Coleman and Milton Rausch, head of the City Dairy here. The prosecutor was closer to him and a flying tackle brought both down in the middle of a muddy creek. Johnson was loaded in Mr. Rausch's car and brought back to the jail. On the way back Mr. Rausch recalled he had picked Johnson up as a hitchhiker about three weeks ago and had taken him to Columbus.

Johnson was arrested last week at Richwood by Sheriff Roosa and allegedly confessed to being AWOL from Camp Dix, N. J. He stated that he had left camp last May, in the company of Tom Ridgeway of Richwood.

Invasion This Summer Favored by U. S. Public As Time To Beat Nazis

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 17—Nazi military successes in Russia have given rise to renewed demands both here and in England for a second front against Hitler in Europe.

The decision rests, of course, with military leaders, but when and if they make such a move it will be closely in line with the ideas of the nation's armchair strategists, barber shop generals and country store tacticians whose military judgment on such matters as airpower has incidentally proved better than that of many military experts.

At any rate, the consensus of amateur opinion in the United States as well as in Canada and Britain is that the Allies should undertake a large-scale invasion of Europe with what equipment they now have rather than wait until they are stronger.

This is by no means a unanimous opinion. About one-third of the country counsels a waiting policy in order to accumulate greater military strength and reserves for the blow.

As measured by an Institute survey the attitude of the country shapes up as follows on the second front issue:

Attempt attack Now	48%
Wait till we are stronger	34
Undecided	18

A recent poll by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion showed that approximately half (46 per cent) of all Canadians interviewed were in favor of the opening of a second front now while 18 per cent wanted to wait, 6 per cent were against a second front and the rest were undecided.

A similar survey in Britain conducted last month found 49 per cent believing that an invasion of the continent this summer would be worth the cost, while 17 per cent disagreed and the rest were without opinion.

Opportune Time Stressed

In the United States, the chief arguments put up by those who favor a second front this year are that every hour of delay works in Hitler's favor, that later on the Germans may be too strong for us to attack successfully, that everything must be done to keep Russia in the war and to help her by diverting Hitler. And, finally, they believe that since Hitler is occupied in Russia and in Egypt this is the opportune time to strike.

Those opposed based their opinions on a single argument—that it would be folly to send ill-trained, ill-equipped troops against seasoned veterans and better equipment. In the opinions of this group "half way measures are worse than none."

Japanese Naval Losses Total 89 Fighting Ships

By The Associated Press

The Japanese navy has lost 89 fighting ships since Pearl Harbor, an Associated Press compilation of official announcements from the U. S. army, navy and General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia disclosed.

Similar announcements disclose 48 U. S. naval craft of all categories, including auxiliaries, lost on all sea fronts since the submarine sinking of the Reuben James in the north Atlantic, Oct. 30, 1941.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the naval affairs committee several months ago estimated the Japanese navy had 260 fighting craft.

The following is a table of Japanese naval strength based on Walsh's report and Associated Press loss compilations:

	In Service	Sunk
Battleships	10	1
Aircraft Carriers	8	6
Cruisers	46	21
Destroyers	125	32
Submarines	71	29

Walsh gave the following classification of ships under construction by the Japanese:

Battleships, 8; aircraft carriers, 2; cruisers, 10; destroyers, 11; submarines, 7.

ACCEPTANCE OF POLICY ASKED

WLB Requests Labor To Take Its Decisions with "Self-Restraint."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 17 — The war labor board called upon organized labor today to accept with "self-restraint and statesmanship" a wage stabilization policy which permitted an increase of 44 cents a day for "Little Steel" workers, instead of $1 asked by the union.

The policy, made public late yesterday in the board's decision on the case, was designed to maintain the purchasing power of hourly wage rates as of January, 1941.

"We are convinced," said the opinion of Chairman William H. Davis, "that the yardsticks of wage stabilization thus applied are fair and equitable and at the same time sufficient to prevent the cost of living from spiraling upward because of wage adjustments. We think they lead to a 'terminal' for the tragic race between wages and prices."

"On this basis labor will have made its move of self-restraint in the seven-point (anti-inflation) program. If all other groups likewise do their part we may expect to get and hold for the duration of the war stability of standards and the freedom from apprehension that goes with such stability."

Pending a meeting with the steel union's policy committee in Pittsburgh today, Philip Murray, president of the union as well as the CIO, declined comment.

Dr. George W. Taylor, writing the principal opinion on wages, said: "This directive order calls directly upon the steel workers, and indirectly upon all labor, to accept the sacrifices which are their share under the national program for adjusting our domestic economy to the needs of total war."

Bethlehem Workers Express Dissatisfaction

By The Associated Press

BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 17 — The executive committee of five CIO United Steel Workers local unions expressed dissatisfaction today with the war labor board's recommendation of a 44-cents-a-day increase for "Little Steel" employes and described the situation in this steel center as "tense and explosive."

The WLB decision is causing definite unrest in the Bethlehem Steel plant here, the committee declared in telegrams to President Roosevelt, CIO President Philip Murray and William H. Davis, WLB chairman.

into North Main street. Federal route 4 and 23 are on North Main street.

Center-Davids Route

On the Center and Davids street line the buses will cross Fleis avenue from Center to Bennett street instead of going west to Curve street as now routed. The route from there on to Woodrow avenue on Davids will remain unchanged. However, on Woodrow avenue the buses will turn and cross Barks avenue to Sheridan road instead of continuing west on Woodrow avenue to Sheridan road.

Service will be discontinued east from Grand avenue to the city limits on the Mt. Vernon avenue run. This part of the route was operated on a two-hour interval as a convenience to residents in that section and was not used by the possible recipients.

The time of the bus schedules and the routes of the south and East Center street lines will remain unchanged.

Mrs. Mary E. Quinn Dies at Galion Hospital

Special to The Star

GALION, July 17—Mrs. Mary E. Quinn, 82, of Galion died Thursday at 4:35 p. m. at City hospital after an illness of several years.

She was born March 5, 1860 in Noble county to George and Lucinda Fowler Carrothers. In 1890 she married George W. Quinn, who died in 1939. Mrs. Nana Leaning of Galion, five nieces and three nephews survive. Four brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

She had lived in Galion most of her life.

Funeral was to be held at the Snyder Funeral home this afternoon. The body will be shipped to Bloomington, Ill., today for burial.

JESS H. HASTINGS DIES NEAR LA RUE

Was Well-Known Western Marion County Farmer.

Special to The Star

LA RUE, O., July 17—Jess Hayes Hastings, 66, member of one of the oldest families in La Rue vicinity and prominent farmer in western Marion county, died today at 12:25 a. m. in his home five miles north of La Rue on Harding Highway-W. Death followed a three-week illness of influenza.

Mr. Hastings was born at La Rue Aug. 17, 1875, to John Dee Hastings and Americus Ann Gillespie Hastings, both natives of the community. His marriage to Miss LaVina Augenstein took place in 1898.

Surviving with the widow are two daughters, Mrs. D. H. Gorman of 352 Girard avenue, Marion, and Mrs. C. C. Holliday of La Rue; a son, Raymond Dee Hastings of La Rue, and three sisters, Mrs. Clara Kannel of 225 Orchard street, Marion, and Mrs. Blanch Oborn and Mrs. Cleo Secord, both of La Rue.

Friends may call at the home, where the funeral will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Warren Bright of the La Rue Methodist church will officiate. Burial will be made in the La Rue cemetery.

FBI MAKES MORE ARRESTS IN DRIVE AGAINST BUND

Homes of 65 German Aliens Raided Today.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., July 17—The homes of 65 German aliens were raided early today and last night in widespread searches throughout New Jersey as the federal bureau of investigation renewed its drive on the German-American bund.

E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the Newark and New York offices of the FBI, said a quantity of wartime contraband was seized and an undisclosed number of persons taken into custody.

The raids were directed, Conroy said, at the homes of every German alien in the state, not in custody already, who belonged to the bund or who was known to have visited the bund's Camp Nordland at Andover regularly.

The FBI last week arrested national, sectional and regional leaders of the German-American bund in a nationwide roundup.

Marion Co. Man Fined on Hunting Charge

E. R. Mattox of near Marion was found guilty in municipal court Wednesday on a charge of illegal possession of wild game out of season. He was fined $25 and costs.

Arnold D. Swartz, Wyandot county fish and game protector, arrested Mattox Wednesday afternoon when a raccoon was found at his home. Swartz, who passed his final physical examination for the army Thursday, was assisted by O. H. Neimeyer of Prospect, Marion county fish and game protector, A. D. Opp and L. M. Smeltz, both deputy game wardens.

LEND-LEASE VOLUME GROWS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 17 — President Roosevelt disclosed today that lend-lease assistance to the United Nations and other countries eligible for aid reached $708,000,000 in June, the highest monthly yet. This compared with $662,000,000 in May and brought the total since lend-lease assistance was inaugurated, March 11, 1941, to $5,205,000,000.

Danger Seen In a Speedy Attempt for Second Front

by DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

There can be no dispute with the assertion by Major General Zhuravlev, military expert for the Moscow News, that "The German command is trying to defeat the Red army before a second front can be opened in Europe," although that isn't the only reason for Herr Hitler's speed.

It's doubtful if there are many experts who wouldn't say that the front ought to be opened in the near future—if feasible. But it should be remembered that the question of when such a colossal and perilous operation is practicable, must be decided by the Allied high command.

This second-front problem, involving as it does a water-borne invasion, presents more difficulties than a porcupine does quills. The fact that the Allied leadership hasn't yet attempted it should make it clear that thus far it hasn't been possible. Our eagerness to help gallant Russia shouldn't be allowed to upset our perspective. After all the Allied command is just as anxious to win this war as is the man in the street.

"I am reverting to this subject again because it strikes me that the public pressure which is being aimed at all the Allied governments to compel an opening of a second front is a dangerous thing. The governments already have agreed that this front shall be opened as soon as feasible, and this is not time for civilians to try to force the hands of military leaders. When a surgical operation is to be performed you call in a specialist—and military decisions must be left to the professional soldiers.

"Personally I've had a strong hunch recently that it wouldn't be long before there was an Allied invasion of western Europe. That feeling, which still persists, isn't based on official information—it's just a hunch. However, if this unprecedented operation were undertaken without proper preparation it might produce an Allied disaster which would end the war then and there.

"And don't forget this: If things went wrong there would be a long, long line of Yankee boys, and others, who wouldn't be coming back home.

"Neither the United States nor Britain wants to commmit its forces piece-meal.

"The chances are that the second front isn't so very far in the offing. And should the Russians suddenly be faced with disaster, the Anglo-American invasion undoubtedly would be speeded to meet the crisis. As things now stand, however, the Red armies still are carrying on. Moscow today tells us that withdrawals are occurring only under orders. There has been no report of disorder or rout.

"The right moment for an invasion across the English channel may be when the Nazis' communications are extended to the breaking point and their already huge losses in men and materiel have swollen further. Soviet Marshal Timoshenko is said to have a great reserve army in readiness for a counter-offensive at the appointed hour for the western invasion."

out attempt to push on to Alexandria, 75 or 80 miles away.

While the heaviest fighting was reported in the central sector, a see-saw battle also was surging around Tel El Eisa (Hill of Jesus) on the coast.

Ridge Changes Hands

Military advices received here last night said counter-attacking Australian troops had recaptured the Tel El Eisa ridge yesterday only to be driven out again by enemy infantry and tanks.

Heavy artillery duels were reported along the entire front and aerial activity was growing in intensity, with the Germans calling upon plane reserves which they apparently had been saving for a crucial moment.

The battle in the central sector was joined Wednesday. The British pushed forward about seven miles and occupied a ridge approximately 12 miles southwest of El Alamein — presumably with the intention of relieving pressure on Australian forces in the coastal salient.

The enemy began throwing heavier armor into the struggle late yesterday and by nightfall the battle had swelled to such proportions that its outcome threatened to prove a decisive factor in the campaign.

Fuel Taxes Yield Less Return So Far

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 17—Gasoline and liquid fuel taxes yielded 5 percent less in the first five months of 1942 than in the corresponding 1941 period, and Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt predicted a materially greater percentage of loss by the end of this year.

Evatt reported the gross net return from the two taxes as $21,741,870 against $22,950,340, or a decrease of $1,208,461. The month-by-month is increasingly downward, Evatt said.

AWAIT DRAFT ORDER

ICKES WITNESSES TUBE MANUFACTURE

Speaks on Oil Transportation at Lorain Today.

By The Associated Press

LORAIN, O., July 17—Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes, here today to witness the making of the "largest steel pipe ever manufactured for the transportation of oil," said he hopes steel may become available to extend the forthcoming Texas-Illinois line to New York.

Describing operations "which are going forward today in this great mill of the National Tube Co.," Secretary Ickes declared it "is making the largest steel pipe ever manufactured for the transportation of oil—25-inches in diameter.

"By early november 550 miles of pipe will be in the ground, carrying 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily out of Texas into Illinois—more oil than has ever been carried by any other pipeline ever built anywhere in the world. From Illinois most of this oil will be transhipped to the east by railway tank cars, river barges and tankers on the Great Lakes," Ickes asserted in a nationwide broadcast (NBC).

WALLACE BROS. CIRCUS SHOWING IN MARION

Ready for Performance Tonight and Following Matinee.

The Wallace Bros. circus arrived in Marion early this morning for performances at 2:15 this afternoon and at 8 tonight on the Drake lot on East Fairground street.

The show, one of the largest now on tour, came to Marion from Findlay and will go from here to Kokomo, Ind.

Erection of the air-cooled tent seating 9,000 persons, the side show tents, the menagerie canvas and the kitchen tents was virtually completed by noon.

Admission to the menagerie, which will be open at 7 tonight, will be included in the regular admission price.

The circus made the jump from Findlay to Marion entirely by motor, officials said, because the short distance did not involve difficulty in transporting the animals.

Plant Near 100 Per Cent in War Bond Buying

Marion Steam Shovel Co. employes neared the 100 per cent mark in the regular purchase of war savings bonds, a survey at the plant showed today.

Records show 99.75 per cent of the employes are making regular purchases of bonds through the company.

The company, Marion's largest industrial concern, was one of the first to adopt a general payroll deduction bond purchase system for use of its employes.

U. S. European Air Chief Outdoes Sir Raleigh

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 17 — Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of U. S. army air forces in Europe, is no less gallant and considerably more practical than Sir Walter Raleigh.

Sir Walter, 360 years ago, threw his coat on a mudpuddle for Queen Elizabeth to step on.

Yesterday, when the present Queen Elizabeth was visiting the American air forces, it began to rain. General Spaatz shed his coat and placed it over the queen's shoulders with the remark:

"Your majesty, this makes you a major general of the American air forces."

Home for War Workers

GROUND TO ROOF IN A WEEK
Wide World Features

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — An unconventional-appearing home for a family of four which incorporates the protective features of an air raid shelter has been designed by a Purdue University researcher.

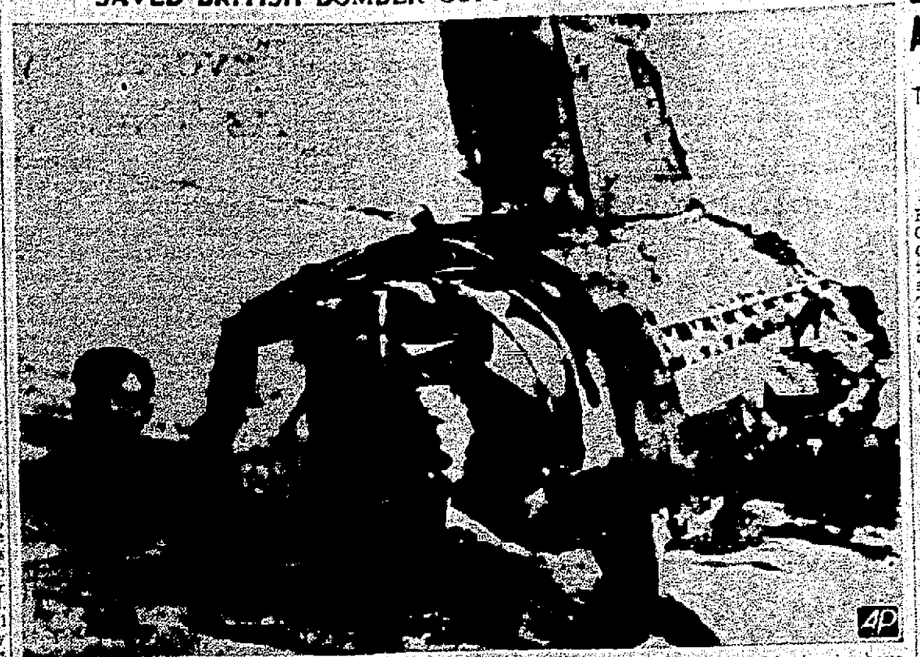
Carl F. Boester created the house—and erected a "sample" on the university campus — to solve the need for wartime residences in concentrated defense areas. He estimated that the structure could be built for $1,200 to $1,500.

The insulated walls are of fire-resistant wallboard and the framework was built to withstand bomb shocks.

The structure, measuring 24x28 feet, has a bedroom for a husband and wife and two smaller rooms each with built-in beds. It has a combined kitchen and laundry room, a large living rooms each with built-in beds. It and an attic with storage space.

Boester estimated the house can be heated with only 2½ tons of coal. He said a trained crew could erect it, with electric wiring and plumbing in a week. It was designed to permit rental to war workers at $30 a month.

SAVED BRITISH BOMBER GUNNER IN MEDITERRANEAN



Three British seamen swim around the tail and rear turret of a Wellington bomber from which they rescued an aid gunner trapped in the plane when it crashed into the Mediterranean. The tail and rear turret were blown from the rest of the aircraft. The gunner, trapped in the turret, was just able to keep his head above water while the sailors sawed at the wrecked framework for three hours. This is an official British picture, radioed from Cairo to New York.

10 CHARGED WITH AIDING SABOTEURS

Formal Action Taken While Trial of Nazis Continues.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 17—The trial of eight Nazi saboteurs resumed today before a military commission and U. S. attorneys in three districts drafted formal charges against 10 of the 14 persons recently apprehended as their accomplices.

Attorney General Francis Biddle, who authorized the district attorney to act, said yesterday the 10 defendants would be accused of "unlawfully knowing and receiving and assisting" the Nazi group "in order to hinder their apprehension, trial and punishment."

Describing the saboteurs as enemies of the United States, and acting for and on behalf of the German Reich, Biddle said they unlawfully entered this country "for the purpose of committing acts of sabotage, espionage, and other hostile acts."

Three of those arrested as accomplices were arraigned yesterday on presidential warrants charging them with being "dangerous enemy aliens." A fourth, Ernest Herman Kerkhof, still is held in New York pending further investigation.

Those accused of aiding the saboteurs, if convicted, face a maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment.

In the Bryansk area, about 200 miles southwest of Moscow, another possible zone of German offensive action, the Nazis were observed massing tanks and motorized infantry. Russian bombing raids were said to have killed 3,000 of these troops in one sector and 2,000 in another in two days.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES MEET AT BRUSH RIDGE

Area Meeting Held by Baptist Church Group.

Between 125 and 150 attended the area meeting of Women's Baptist Missionary societies at Grand Prairie church north of Marion yesterday. Mrs. Ernest Frost of the File Memorial church in Marion, new president of the area group, presided.

Special features of the day were the address by Mrs. R. O. Gooding of Cincinnati, state vice president of home and foreign missions, a talk on the Midway denominational hospital at Minneapolis, with photographs, by a representative of the hospital, a playlet by Grand Rapids members and a basket lunch at noon.

Echoes from the house party at Granville in June were given by Mrs. O. T. Swigart of Trinity church, Marion, and a report of the Northern Baptist convention at Cleveland in May by Mrs. Elmer Myers of Brush Ridge church.

Banner for attendance at the meeting was won by the West Mansfield group. The societies will attend the annual association meeting at Radnor in September.

WAR PLANT

to be used to house construction workers. Later, all probably will be used to house workers employed in operating the plant.

All of the administration area buildings excepting the two-story administration building and two-story dormitories are one-story high. All are of frame construction. Side walls are of impregnated fiber board sheathing and wood siding. The roofs are of green-gray asphalt shingles. The interiors are finished with hard pressed board wainscoating with plasterboard above and on the ceilings. The interior is unpainted to conserve critical materials needed in other phases of the war effort, and the exteriors are covered with a preservative stain in lieu of paint. Only the window frames, sash and doors are painted.

Separate Heating Plants

Each building has its own separate steam heating system. When operation of the plant gets well under way, the U. S. Rubber Co. will operate its own bus system on the area to pick up workers at the administration area entrance and distribute them to work points throughout the area. Buses also will bring them back to the main gate when their work period is finished. Marion Rapid Transit Co. is already operating a bus line between the administration area and downtown Marion.

At another place in the plant area is located the combined fire and police station where the chief of the police and fire protection forces will maintain their headquarters. In addition to offices, police patrol cars, firefighting equipment and an ambulance will be maintained at the station. Constant contact with all of the various plant units will be maintained, both regarding fire and police protection, by telephone, an alarm system and radio.

Road, Sewer Work

In addition to the building construction work now under way, the project has more than 230,000 feet of roads under construction, 58,000 feet of railroads, drainage work over an area of 1,300 acres, 53,000 feet of sewers under construction, 20,000 feet of water lines, 4,000 feet of electrical distribution lines and 12,000 feet of telephone lines.

Another index of the scope of the project is provided by the huge supplies of materials delivered to the area to date, much of which have already been used. The materials thus far received include more than 225 carloads of lumber, some 118 cars of cement, 95 cars of pipe, 18,500 squares (100 square feet to each square) of roofing. The quarry opened on the site by the construction company has already yielded more than 150,000 tons of stone for use in the project.

Worn like spectacles, which it resembles, a binocular magnifying device has been invented by a Massachusetts man for persons who do close reading or inspection of small objects.

ACQUAINTANCE OF VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

Cleveland Man Is Accused of Recent "Torso" Murder.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 17—A Negro accused of Cleveland's most recent dismemberment slaying was identified by Detective Sergeant Martin P. Cooney as an acquaintance of two woman victims in the list of 12 unsolved "torso murders" here.

He is Willie Johnson, 36, charged with first degree murder in the death of Mary Smith, alias Margaret Wilson, whose dismembered body was found June 28 in the desolate Kingsbury Run sector.

Cooney said Johnson had been identified as the man last seen with Mrs. Rose Wallace, whose hacked body was found in burlap bags June 6, 1937, at the foot of the downtown Lorain-Carnegie bridge.

He said Johnson also was an acquaintance of Mrs. Florence Polillo, 42, another "torso murder" victim. Another man was once charged with murdering Mrs. Polillo, but was found hanged in county jail before his trial date. The late Martin O'Donnell, then sheriff, said the man had confessed.

FINLAND AND U. S. NEAR OPEN BREAK

Washington Requests Closing of All Consular Offices.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 17—Finland and the United States were one move short of an open break in diplomatic relations today, with the Helsinki government preparing to close all its consular offices in this country in compliance with a Washington "request."

The state department, disclosing last night it had asked the Finnish government to discontinue its consular activities in the United States Aug. 1, announced it already had cancelled commissions of American consular officials in Finland and was closing "immediately" the consular section of the American legation in Helsinki.

The announcement based the action on Finnish restrictions which hampered the functioning of legation officials in their consular capacity, contrary to "treaty right."

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, July 17 — An official statement issued through the Finnish news bureau today said the Washington decision to close the American consulate here and to request closing of Finnish consulates in the United States was "a surprise" to the Finnish government, which "had no reason to suppose" that its policy could lead to such an action.

BELIEF PARACHUTES WERE ONLY BALLOONS

Investigation Made in Hudson Valley Last Night.

By The Associated Press

RHINECLIFF, N. Y., July 17—Search for six "parachutes" reported seen descending in the area near President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate was renewed at dawn today but the belief was expressed they may have been festival balloons.

A farm superintendent's unconfirmed report of sighting parachutes late yesterday afternoon brought a small army of military, FBI and state police officials to the scene but the search was postponed after townsfolk advanced a theory the reported aerial objects were balloons sent aloft by a group celebrating a religious holiday.

Robert Milroy, a hotel clerk at nearby Rhinebeck, told investigators he had heard parachutes about the time the parachutists were reported sighted and recalled that persons of Italian descent gathered at Glasgow on the opposite side of the Hudson river celebrating a feast day by shooting off fireworks, Roman candles and releasing balloons.

Other nearby residents clung to the balloon rather than the parachute idea, and several police officers expressed the same belief.

For nine hours last night, Hudson valley residents and motorists within a radius of 50 miles were questioned as to whether they had seen any parachutists.

The public relations officer of the eastern defense command announced at New York last night that a military investigation was underway but emphasized there had been no confirmation of the report.

STRIKE DISRUPTS BUS TRAFFIC IN DETROIT

Passengers On Way To War Jo... Left Stranded.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 17—Motor coach operators striking contrary to advice of their AFL union leaders halted buses on Detroit's East Side today, ejected the non-striking drivers and forced passengers to alight.

Many passengers, enroute to jobs in war plants or office buildings, were left stranded, and police were ordered to arrest anyone found interfering with buses.

The strikers, employes of Detroit's department of street railways, are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL). They complained about delay on a new arbitration proceedings.

Edward McMorrow, international vice president of the union, called the strike action "disastrous, foolhardy, illegal, irresponsible and unpatriotic."

GROWING NEED FOR HOUSING

Outlook Is for Ever-Increasing Demand for Rooms in War Areas.

WASHINGTON, July 17 — (Wide World)—Your spare bedroom may have a war job coming up.

Many people in war production centers—people who never had a stranger in their homes—have fixed up rooms where the kids used to sleep to furnish housing for harassed war workers.

And the outlook is that more and more such rooms will be needed.

Specifically, the estimates of war houser John B. Blandford Jr., call for the housing of at least 850,000 war workers in private homes between now and July 1, 1943.

Housing and Rooming: Best guess is that some 1,500,000 war workers will move into war centers during the year from July to July. This does not include those who will go to work at jobs in their home towns. In other words, all 1,600,000 will be looking for housing.

New war housing is expected to provide accommodations for 50,000 to 100,000 single persons; for 75,000 to 150,000 couples, and for 400,000 to 500,000 families. Private builders are expected to furnish from 240,000 to 300,000 of the family dwellings. The rest will be built by government agencies.

The Reason: The growing urgency of material shortages has forced revision of housing plans. In addition to the scarcity of such things as piping, heating equipment, refrigerators and other necessaries, shortages now threaten in lumber and other basic building materials.

To stretch available material, war housing plans now emphasize the "duration dormitory," where workers will share such things as bathrooms, community dining halls and recreation rooms. Thus, the amount of plumbing, of kitchen ware and other metal products is cut down drastically.

Housers say it is impossible to lay out in advance a rigid program of housing. Not only does the materials situation change from week to week, but the need for war housing in given localities also changes. Thus, for the great Willow Run bomber plant, say the housers, dwellings were planned on Ford's estimate that 100,000 men would be employed; now the estimate of employment has been cut almost in half. Such changes occur frequently as war production plans shift to get maximum output from minimum use of materials and men.

Warning: Don't rush out and buy a lot of new furniture for the spare room without first checking the housing situation in your town. Housers caution that such rapid fire patriotism might end in disappointment. Local housing authorities can advise you whether a need exists for more rooms for war workers. They can help you decide, too, what is a fair rental under the rent control laws.

Rooms for Rent: War housers are planning a real drive in the near future to put all the spare rooms in war-congested areas into the job of housing the war workers.

Officials believe that a real drive to get vacant rooms into the housing program would go a long way toward meeting the increasing need. Every vacant room added to the nation's housing for war workers, of course, means a saving of critical materials which otherwise might be expended in building "duration dormitories" or other housing.

WARTIME RATIONING KEEPS OHIOANS HOME

Buckeye State Residents Take Short Trips Only.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 17—Rationing and war employment have kept Ohioans close to home this summer, many taking only short vacation trips instead of driving thousands of miles.

Several sources which give travel information or watch long-distance motor traffic said today Buckeye state residents who usually drive to the east or west coasts or deep into Canada had gone only a few hundred miles this year because of gasoline, tire and automobile restrictions or because they couldn't spare more time from work.

Although visiting at state memorials has declined, Curator Erwin Zett has received more inquiries than usual from Ohioans wishing to make short trips to points of interest, he reported.

"Ohio people seem to be driving within the state, especially those in the north, who go to the central or southern part of Ohio," Zett said. "They have little time to go far away and besides, they want to save their tires."

Week-end travel appears to have dropped off, although there is more sight-seeing on week days, Zett said.

There were 93,437 registered visitors at 38 state memorials last month, compared with 140,765 in June 1941, and 278,951 in the first six months this year against 410,655 in the corresponding 1941 period.

Zett said southern Ohio memorials reported the greatest loss in visitors although Mound Builders park at Newark had almost as many as last year.

Marion Air Raid Head Gives Talk at LaRue

LA RUE, O., July 17—Earl Ruhlman, chief air raid warden in Marion, talked on "What Do We Mean by the Term 'Civilian Defense'?" at the weekly band concert program here Wednesday night. Each week the concert intermission is given over to a talk on war bonds and stamps or some phase of civilian defense. The eight-week series of concerts is being sponsored by the LaRue Business Men's association.

Made of rustproof and fireproof metal, window awnings for residences have been invented that when lowered and locked prevent entrance of intruders and protect glass from flying fragments from nearby explosions.

To prevent theft of automobile tires a resident of Pontiac, Mich., has invented a steel strap held in place by two lock nuts requiring a special wrench to operate a hub and replace the usual set of wheel nuts.

Laab's Hitting Helps Give Browns Tie With Tigers; Yanks Beat Tribe

New Yorkers Strengthen Lead by Handing Indians an 8 to 5 Setback.

By The Associated Press

The biggest batting spree of the season is now being staged by little Chet Laabs of the St. Louis Browns and brother, when he hits, people forget all about the complaint that the ball is deader this year.

In the last six days he has hit four home runs and driven in 18 tallies, giving him 15 homers and 58 runs batted in this season.

Laabs started his chain of firecrackers against the Yanks last Saturday with a two-run homer off Ernie Bonham in the ninth.

The next day in Boston he socked the Red Sox into submission. He made a double and a single in the first game and in the second game of the doubleheader he batted in five runs, three of them on a homer in the ninth. Monday was an open date and Tuesday the Red Sox sidetracked trouble by walking him twice.

5 Runs at Philadelphia

Wednesday night again he drove in five runs at Philadelphia. He homered with the bases loaded in the first inning and tripled with one on in the second, barely being thrown out at the plate trying for an inside the park home run.

Yesterday he drove in four runs to bent the Athletics again, hitting two homers, each with a mate aboard to help Al Hollingsworth win 5-1. Laabs' impetus has boosted the Browns to a tie with the Detroit Tigers for fourth place.

Detroit stumbled to its fifth straight defeat and eighth in nine games last night at Washington. The Tigers made six errors and lost, 6-5, in 10 innings.

The New York Yankees boosted their first place margin to 7½ games by belting the Cleveland Indians 8-5, while the Chicago White Sox nosed out Boston 3-2. Ernie Bonham pitched seven-hit ball for the Yanks' fifth straight triumph, and Joe DiMaggio hit in his 13th game in a row.

Divide Honors

At Chicago the wrought-up Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers divided a double-header in approximately five hours of serious baseball. The Cubs took the first contest 7-0, but Brooklyn battled back in the nightcap to win 2-1.

The New York Giants' Carl Hubbell conjured up a four-hit pitching masterpiece that stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1. It was Hub's third win and he had a two-hit shutout till the ninth.

The Phils, led by Danny Litwhiler, who batted in three runs and scored twice, topped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 10 innings. Cincinnati took a 7-6 decision from the Boston Braves, even though Ernie Lombardi hit his second homer in two days and made three other safeties against his old teammates.

TO GET COMMISSION

By The Associated Press

HILLSBORO, O., July 17—Joe Hiestand, one of the country's top-ranking trapshooters, says he expects to receive a commission as an army gunnery instructor. He won the North American clay target championship last year and plans to compete in the Grand American at Vandalia, O., this year.

All-Star Game Voting To Close Midnight, July 26.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

THE effort of a few local sport fans to place Jack Stephenson on the Chicago Tribune's all-star football squad has rapidly blossomed into a city-wide project.

Nearly 100 petitions are now being circulated in the downtown area. Several members of the Harding High school football squad voluntarily have taken out petitions and local service clubs have expressed a desire to help in the drive to place the former Ohio State university captain on the squad which will face the Chicago Bears, professional football titlists, in Soldiers' field, Chicago, the night of Aug. 28.

Industrial leaders in the city will be asked within the next two days to circulate petitions throughout their shops. Social groups, church organizations and women's clubs will also be contacted to help the campaign.

Already between 500 and 1,000 signatures have been received. Local sponsors of the drive are seeking 20,000 signatures before midnight July 26, deadline for casting ballots.

Stephenson began his football career as a sophomore at Harding High school. In 1937 he served

NINTH IN POLL

Up to midnight last night Jack Stephenson had received 33,829 votes, placing him ninth among 30 tackles eligible for the game. Al Blozis, All-American from Northwestern university, leads the tackles with 15,794 votes. Al Blozis of Georgetown and Norville Wallach of Missouri have received more than 15,000 votes.

ATHLETE WAS HERO OF BATAAN

GREAT LAKES, Ill.—Lieut. Commander Frank W. Fenno of Westminster, Mass., commander of the submarine which crept into Manila bay shortly before the fall of Bataan and removed the larger part of the wealth of the Philippines in gold and silver, was an outfielder on the Atlantic fleet baseball team in 1923. One of his teammates was Chief Quartermaster C. M. Mulkey, who now assists Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, director of baseball and softball at the Great Lakes station. Chief Mulkey played shortstop on the fleet squad.

It May Come To This (Oh, Boy!)

Here's a preview of what may become a common thing in sports as more and more men are called into service and women are required to take over their chores. Girls already are serving satisfactorily as lifeguards in some places, as Carol Fredder, left, proves at a Washington, D. C., hotel pool. She's a former swimming coach at the University of Idaho. Center, Ruth Merman of Chicago, demonstrates that girls also will be able to take over at bowling alleys as pin-boys go into the army or defense jobs. And right, this pretty Miami miss carrying her own golf clubs may be the forerunner of gal caddies if the ranks of the latter are thinned out any more.

LOUISVILLE TRIMS COLUMBUS TEAM, 9-1

Lou Klein's Homer Only Score Off Lucier.

By The Associated Press

The Minneapolis Millers might have been a bit nervous at handing over Shortstop Huck Geary to the Pittsburgh Pirates at a time they were needing all possible strength for the American association pennant race. But last night's first look at what the Bucs sent west in the deal must have cheered them up a lot.

Stu Martin, who once played in the association before making a five-year stand with the St. Louis Cards and a one-season appearance with the Pirates, reported for duty at second base and made three hits in three times up in the first game. He had another hit in the nightcap and handled 13 chances without a misplay in the two games.

The Millers won both games, 7 to 2 and 6 to 5, from Milwaukee, and crept within a fraction of a point of the third-place Brewers.

The Toledo Mud Hens, striving to move up from seventh place, came within a half game of that goal by trimming Indianapolis, 5 to 2.

Louisville called on Lou Lucier to blank the second-place Columbus Red Birds, except for Lou Klein's homer in the seventh, and won the game, 9 to 1.

St. Paul fans were spared the necessity of sitting through a practice blackout when Dave Philley socked a tenth inning double and ended the game just before the deadline, the Saints beating Kansas City, 4 to 3.

CUPID STRIKES

COLUMBUS, O., July 17—Cupid might well be caddying for the two finalists in today's battle for the 23rd Ohio women's golf championship.

The finalists—Miss Janet Shock, of Dayton and defending queen Neoma Copic of Toledo disclosed yesterday—between smiles and putts during the tournament's semi-final round—that they were engaged to men now serving under Uncle Sam's colors.

Miss Shock is engaged to Charles (Buck) Beardsley of Fort Wayne, Ind., now an aviation cadet in Florida. Miss Copic said her fiance was with troops in Ireland. Neither date has been determined.

Erie, Pa., Moves Within 2 Games of Charleston

CANTON, O., July 17 — Erie moved within two games of first place Charleston in the Mid-Atlantic league standings last night by taking a 10-inning, 4 to 2 decision from Canton as Springfield defeated the Senators 8 to 7.

The Sailors bunched three hits and a walk for two runs in the extra inning, the winning markers coming on Manager Kerby Farrell's single with the bases loaded. Dayton downed Zanesville 5 to 2.

JOE MUSCATO SLATED TO MEET JIM BEVINS

Match Features Six-Event Cleveland Card Thursday.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O. — Nobody knows yet whether Sergeant Joe Muscato is a fighter or just a fellow who can dish it out, but more evidence should be at hand after next Thursday night.

The 21-year-old Buffalo scrapper, who climbed from the preliminary ranks to slap surprised slow-moving Lem Franklin to sleep on the last pro fights card here, is matched this time against Jimmy Bivins, fast-moving Cleveland Negro who gave Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich a pasting in their recent non-title go.

Bivins, scaling around the 175-pound mark which divides the light heavies and heavies, is a 7 to 5 betting favorite but Franklin was 2 to 1 when Muscato came along and stopped him in the first round.

In his last three times out, the 21-year-old Bivins has had Lesnevich, Bob Pastor and Billy Soose on the floor, although they didn't stay there. James eventually lost the decision to Pastor, but decisioned the other two.

The 10-round Cleveland Arena scrap is the feature event of six on Matchmaker Larry Atkins' next show which must share attention in Ohio next week with Jack Laken's "Bomber for MacArthur" A. F. of L. sponsored card in the Scott High stadium at Toledo Tuesday night.

The bomber card headlines Lee Savold vs Bill Poland, who kayoed Harry Bobo, and Pat Comiskey against Alfred (Big Boy) Brown in two ten-round heavyweight scraps. Two other ten rounders and assorted prelims fill out the evening.

S. W. O. C. 1949 Scores 10-3 Win Over Universal Cooler Team To Share League Lead

S. W. O. C. 1949 of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. defeated the Universal Cooler Co. softball team 10-3 last night at Lincoln park to move into a two-way tie for first place in the Industrial league with the Cooler nine. The loss was the second of the season for the Universal Cooler Co. team. Woody Walters, perennial pitching sensation, set the losers down with four hits, while his mates clubbed Bill Everly for 10 safeties.

Commercial Steel Co. downed the Osgood Co. nine, 12-8, at Presidents field. Osgood outhit the victors, 14-12. Cramer belted a home run for the losers in the fourth inning with one mate on.

Pitcher Carje of the Holabird & Root team twirled a four-hitter as the Scioto Ordnance Plant architects scored a 5-4 victory over the Huber Manufacturing Co. team at the Uncapher avenue Marion Steam Shovel Co. diamond.

Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. No. 2 posted a 10-9 victory over the General Excavator team at Garfield park, pushing across a single run in the last half of the seventh inning. Roy Everly, on the mound for the winners, allowed seven hits and contributed a single, double and a triple to the offense. L. Sertelle and E. Havens, both of the winning nine, belted home runs.

KALIMKOFF SCORES VICTORY IN BATTLE ROYAL ATTRACTION

Defeats Panthers To Keep Long Victory String Intact.

Ivan Kalimkoff, the prize Russian wrestler, carried off top honors in last night's Armory wrestling show.

Pitted against five of the toughest competitors ever to appear at one time on a local card in a grueling battle royal attraction, the well-built Russian played a major role in disposing of Jackie Steele, Axel Madsen, Rufus Jones and Nick Billings. By finishing off the Black Panther in the two-hour main-go event, he achieved top honors.

Kalimkoff, at present is the only undefeated member of the Panbaugh stable.

The Panther, believed by many fans to be the one to break the Russian's win streak, won the initial fall with a hanging head-lock in 20 minutes.

Kalimkoff squared the match with a head-lock in six minutes and won the decisive fall in an additional eight minutes with a full Nelson.

The Panther, who has been awaiting call by his Toledo, Ohio, draft board, has finally been called and will report for induction July 24. Last night's appearance here was the last for the duration. Before shaking off the wrestling wars for a more important conflict, the Panther will fight at Fremont.

For more than eight years the Toledo restaurant king has been adding punch to the local cards. During that period he has made more mat appearances here than any other contestant.

Nick Billings and dusky Rufus Jones battled to a draw in the 45-minute semi-final event. Jones, the New York City "cranium cracker" specialist, won the opening tussle in 14 minutes with a drop kick and shoulder press. Billings gained a draw by capitalizing on one of Jones' miscues. The dusky New Yorker attempted a drop kick, but missed. Jones immediately fell on the colored star, applied an arm lock and twisted Jones into an easy body press.

Jackie Steele of Centerville, Iowa, was the first contender to leave in the battle royal attraction. Axel Madsen, the lanky Danish star, was next, followed by Rufus Jones and Nick Billings.

"Battle of Blonds" Under Way With Ohio Women's Golf Title at Stake

Miss Copic and Janet Shock in 36-Hole Finals; Men's Amateur Tourney in Semi-Finals.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 17—A "Battle of the Blonds" was on today for the 23rd Ohio Women's Golf championship as defending queen Neoma Copic of Toledo and Janet Shock of Dayton, 1938 and 1940 winner, clashed in the 36-hole finals.

It was the first meeting of these two stars of the buckeye state's feminine links contingent, although Miss Copic has fired in five state tournaments and Miss Shock in eight.

In addition to a desire to place another jewel in their championship crowns, the two finalists had another incentive. Mrs. S. B. Kent, secretary of the Women's Ohio Golf association, said the present event probably would be the last for the duration of the war, and the victor will wear the laurels until the tournament is resumed.

Today's match at Columbus country club marked Miss Copic's second jaunt to the finals, and Miss Shock's fourth.

In yesterday's 18-hole semi-finals Miss Shock eliminated 17-year-old Carol Lee Sherrets of Coshocton by 5 and 4, missing par by only one stroke, while 24-year-old Miss Copic eliminated 19-year-old Peggy Kirk of Findlay by 4 and 3, skidding three over even figures.

Stranahan Still Men's Tourney Favorite

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 17.—The Ohio Amateur Golf tournament is down to the 36-hole semi-finals today, with the statistics pointing to a champion from Cincinnati and the odds pointing to Frank Stranahan of Toledo.

Stranahan, 19-year-old defending titlist, and three local hot-shots take the Makelewah course today for better or worse. Stranahan meets Doug Hill, 44-year-old broker and former city champion.

Elmer Tunker, 28-year-old guard at a hush-hush war plant, a long tee shot man but a scrambler who zig-zags from tee to green, plays Bob Myers, 20, a former city junior champion, and co-medalist in the city amateur. Stranahan played some fuzzy golf after getting medalist honors in the qualifier with a par 72 over the 6,549-yard course, but now seems to have found his game.

Stranahan followed the ball like a machine yesterday in eliminating Bill Podolski of Columbus, 4 and 3 from the quarter-finals. He was two up at the turn and shot straight par golf all the way.

Snatches of Sports

By SID FEDER

Pinch Hitting for H. Fullerton Jr.

NEW YORK, July 17.—(Wide World)—Seen by the papers where Buck Newsom may wind up with the Dodgers. Can you imagine old Bobo hooking up with Leo the Lip and Loud Larry? There's a parlay for your whiskers. When those three musketeers start cooking up some catch-as-catch conversation, the guy who complained about the noise the Ebbets Field organ made will think he was living in the guest room of a tomb up to now. Incidentally, that Dodger-Cubs feud is so hot right now the explosion is going to knock down the Wrigley Field walls one of these afternoons.

That speech Jimmy Conzelman gave the graduating class at Dayton U. on "The Young Man's Mental and Physical Approach to War" is rapidly becoming a classic. And the national pro league is distributing it in booklet form now to meet the requests. Ted Lyons says if the army gets him Uncle Sam's gotta remember he can only fight the war on Sundays. Would that mean that Jiff Lefty Gomez got in he'd bring Johnny Murphy along for those hot spots in the late frames?

Lowdown Break-Down—The other day, the Cards announced attendance figures to baseball writers this way: paid, 2,984; ladies, 2,915; boys and girls, 1,801; service men, 792; total, 8,492. What, no Mickey Mouse?

Over the Back Fence—Ward Cuff may quit the football Jints to go back to alma mammy, Marquette as a coach. But you can kiss off the whisper that Don Hutson is getting ready to sign off with the Packers and retire. Mr. Forward Pass'll be back there haunting the rest of the league again this fall.

Prophet Dept. — The night of the all-star game, Joe DiMaggio sat in the blackout and said he felt as though he finally was pulling out of his slump. Well, children, he's hit in every game since then. And the fans are finally laying off, after giving him the old Bronx bazoo all season up to now.

as co-captain with Paul Fick. Carl Cramer, a one-time Ohio State All-American, was coach of that team.

He was instrumental in sending Jack to Ohio State.

As a freshman at the Buckeye school, Stephenson earned his numerals but was just another big lineman. For years Ohio State teams have been known for their exceptional size. As a sophomore he got his first big chance against the great Minnesota team of 1939. He was instrumental in leading the Bucks to a rousing win over the Gophers. Climaxing a star-studded collegiate athletic career, Stephenson was chosen from among a bevy of talented performers to lead the 1941 Bucks.

For a time between the resignation of Francis Schmidt as head coach and the hiring of Paul Brown of Massillon, Stephenson acted as coach, captain and general handyman.

Although at times during his senior year he gave way to a brilliant sophomore tackle, it was Stephenson, Coach Brown has asserted many times, who was more or less responsible for the Bucks' meteoric dash to a second-place tie with the Michigan eleven in the Big Ten standings.

Against Michigan Stephenson was superior to any other lineman in the game. He stopped the attempted bucks of Michigan's ace back, Bob Westfall, an All-American nominee on a dozen different polls. Veteran football tacticians, including a handful of local grid coaches who saw the Bucks hold the highly-favored Wolverines to a 20-20 deadlock, said Stephenson played the greatest game of his career.

As a former college star, Stephenson is now eligible for the grid game's greatest contest. Now being groomed at Great Lakes, Ill., as a chief petty officer in Uncle Sam's floating forces, Sephenson is more than ever fitted to fill one of the 66 all-star berths.

Sees Plastics in New Role in Post-War Era

By International News Service

RAVENNA, O. — Declaring post-war days will find plastics playing an important part in American industrial life, W. B. Fageol Jr., Kent Twin Coach Co. executive, also asserted synthetic rubber will occupy a prominent place following the present conflict.

"I look for synthetic rubber tires that will wear twice or three times as long as present day tires," Fageol said. "I also believe rubber will supplant steel for the springs used in cars."

Plastics will serve as a substitute for steel in automobiles, according to Fageol, as well as a replacement for glass and wood.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Brain Surgery

Surgery has penetrated everywhere, and is even sticking scalpels and forceps into the soul. This is another way of talking about prefrontal lobe brain surgery. It is probable the prefrontal lobe of the brain that controls the operation of the things we call soul.

We have a good many kinds of brains, which we attained at different stages in the evolutionary process on our part, and which are all still functioning. The oldest brain of all is the automatic nervous system, consisting of a series of ganglia mostly down the outside of the vertebral column. This works without any thought process on our part, and controls such functions as the distribution of the flow of blood, secretions of the salivary and other glands and many other purely automatic things.

In the skull we have several brains, one of which is the cerebellum, which also operates without very much thought from us, to maintain equilibrium and coordinate our movements.

Another mass of old nerve tissue that is prominent in certain lower animals is the thalamus. Here a great many instinctive emotions center such as appetite, love, fear, desire and hate. The lower animals, which have very large thalami, have no real way of controlling these fundamental emotions. In man, the highest brain of all, the prefrontal lobe, is connected with the thalamus and can, to a considerable extent, exert an influence on it. The higher the individual in the intellectual scale, the more likely it is that he has a well-developed prefrontal lobe.

Surgical methods within the past few years have invaded even this part of the brain—the seat of the soul. Mental cases who are afflicted with melancholia, with bursts of temper, those who are unable to face the world as it is, can be improved by having the prefrontal lobes severed from the rest of the brain.

This leaves the individual a good deal of an animal, but it brings about an astonishing improvement in certain conditions such as melancholia. Melancholics become cheerful and stop their chronic worrying. Other individuals who have very anti-social tendencies in many instances become free from these manifestations and amenable to discipline.

Of course, all results are not as good as might be assumed from reading these statements put down on paper, but in a series of cases studied by Doctors Freeman and Watts of Washington, D. C., about 50 per cent of the results of removal of the prefrontal lobes were fair, and the rest range from some slight improvement to complete failure.

Devices to generate charcoal gas on motor vehicles in Sweden to propel them have been improved until now 12 pounds of charcoal are equivalent to a gallon of gasoline.

Two dairy technologists from the United States department of agriculture will survey the dairy industry in the Caribbean Central and South American countries and study the possibility of its extension.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MY FIRST impression about the card was its extremely bad taste; my second, a feeling of gladness that my father was then in the adjoining suite. He had spent as much time there as he could while I was waiting for just such a message as the one which had been brought to me.

With the card in my hand I dashed to the camouflaged door and knocked upon it. He opened it almost instantly.

"The bell boy just brought this up," I said. "The desk telephoned and said a man wished to send it up to me."

He took the card and studied it carefully.

"Pretended cheapness of material and language," he said. "The writer wishes to give the impression of illiteracy."

"I suppose you want me to see this man," I said, feeling a queer, psychic reluctance to grant the interview.

"Yes, and at once," he replied. "If I were alone here I should have you wait until I could summon a younger and stronger man. But Ronald is in the next room, and I fancy he could give a good account of himself anywhere. And you will not need to call us. At the first suspicious sound we shall be with you."

Caller Is a Woman

"Then," I said, "I shall call the desk and have the man sent up."

But the person I saw when I answered the knock on my door was so different from the person I expected to see that I gaped in astonishment. A tall woman with a bold, hard face, which I instantly disliked, was smiling toothily at me as I opened the door.

My caller was weather-beaten, as are those who live always in the open, and her clothing, well-cut and modish enough, was of the type I always have associated with the unpleasant women who try to impress everybody with their flair for a wilderness life.

Not a Mistake

"I think there has been a mistake," I said. "I was expecting a Mr. R. Hawes."

"No, there has been no mistake," she said. "I am the person who wished to see you. But I'm afraid you won't forgive my little deception, Mrs. Graham. A friend of mine presented that card, then met me at the lift as if by accident, pretending not to know me, so that I was able to find your room. But I was afraid you wouldn't see me if you guessed who I really am."

"R. Hawes" Is Ruth Hayes

I had disliked her intensely on sight, and that feeling was not lessening.

"May I ask your name?" I asked icily, "and will you please tell me why you thought I would refuse to see you?"

She laughed as I put the question, and the sound grated.

Then an exceedingly unpleasant memory reared its head from somewhere deep within me, where it had lain for years until I had brought it out into the open when I was talking to Jack.

"Mr. R. Hawes. Urgent. About J. Bickett" had been written on the card.

"How blind I had been!

"Not "Hawes," but "Hayes—Ruth Hayes." That was the name of the woman who had written that cruel, inexplicable and insulting letter to Katharine years ago.

Ruth Hayes, sister of Jack's partner, in his South American enterprise, the woman both Katharine and I had thought responsible for Jack's long silence and neglect of his wife.

I had learned from Jack's own lips within the week that his feeling for his partner's sister had never been anything but comradeship and gratitude to her for making wilderness life comfortable. That feeling already had changed to aversion, he told me. But it was something far greater than average—a terrible, flaming rage—which consumed him when I told him of the letter Ruth had written, baldly asking Katharine to release Jack from his marriage and saying that his love was no longer his wife's but belonged to this stranger, who prided herself upon being a man's woman at home in the wilderness.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, July 18

A VERY ACTIVE and profitable day in which much may be accomplished by strict attention to affairs in hand, with the exercise of skill, initiative and the application of unusual brilliance and cleverness to what might be called "knotty problems." These have the element of subtlety, intrigue or undercover tactics or strategies, which must be met with equal shrewdness and resources. Elders and superiors may assist in this, while reason, good judgment and stability also contribute to progress.

Those whose birthday it is may be ready for a lively day in which large issues are to be developed by ingenuity, skill, enterprise, original resources and keen mental insight and cleverness. Sound reasoning, quick strategies, with patience and endurance will circumvent duplicities. A similar condition figures in private relations, although important persons or superiors are ready with encouragement and real support.

A child born on this day should have much intellectual ability, good judgment, reasoning faculties, which it will need to circumvent treachery and jealousy.

As an experiment, a motor boat has been built in Massachusetts with a hull made by welding together plates made of cupro-nickel, the most salt water resistant alloy known.

Salute the Church

A Sermonette

By DR. HARRY L. BELL

Pastor, Central Christian Church.

IN SOME of the Apostle Paul's letters we read that he saluted the Church. It is a beautiful thing for him to do. Here is a man who loves the Church and who cannot enter a city without thinking of the church in that city. He seconds his thought with an act—he visits the congregation and mingles with the people of God. He salutes the Church. Let us in this our day, salute the church. Why should we?

I. BECAUSE OF WHAT THE CHURCH HAS BEEN IN HISTORY.

It is our oldest institution. In one form or another the church has existed from the beginning of the human family. "Noah builded an altar to the Lord," reads the record of Genesis. It was probably a crude affair, built in the open, the vaulted sky for a ceiling, and trees for pillars, but it was Noah's church. The earliest world-traveler, Abraham, made his first act, after he had established himself in a new place, the erection of an altar. It was his church. The matter that gave David the greatest concern was the building of a temple, suitable for the housing of an ark, a symbol of Israel's faith. The crude altars built by Noah and Abraham, the elaborate temple dreamed by David and built by Solomon, were forerunners of the church-building activites which have marked every century since the first man groped after God.

II. WE SALUTE THE CHURCH BECAUSE OF WHAT THE CHURCH IS TODAY.

The Church occupies a large place in our modern life. Despite the criticism aimed at the Church; despite the indifference toward the Church on the part of the public; despite the neglect of the Church by many of its members; despite the sad divisions of the Church into multiplied "names and signs"; despite the mistakes of the Church in many instances, and failures in some instances—the Church is still powerful in modern life. No one institution is feared more by politicians, respected more by statesmen, loved more sacrificially or served more loyally. Education had its beginning in the Church, and modern philanthropy finds its source and resource in the Church.

III. THE CHURCH DEALS WITH THE IMPONDERABLES OF LIFE.

There are two things which cannot be seen or be seen. In science there are certain elements as ether, light, electrons, atoms — elements which cannot be grasped or handled in tangible substances, but they are real and vital. We know they exist, though we cannot see them. They make their uninterrupted contribution to our health and happiness. Likewise, the Church deals in certain imponderable elements in life, such as faith, hope, love, reverence, forgiveness, patience. "Thou shalt not live by bread alone" said Jesus in silencing the devil's tempting voice. Man does live by bread, but not by bread alone. The Church stands for those elements contained in the phrase "not by bread alone."

In the hushed and holy moments of human experience the Church enters with a blessed and beautiful ministry. In baptism, marriage, sickness, death, the Church bears a message that is unique and necessary. To two young people standing before an altar the Church says, "Marriage is more than an attraction which a member of one sex has for a member of the opposite sex; marriage is more than a business partnership, though it is that; marriage deals with the imponderables — faith, love and loyalty." The Church enters the sick room to add the prayer for health to the medicines of health; and enters the home of death with the message of divine comfort and hope.

WE NEED THE CHURCH

Does not the Church need us? Certainly, but we need the Church infinitely more. We have talked overmuch about the Church needing us. We have begged people to come to Church, to stand by and rally round the grand old Church. We have inaugurated all kinds of schemes to entice people to come to Church. We have been getting at it the wrong way. We should be telling people that they need the Church. It is the one institution in their crowded life that speaks of them of God. Men cannot live without God. They try it, and fail.

Salute the Church because the Church brings God into your life.

College President To Preach Sunday

Dr. Charles B. Ketcham, president of Mt. Union college at Alliance, will be the third of a group of college presidents to fill the pulpit at Epworth Methodist church during the absence of Dr. S. M. Ingmire. He will speak on the topic, "Our God Is Marching," at the morning service. Heard previously were Dr. Robert Williams, president of Ohio Northern university, on July 5, and Dr. Herbert J. Burgstahler, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, last Sunday.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO GET LAKESIDE CERTIFICATES

Presentations To Be Made at Central Christian Church.

At the unified service Sunday morning in the Central Christian church credit certificates will be presented the group of young people who attended the Lakeside conference last week. These certificates are in recognition of work accomplished at the conference.

The theme of the sermon presented by Dr. Harry Bell, pastor, will be "Lakeside Breezes," and "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, will be sung by Miss Barbara Hedges.

At this service, also, the pastor will read his resignation to the congregation. He has accepted a call to a Washington, D. C. church.

Following the unified service the adult Bible classes will assemble at 10:30 in the main auditorium and the international uniform Bible lesson will be taught by Mrs. Frank Fairchild.

Public Sentiment Swings To Unified Command of Land, Sea and Air Forces

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 18—A representative group of citizens in Alaska has asked President Roosevelt to set up a unified command of the land, sea and air forces in the Alaskan theater of war.

In the United States proper there has likewise been agitation for a unified command of all American forces ever since the disaster at Pearl Harbor when some observers blamed on lack of coordination between the army and navy.

While the issue is one for experts alone to decide, nevertheless it is noteworthy that there has been a substantial rise in public sentiment for unification of command.

TWO months ago as many voters opposed it as favored it, but today nearly half of all voters interviewed by the Institute, and a clear majority of those with opinions, urge the adoption of the idea.

The trend has been measured on this poll question:

"Should the President, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces of the country, name a military leader to direct both the army and the navy?"

Results follow:

	Today	May
Favor Unified Command	48%	41%
Opposed	38	41
Undecided	16	18

Some military commentators have gone so far as to urge a unified command of all the forces of the United Nations, similar to the post held by Marshal Foch in the closing months of the last World war.

Job Called Too Big

The typical citizen opposed to a single command for American forces believes the task is "too complicated" for any one man to handle, that it is unsafe to put so much responsibility on one man's judgment, and that this is the age of specialization in warfare as in other things.

But those in favor of the unified command declare that efficient coordination is essential, and that one central authority is the only way to remove friction between the army and navy and traditional jealousies among the officers.

Dr. Harry T. Bell To Preach Sermon at Union Church Services Sunday

Union church service will be held Sunday at 8 p. m. at Epworth Methodist church. Dr. Harry Bell, pastor of the Central Christian church will give the sermon, "Life's Foolish Rivalries." Rev. Ephriam Hertzler of the First Church of the Brethren will offer prayer and Rev. P. E. Smoke of Calvary Evangelical church will read the scripture.

The service will be in charge of John H. Clark in the absence of the pastor of the host church, Dr. S. M. Ingmire.

Young people of the city's interdenominational organization will gather Sunday at 7 p. m. on the lawn of Our House at 129 South Vine street for the third meeting in the series of union services of the summer. "Gird for the Task" will be the topic, with the program in charge of the young people of the central Christian church. Kenny McKee is the leader.

Included in the young people's program is prayer by Mary Gore, a reading by Eva Hines, brief talks by Arlene Hill, Donald Shields, Kenny McKee and Nellie Rowland, special music by Barbara Hedges and Scripture by Delores Dennis.

A special feature at the end of the program will be the distribution of the 6-page newspaper covering the activities of the union services. The staff has been working all week on the first issue. Two more will be forthcoming for the ninth and thirtieth of August.

Members of the staff include co-editors, Twylla Dawn Peterson of Prospect Street Methodist and Arley Porter of Salem Evangelical, associate editors, Keith McMurray and Herman Ahrens of Trinity Baptist; news editors, Eunice Elsey of Epworth Methodist, Kathryn Firtenberger of Trinity Baptist and Charlotte Dutt of Salem Evangelical.

Feature editors, Joan Uncapher, Edward Saxton and Raden Kryder of First Reformed; staff secretaries, Idella Harris of Calvary Evangelical, Margurite Williamson and Lois Murray of Epworth Methodist and Florence Orahood of the United Brethren church; mimeographers, Marian Uncapher of First Reformed and James Hill of Trinity Baptist; Assembling manager, Richard Howard of Salem Evangelical; advisor, Bernard Brooks of Prospect street Methodist; staff artists, Paul Duffey of Trinity Baptist, John Bryans of Epworth Methodist and Marjorie Orton of Salem Evangelical and ministerial advisor, Dr. Harry Bell of Central Christian.

A cast is being chosen for a one-act play to be presented Aug. 30.

For Sunday, July 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope promises events of major and far-reaching importance both to the present and the future welfare and happiness. Sudden and breath-taking occurrences may be looked for, precipitating upheavals, disruptions, novel experiences and romantic adventures. But such dramatic and thrilling affairs are sustained by a factor making for stability, security and enduring good fortune.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of sudden and thrilling adventures and surprises. This may bring important change, uprooting, devastating moves, new experiences, and romantic attachments, all attended by assurance of enduring security, stability and sound fortunes or investments. But don't be led into extravagance or excess.

A child born on this day may have great originality, inventiveness as well as depth and sincerity of character and mentality, assuring it a successful and dramatic career.

For Monday, July 20

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather disconcerting and confusing one, the outcome of which depends upon individual restraints, stability, sound ideas and objectives with properly directed energies. High tension, nerves, erratic and impulsive conduct are bound to defeat and nullify very promising conditions. Take small setbacks with calmness and be wise with all writings.

Those whose birthday it is may be able to turn some erratic and surprising situations into unexpected successful and gain by rigid self control, sound tactics and plans, and refraining from emotional strain and excitement. There may be splendid promise in unusual lines of endeavor or through strange adventures, original creations or inventions, but in all affairs be careful in handling all writings and documents. Shun vexatious attitudes.

A child born on this day may be sensitive, high strung, nervous and perhaps irritable. It will be original, inventive, talented in unusual lines or rare discoveries. Early training may assist its stability and poise.

Prospect-Green Camp Pastor To Be Installed

Rev. H. C. Ahrens of the Salem Evangelical and Reformed church and Rev. R. L. Barr of the Waldo Evangelical and Reformed church will install Rev. Edgar Gunther as pastor of the Prospect-Green Camp parish at a service Sunday evening in the Prospect Evangelical and Reformed church. Rev. Gunther succeeds Rev. Robert Diller, now in Alliance.

HEADS OHIO CIO

JACK KROLL

Cincinnati Man Named To Succeed John Owens

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—Jack Kroll of Cincinnati yesterday was named president of the Ohio CIO council, succeeding John Owens of Cambridge.

Kroll was chosen for the post shortly after the resignation of Owens. He is a member of the general executive board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Kroll, 57, a long time friend of Owens, declined comment on Owens' resignation but said "our people in Ohio must choose between the CIO or John L. Lewis."

Kroll said the council undoubtedly would draw up a resolution condemning Lewis' attitude and actions and supporting Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

CORRECTION

Due to an error, it was stated yesterday that Richard Rawlings of Chicago had returned home after spending several days at the home of his mother on South Vine street. The name should have been Richard Lawrence. Mr. Lawrence is employed in the personnel department of the Western Electric Co. in Chicago.

NEXT ALERT

Marion's next "alert" for the civilian defense groups will be sounded as soon as telephone installations are completed at the control center on North State street. Coordinator William R. Martin said the next mobilization would be early in August. The last test mobilization revealed the vital need for additional telephone installations and these are in the process of being made, he said. The installations are direct lines for each unity leader and may total six. At the last mobilization there was only one direct line and about four extensions from the relief offices to carry the many incoming and outgoing calls.

DAMAGES OF $35,000 ASKED IN SUIT HERE

Suit for $35,000 has been filed in Marion county common pleas court by Earl A. DeBolt of Marion against George Cronenwett, doing business as the Edison Trucking Co., for damages and injuries.

The suit arises from an accident Feb. 27 of this year on route 95, east of Claridon, in which Mr. DeBolt, an employe of the state highway department, alleges he was hurt by a truck driven by Ed Rogers, an employe of the Edison Trucking Co.

According to the petition, Mr. DeBolt was standing on a spinner attached to a state highway department truck, feeding cinders into the spinner for scattering on the icy highway.

The plaintiff alleges that the Edison Trucking Co. truck, loaded with stone dust, was across the center line of the highway and to the left side of the road when it ran into the left side of the highway department truck, causing an accident in which he was seriously hurt. He alleges negligence on the part of the operator of the trucking company vehicle. Carter M. Patton is attorney for Mr. DeBolt.

Cleared of Charge In Gambling House Raid

J. A. Miko of 413 Mary street, a special investigator for the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. and one of 13 persons arrested as customers on charges of disorderly conduct in the recent Kentucky club raid by city police, has been vindicated in municipal court.

Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen said evidence had been brought before the court to show that Mr. Miko was on official business at the time of the raid. He told the court he was checking on a reported disorder at the club which involved a Hunkin-Conkey employe.

Navy Reports 3 More Ships Sunk in Atlantic

By The Associated Press

With navy reports of three more ship sinkings in the western Atlantic, the unofficial Associated Press count of United Nations and neutral losses in those waters sice Pearl Harbor was 380 today.

Seventeen seamen lost their lives when U-boats sank a small Dutch and a large American merchantman and a medium-sized British cargo ship in the Caribbean. The navy also announced yesterday that a medium-sized United States cargo carrier was sunk in the Indian ocean in April. In the four sinkings, more than 100 seamen and passengers were rescued.

GOVERNMENT BEGINS CASE AGAINST 4 OTHER NAZIS

Indications Seen for Greatly Prolonged Trial.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 18 — With evidence completed against only four of the eight alleged Nazi saboteurs, the government today began presentation of its case against the remaining prisoners, making it clear the trial would require much more time than was generally expected.

Photographs of explosives, abrasives and other articles which the prosecution contended were to have been used by the Nazis to hamper American war production, confronted the four who were brought to the Florida coast by submarine.

The group included Edward John Kerling, Herbert Haupt, Hermann Neubauer and Werner Thiel. Meantime, the four who landed by U-boat on Long Island, George John Dasch, Ernest Peter Burger, Heinrich Harm Heinck and Richard Quirin, awaited opportunity to present some defense before the military commission.

Garbage and Rubbish Collections Moved Up

Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell today asked subscribers of the city's garbage and rubbish collection services to place refuse in containers early next week so that employes may finish the week's work early and attend an annual picnic Saturday. He said employes would begin collections at 6 a. m. from Monday through Friday and would work late each day in order to cover their routes before Saturday.

3 CALLS ANSWERED BY CITY FIREMEN

Bonfires and Coaloil Stove Fire Cause Slight Damage.

Bonfires and a coaloil stove fire were responsible for calling Marion firemen yesterday and today.

The oil stove, too close to a wall, caused the fire which resulted in $25 worth of damage at the Clyde Payne home at 720 Henry street at 10:32 a. m. today. The West Center street fire department answered the call.

Sparks from a bonfire set fire to the garage at the home of William Green, 848 Kenton avenue yesterday at 2:36 p. m. The West Center and Mark street companies answered the call before much damage was done.

A grass bonfire on a vacant lot near 1017 East church street was discovered last night. Central station firemen answered the alarm. The fire did no damage.

FORMER MARION MAN EMPLOYED AT GALION

Special to The Star

GALION, July 18—Fred Staub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Staub of Galion and a former Marion resident, is one of the three teachers hired this week by the Galion board of education. Staub's parents lived in Marion until his entrance into high school. His maternal grandmother, Mrs. Irma Gilson, was also a Marion resident.

Replacing Walter Sindlinger as instructor in English and speech, Staub was graduated with honors this past spring from the University of Rochester. During his college career he was active in dramatics, journalism and athletics.

At the same time two other teachers were employed, Mrs. Walter Sindlinger who is to fill the first and second grade position formerly held by Elizabeth Somerville, and A. B. Cushman of Urbana, who will assume the position as machine shop instructor.

TO CONSERVE tires and gas members of Zeta Theta chapter, Alpha Iota sorority will "hike" to McKinley park for a "Victory" picnic next Thursday evening. The members will meet at the Y M C A at 7 o'clock and there will be a picnic supper served at the park. Plans are in charge of the newly-appointed social committee composed of Miss Martha Fagan, chairman, Miss Rozella Serene, Miss Ona Rowland, Miss Helen Sansotta, Miss Dora Lieb and Mrs. Mildred Fout.

Members of the Four G's club planned a steak roast at Newman's for July 27 at a meeting Wednesday evening when Mrs. Ruby McAdams entertained the club at her home at 442 Silver street. The birthday of Mrs. Emma Wiles was observed. Ten members and a guest, Mrs. Celesta Clark, were present.

The evening was spent socially and euchre was played. Mrs. Jennie Shannon won first award, Mrs. Leona Osborne, lone hand, and Mrs. Ruth Rice was consoled. Mrs. Edith Baker of East Center street will be the next hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lumberson of 730 Henry street entertained yesterday to celebrate the sixth birthday anniversary of their son, Jimmie. Guests included 25 friends of the celebrant.

In games the awards were won by Teddy Wormell, Betty Price, Billie Steel and Francis Hall. The hostess was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Elmer Hinkle in serving refreshments and favors were paper hats in gay colors and candy bowling pins.

Mrs. Richard Minshall was hostess to the L. S. and D. club at her home on Uncapher avenue Thursday evening. First and galloping awards at bridge were received by Mrs. John Hartman and Mrs. Stanley Thompson was consoled. Guests were Mrs. Howard Barkley and Mrs. John Liendenderfer. The latter received the guest prize. Mrs. James Hemmel of South High street will be hostess to the club Aug. 6.

The Fidelis class of First Evangelical and Reformed church met Tuesday evening with Miss Maude Jones at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Williams of Wood street. Mrs. Harold Jones was in charge of devotions and Mrs. Robert Cleveland presented the lesson study. A white elephant sale was conducted. Contest awards went to Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Ray Klehm. A picnic was planned for July 28.

Mrs. A. C. Erskine was a guest when the N. G. P. bridge club met last night at the home of Mrs. Clinton Kneisley on South High street. Honors were won by Mrs. Fleet Baker and Mrs. Cecil Ramsey. The floating award went to Mrs. Jennie Shannon. Gifts were also presented the hostess and guest.

JUST THINGS

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Things Change

HE is less than 10 years old, but ages ago he decided he was going to be a baseball player. He's followed the teams in the major leagues, lo, these many years, calls the players by their porch names, knows their averages and can tell quicker than the quick-quoted wink whether they're going up or down. And we had looked forward to cheering loudly from the grandstand one of these days. Imagine our surprise to be told recently he's going to be an aviator." To our comeback, "Why, we thought it was a baseball player," we were told politely but positively "not if this war keeps up."

Luxury

WERE a pampered outfit if you ask us, and are we finding it out. Take traveling by the steam cars, for an example. For years our commuting days have been most pleasant—comfortable seats, super coaches, and more recently adjustable seats in the day coaches, air conditioning and anything else that spells comfort and ease. Recently we rode in what must have been a museum piece. At any rate it must have been a pride and joy back in the days when the local whizzed merrily along at 10 or 15 miles an hour and the evening train took the switch for the flyer. The seats were upholstered in what looked like leather, the doors were opened for ventilation and the smoke and cinders gave the cash customers a taste of what a smoke barrage must be like. At times the car actually shuddered, but there was never an instance when it seemed to be giving up or out, and it's our bet that there's still plenty of mileage in the old bus. Not that we minded—in fact we'll ride the handcar without a murmur, but—well, who started this dern fight anyhow.

Late Planting

NOT that we're an authority but we have it from reliable sources, there's still time to plant vegetables in your victory garden or even start from scratch—make an out and out new garden. According to this chart vegetables which may be planted as late as Aug 1 and harvested this year are wax and green beans, beets, carrots, lettuce and radishes, and as late as Aug. 15 you may sow turnips. But remember, this is not our story.

Former Marion Couple's Daughter Weds Texas Man

OF INTEREST here is the marriage of Miss Anne Elizabeth Copeland Conarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Conarty of Cincinnati, former Marion residents, and Oliver B. MacClaran of Tyler, Tex., which took place Saturday morning July 11, in the Church of the Resurrection at Fernbank, O. Stephan Howard Alling, rector, read the ceremony at 10:30 o'clock. For the ceremony the altar vases held white and pink larkspur and was candle lighted. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William MacClaren of Tyler, Tex.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory Breton lace over ivory satin, which had been worn by her great aunt, Mrs. Howard Darlington Copeland in the 80's. It was made with a basque cut low in front with three-quarter length sleeves and the skirt extended into a long train. Her fingertip veil was of ivory illusion and she wore a pair of old gold bracelets which had belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Henry Guild Copeland of Marion, and which were worn by her sisters at their weddings. The wedding dress also was worn by the bride's eldest sister, Mrs. Robert F. Leidolf of Indianapolis, at her wedding last June. The bridal bouquet was fashioned of white roses shading to deep cream with yellow centers, feverfew and gladioli.

Mrs. Leidolf was her sister's matron of honor and another sister, Mrs. Gregory P. Foley of Cincinnati was her bridesmaid.

Lieut. William James Caldwell of Birmingham, Ala., who is stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., was Mr. McClaren's best man and ushers were John Haney of Dallas, Tex., Francis Gribble of Benton, Ark., and James Grant of Duluth, Minn.

Mrs. Conarty wore a white jacket ensemble with a small white hat. Her corsage was an orchid.

Miss Peggy Welsh, organist, played a program of organ music, including "Venetian Love Song," Nevin, "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell, "Ave Maria," Schubert, "Overture to Romeo and Juliet," Tschaikowsky, "Liebestraum," Liszt, "A Perfect Love," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and the wedding marches. In keeping with an old English custom the church bell was rung at the close of the ceremony.

The bride and bridegroom greeted their friends in the rear of the church and later there was a breakfast for the wedding party and out-of-town guests at the home of the bride's parents. Garden flowers were used for decoration. When the couple left for Texas where they will spend their honeymoon the bride wore a honey yellow shantung costume and white accessories, and her flowers were from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Aurora, Ind., until October when the bridegroom will enter the army.

Guests from out of the city were Miss Lucille Conarty and Harold Osman of Marion, Mrs. L. R. DeLauder of Miami, Fla., Lieut. and Mrs. William J. Caldwell of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leidolf, Miss Ruth Waldheiser of Indianapolis, Miss Neal Beadel of Birmingham, Ala., Miss Mary Lou Francisco of Madison, Ind., Miss Jean Weston of Huntington Pa., Miss Sally Ann Smith of Louisville, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Watters of Covington, Ky., John Haney of Dallas, Tex., Francis Gribble of Benton, Ark., James Grant of Duluth, Minn., and Arden Hardigrove of Louisville Ky.

Union Co. Man Says Not Guilty of Cattle Theft

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 18 — Guy Elliott, 28, was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond today when he pleaded not guilty to a grand larceny charge growing out of the theft of three head of cattle from his mother, Mrs. Ada Elliott, who filed the warrant for his arrest.

The prisoner was arrested by Kenton city police officials there Thursday and returned here by Sheriff Homer S. Roosa who had traced him to the Hardin county town. The cattle were stolen Tuesday after Elliott allegedly borrowed a neighbor's truck "to haul kindling for his mother." He returned in about four hours with the truck. He placed a note on his mother's table stating that he had taken the cattle and was on his way to Canada. The cattle consisting of a cow and two calves valued at $150 have not been located.

Galion Takes Option on Land for Project

Special to The Star

GALION, July 18—To alleviate a possible water shortage in the city, Mayor William Amann announced Friday that council had authorized him to take an option on a farm southwest of town where it is thought there will be ample water from numerous springs. The purchase price allowed by council was $10,000.

Mayor Amann said the option was taken Friday from the owners, Nora and Edward Hurley, to expire Oct. 15, 1942. The city will start work on the site soon.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT

Kirk Crager of near Amanda, O., was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail and ordered to pay costs totaling $18.36, when he entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny Thursday in Marion county common pleas court. The larceny charge was in connection with the theft of $15 from a Marion resident.

Navy Recruiters Put Out Calls for Cooks

An urgent need for the enlistment of men possessing cooking and baking experience in restaurants, hotels, CCC camps, country clubs and similar places where practical training was acquired was announced today by the Ninth Naval district headquarters at Great Lakes, Ill.

The need has grown out of the expansion of facilities of the U. S. naval training station at Great Lakes, and the establishing of many new navy service schools and training centers throughout the 13 mid-western states that comprise the district.

Applications should be between the ages of 18 and 50, ablebodied and in physical condition to meet navy requirements. They must be American citizens and able to read and write.

Men in the Marion area interested in this branch of service have been asked to contact the Marion recruiting station in the postoffice building.

County's Salvage Heads Urge Public Support of Drive

It's a far cry from the old rake out in the field or the discarded family flat iron to a tank, plane or ship, but it all adds up to just that, so comb every nook and cranny for scrap iron, steel and other salvage material and help Marion in the salvage drive now in full swing.

Containers have been placed at the city parking lot and at the filling stations for the contributions of salvage now being solicited by the Marion County Salvaging committee of which George Alber and Clyde C. Caldwell are co-chairmen. The local drive is part of the nationwide drive announced by Donald M. Nelson WPB chairman.

Other Scrap Needed

In addition to scrap iron and steel, the materials to be collected are brass and other nonferrous metals, rubber, rope and fats.

"As the war becomes more intensive on the various foreign fronts," Mr. Alber said, "the need for scrap materials has steadily increased." He declared that while collections of various types of salvage have already been made here from time to time, the expanding requirments of the war program have made it necessary to obtain much larger amounts of materials.

"The American steel industry this year hopes to produce a record-breaking 85,000,000 tons of steel — as much as all foreign countries put together can make. Our country alone this year is going to produce three tons of steel for every two tons the Axis can turn out.

"To bring steel production up to the industry's full capacity of 90,000,000 tons in 1942, however, our steel industry needs an extra 6,000,000 tons of scrap steel for its furnaces. Every ton of scrap we can send them will swell our national production of tanks, ships, planes and guns."

Needed for Armament

"An increasing number of boys from this city are already seeing active service," he said. "We on the home front must see to it that industry shall not lack the materials needed for adequately arming and equipping them.

"Every housewife can play an important drive. She should carefully inspect all of her house furnishings — to find out what equipment she has that has outlived its usefulness.

"An old iron pot or a knife in the kitchen, the steel springs of an old upholstered chair in the attic, some discarded pipe or heating equipment in the cellar, unused wire clothes hangers in a closet — these are a few of the items that will provide pounds and pounds of scrap.

"Waste kitchen pots, and rubber, are also needed badly and should be turned in."

BETTMAN

remembered for his vigorous career as attorney general.

He won a U. S. supreme court decision that brought the state $1,676,000 in back state excise taxes on gas piped into Ohio and has provided thousands of dollars of state revenue annually.

From the Ohio supreme court he obtained a decision permitting construction of highways on abandoned canal beds, saving an estimated $2,000,000.

After vote frauds in the 1928 primaries at Cleveland, Bettman prosecuted 31 persons and obtained 11 convictions. He also played a leading role in the long fight by Ohio to protect Great Lakes water levels from being lowered by diversion in other states.

Born in Cincinnati Oct. 31, 1861, the son of a clothing manufacturer, Bettman was graduated from Harvard university law school in 1907.

He interrupted his legal practice to volunteer in the World war and was commissioned a captain in the military intelligence section. A pioneer in the building of the American Legion, he was a delegate to all early national Legion conventions and helped draft the so-called bonus bill in 1920 after which he was made the Legion's national legislative committee chairman. He was Ohio department commander in 1922.

Funeral services will be at 11 a. m. Monday with Rr. Jonah Wise of New York City officiating. The widow, Mrs. Iphigene Molony Bettman and three children—Gilbert Jr., 25; Carol H., wife of Dr. Eugene H. Sterne Jr., and Alfred, 20—survive.

Morrow County Native Found Dead in Columbus

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, July 18—Walter H. Christy, 64, a native of Canaan township, Morrow county, was found dead in his home in Columbus at 1:30 a. m. today after neighbors heard a gunshot.

Mr. Christy, a former state examiner, was born near Caledonia Nov. 9, 1878, the son of William C. and Adella Ashbaugh Christy. His wife, Mrs. Olive Christy, died in July, 1941. Friends said Mr. Christy had been melancholy because of his wife's death.

A sister, Mrs. Laura Patterson of Cleveland, survives.

The funeral will be held in the home at Columbus Monday. The body will be brought to Cardington for burial.

CHINESE FORCE JAPS OUT OF PORT CITY

Driven from Partly-Captured Winchow Garrison.

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 18 — The Japanese garrison at recently-captured Wenchow, a port in south Chekiang province, has been forced to retire under heavy Chinese pressure, the Central News agency reported today.

Chinese forces were reported reentering the city with the Japanese retreating toward Julian, 13 miles to the south.

The fall of Wenchow to the Japanese had been acknowledged by the Chinese command earlier this week following a series of enemy operations which completed an arc from Hangchow on the north to Wenchow in the southeast.

ceive a back pay check of more than $50 if the companies accept the award. None of the concerns involved has issued a statement giving its position.

The union says it has contracts with 1,000 companies employing 625,000 workers, in addition to the 157,000 employes by "Little Steel."

The basic wage, for common labor, in the industry is 72½ cents an hour, $5.60 for an eight-hour day.

The "Little Steel" committee, in accepting the award after a three-hour session last night, said in a resolution the union workers "embraced the opportunity of being in the forefront in carrying out the national policy which will aid our nation in its war total survival."

"The labor board upheld the union's contention that through the establishment of union security and the check-off, the full effort and energy of all of the steel workers can henceforth be contributed toward obtaining maximum production of steel so vital to winning the war.

"We do not agree with the analysis of the majority members of the board that its wage award will meet the living cost problem of the steel workers. This award is based upon the President's seven-point national economic program, calling for national stabilization of cost of living.

"Wages cannot and must not be the sole object of the stabilization effort. The workers now look toward the President and congress to carry through the remaining portions of the national economic program, such as an affective tax program and a reul effective freezing of prices of goods, rents and other items of cost.

"We shall watch this phase of the program most carefully. The workers are entitled to know whether their living costs are going to be stabilized."

Meanwhile, production of vital aircraft materials halted in the American Magnesium Corporation's Buffalo plant where about 1,000 employes staged a walkout Thursday over a wage dispute.

Asserting the strike was a "contribution" to the enemies of the United States, Chairman William M. Davis of the war labor board declared it was continuing "despite urgent pleas" of leaders of the United Mine Workers, District 50, that the employes return to work.

In Detroit, Mayor Edward J. Jeffries ordered disciplinary action against leaders of an unauthorized strike partially disrupting service of the city-owned street railway system and interfering with transportation of defense workers. Some AFL employes struck yesterday but voted last night to return to their jobs.

Another Detroit strike, termed unauthorized by officials of the CIO Aluminum Workers of America, caused a nine-hour tieup at the Aluminum Company of America plant affecting 2,300 workers who charged the company had halted the extra work bonus rate.

A General Motors tank plant was idle for the fourth day in Flint, Mich., in a walkout which the workers said was caused by the discharge of 30 welders.

Farm Women Attend Canning Demonstration

A demonstration of canning and a talk on protective foods and the need of foods for health and in winning the war were given by Miss Georgia M. Amick, canning expert, yesterday afternoon at the Marion-Reserve Power Co. terminal building.

Women of the rural communities in the county attended. The meeting was arranged by and in charge of Mrs. Bessie Harper, chairman of the county canning program committee of the Farm Security administration, Mrs. Christine Cook, county home demonstration agent, Miss Vivian Hall of the Division of Public assistance, Miss Jane L. Gorsuch, nutritionist, county health department, Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, demonstration agent with the Marion-Reserve Power Co. and Mrs. Ethel Cochran, county farmer field woman for the AAA.

Rent Control Board Named

some action is taken to relieve the situation.

Prosecutor Reed pointed out that OPA regulations give the federal government authority to name a rent administrator if "local or state" authorities do not work out a satisfactory control program. He said satisfactory functioning of the rent control committee would prevent the naming of a rent administrator here, and cited the experience of Columbus and other cities where adjustments between landlords and tenants are being worked out regularly by fair rent committees.

He said he had made a study of OPA regulations, had visited Columbus to see how the problem was being handled there, and felt the new committee could cope with Marion's problem in a more satisfactory way than any other method. Incidentally, he said that in Columbus the committee has been denying rent increases in about half of the cases brought up for hearing, but that in many cases increases were found to be justified.

To Use March 1 Date

The Marion committee plans to follow the federal OPA program which seeks to stabilize rents of March 1 this year, but members said they would feel free to take into consideration any factors that might have a bearing on determining a "fair" rent in any particular case. They anticipate that landlords, as well as tenants, will come to the committee with complaints.

The first cases to be heard by the committee will be those now pending in municipal court eviction cases which Judge Hazen has delayed issuing a final order. Parties involved in these cases are to be notified to appear before the committee for hearings at its first meeting. Officials expressed the opinion that the committee, conducting hearings in an informal manner without the usual trial procedure, could bring most disputing landlords and tenants into a reasonable compromise or adjustment or, if the situation called for it, the committee could take a firm stand against any landlord or tenant who seemed to be taking an unreasonable position. As a result, they anticipate a majority of potential court cases involving rents never will get into court but will be settled before the committee.

Typical Problem

Some indication of the ramifications of the rent problem came up in an informal discussion last night. One of them was, "If I decide to rent a room to someone, and never before have rented out a room, can this committee tell me whether I'm charging too much? Whether I'm charging enough? Should the committee could and should decide the reasonableness of a room rental under those circumstances, even though there was no March 1 "ceiling" to consider, if the matter were brought beforts it on a complaint. One member pointed out that "we all know about what houses are worth in different parts of town depending, of course, on their condition. We know about what is fair for roof rent, after considering what furniture and other conveniences are furnished. I think it's the committee's job to take the knowledge into consideration in deciding each case and not just stick to a set of rules that might not apply to every case."

When Mayor Snare commented that he had some 75 written complaints already on file, the committee decided that these should not be turned over to the committee in their present form. Persons who made those complaints, they pointed out, should go to Mr. Haberman after next Wednesday morning and file a new complaint to bring the matter before the committee for a hearing.

To Act as Group

In another matter of policy determined at last night's meeting, members decided they "would not discuss cases except at committee meetings." They warned that it will be pointless for anyone to contact committee members, except through written complaints or attendance at a regular hearing, regarding rent cases. "To be absolutely fair, the whole committee should be present while any case is discussed," one of the members pointed out.

The committee of lawyers from the Marion County Bar association that will work with the committee consists of W. P. Hennig and Prosecutor Reed.

This group will meet [illegible] only to draw up a [illegible] blank form on [illegible] case is taken, [illegible] bers of this group will be present at all sessions of the committee.

Hearings will start at 7:30 p. m. Now scheduled for once a week, they may be held oftener if the volume of cases require more hearings. However, hearings will be kept brief and the committee expects to handle several at each meeting.

the board is made up of four Marion city and four Marion county residents, Cloyce Taylor of 305 Bradford street, Luther G. Geer of 157 Brenner court, Floyd Wilson of 925 Uncapher avenue, Roy J. Garceau of 564 Vernon Heights boulevard, Edward L. Behrens of Prospect, Lowell Douce of Caledonia, George W. Sorreles of Green Camp and Leo Groll of Waldo.

Named Secretary

Mr. Holliday, who has served on the LaRue rationing board, has been appointed to serve as executive secretary at a salary paid by the OPA from federal funds. Rationing board secretaries come under the federal civil service commission.

Upon Mr. Holliday will devolve the large part of the work of the board.

Mr. Barnhart said this morning that he understood the board was to serve in an advisory capacity to Mr. Holliday and that occasionally there might be rationing policies which the board would be asked to formulate for the secretary's guidance.

Until the new board can begin functioning, Coordinator Probst and his workers will continue to function.

"It is a courtesy on the part of Mr. Probst and one that we appreciate," the new chairman said. "He is following up his work until the other organization is set up and ready to function."

Mr. Barnhart said he understood the new executive secretary's office would be set up at the present rationing center on East Center street.

14,500 LEGION GOAL IN RECORD CAMPAIGN

Drive in County To Get Under Way Monday.

A goal of 14,500 phonograph records from Marion city and county has been set by the Ohio department of the American Legion, it was announced today as preparations were being completed to open the local drive Monday. The campaign will continue until Aug. 2.

The quota has been set for the combined posts of the county, in Marion, LaRue, Caledonia and Prospect, according to T. E. Kinnear, county Legion commander and co-chairman with R. A. Todd for the record drive.

The entire fleet of Omar Baking Co. trucks, offered the chairmen, has been accepted and will pick up records left on porches along delivery routes throughout the city and county.

Containers will be placed in Marion's theaters to receive records.

Records collected here will be sent to the "Records for Fighting Men, Inc." in New York City, a non-profit organization started by a group including Kay Kyser, Kate Smith and Gene Autry. The organization will sell the records for salvage purposes and will buy at cost, new records and record machines for American men in service at home and abroad.

In the interest of the national campaign there will be a nation-wide broadcast on the Columbia network from 8 to 8:30 tonight featuring National Legion Commander Stambaugh, Burgess Meredith, Nelson Eddy, Kay Kyser, Kate Smith and Harry James' orchestra.

The War Savings Habit

EVERY time there is some special reason for buying War Stamps and Bonds it must occur to many purchasers that a lot more could be sold if the selling campaign ran at fever heat all the time.

Unfortunately, every day can't be made a special occasion. Furthermore, that isn't the spirit of the War Savings idea. That spirit has been embodied at its best in the plan whereby a certain amount is deducted every pay day for purchase of War Bonds.

The financing of the war and the economic stabilization that must be maintained during and after the war are not emotional projects. They represent the boldest and most imaginative experiment in the management of national resources ever undertaken on so vast a scale.

The United States, fighting for its life, has dared to dream collectively that it can provide the impetus for a better, braver world by pooling its tremendous resources to check the spread of brutalitarianism—not just the resources of the rich, or the bankers or somebody else, but the resources of all of us and our country.

The United States has dared to dream of doing this, moreover, as an investment. The cost of preservation is to be charged off just as the cost of getting rid of termites in a building would be charged off—as part of the expense of maintenance. Money borrowed from ordinary people to maintain the only kind of government in which they are permitted any rights will be repaid with interest. It's too bad the idea can't be made more and more sensational by promotion every day for the duration of the war, but for all ordinary purposes it's sensational enough without any promotion at all.

More Axis Attacks

WHILE the United Nations continue to wish they had a second front, the Axis continues to take advantage of the initiative, which has been its uncontested privilege so far in the war.

Aside from the probability of a Japanese attack on Russia, to bring that nation to its knees if possible before the United Nations can do anything to help it, the most obvious move now in the making concerns Crete.

Crete has been described as the world's largest aircraft carrier, meaning that its situation in the eastern Mediterranean between Europe and Africa makes it a perfect base for aerial operations. Information that German troops are being massed there means that preparations are under way for an air-borne attack on the British in Egypt. Gen. Rommel will receive his reinforcements by air mail.

Once more the British will be placed under a terrific handicap. Once more the United Nations will take it on the chin and go rocking on their heels. Once more blood, toil, sweat and tears will be the order of business.

With each passing month of the war, almost with each new day, it is clearer that the Axis comes close to doubling the power of its men and machines by continuing to hold the advantage of keeping the other side guessing—not with conjectures about another front but with repeated thrusts at the enemy where they hurt most. Air-borne invasion of Egypt and the Japanese attack on Russia, if and when they happen, may be the worst news the anti-Axis nations have had to recover from yet.

Half a Policy Worse Than None

THERE is a rumor that President Roosevelt may ask congress to do something about stabilizing wages. It's too bad it isn't accompanied by a rumor that something may be done about stabilizing prices of farm commodities. Worst of all, it's tragic that at this late stage of the game a matter of such great importance as wage stabilization should be only a rumor.

In the face of facts, not theory—such cold facts as the continuous rise of farm commodity prices and the forthcoming increase in steel wages, with its inevitable repercussions in the automobile industry—the government's policy of curbing inflation is beginning to look sick. It is sick. It never had a chance to be anything else.

Washington has played politics with national welfare. Perhaps the attempt to keep farmers and organized wage earners in the happiest possible frame of mind with more income while planning to give everybody else a little less income could be called social philanthropy or something equally fancy, but it all boils down to playing off one minority against another. That's politics.

Half a policy is worse than none. The Roosevelt administration wanted to avert inflation, but it didn't want to offend farmers who wanted higher prices or organized wage earners who wanted higher rates. It wanted to have its inflation cake and not have it, too. Things are coming to a showdown with a rush. Either the United States is going to make an honest, inclusive effort to avert inflation, or it is going to quit stalling and go on the binge that it still hasn't had the courage to call off.

CHECK CAREFULLY FIRST.

News Behind the News

Last-Minute Trading Lays Heavy Odor on New Federal Tax Bill.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 18—It developed a bit late the second week when the house ways and means committee unanimously decided on the strangest of zag rules for house consideration of the tremendous new tax bill.

It meant that these terrific taxes were, in effect, levied by 25 men, that the representatives of the people in the house must either like their handiwork as a whole or reject it. No changes could be made. Only three days of rules discussion was possible.

But even the rip snorting ultra-New Dealer representative Knute Hill of Washington voted for such a strenuous restriction on this occasion for the first time in his life.

All the leaders well knew that if this tax bill was opened for normal floor consideration, the house would tear it apart. They had to exclude the house practically from considering the measure in order to save it.

No tax bill is ever satisfactory, but this one came out of committee with a slightly heavier odor than usual, due to some last-minute trading.

It seems that Mr. McKeough, of Illinois, and some of his New Deal associates, schemed that final five per cent hoist in corporation taxes by trading off their votes privately on the joint husband and wife return proposition.

Horse Trading

There are eight community property states which were determined to kill the joint-return proposition made by the treasury, and their representatives were naturally eager to lend their votes to the corporations increase in return for New Deal support for their pet interest.

But the bill as a whole represents a general compromise all the way through.

The top tax-makers in congress, like committee Chairman Doughton, were determined that business should not be driven down by these taxes to the point of impoverishment. They did not want that last five per cent increase in corporation tax.

It meant the government would take nearly half (45 per cent) of all business profits and 87.5 of what might be considered excess profits, in addition to social security taxes, state, local and other taxes.

Certainly no corporation now could possibly make any more than 6 or 8 percent, if that, even if it has been running a deficit for many years. And even if it makes 8 percent, this amount is distributed to individuals who must pay terrific income taxes, so that the government now is near taking everything business makes in one form or another.

The suspicion naturally evolves that some of the extreme New Dealers want to impoverish business thus, in order that it may be easier taken over for socialistic operation. No proof of this contention exists.

The New Dealers expect private enterprise to continue to exist and private initative to be maintained, under this bill. But no one can deny this much:

Socialistic Trend

If anybody wants a socialistic system, taxation is the way to get it. Government cannot possible seize profitable business. It cannot pay for successful private enterprises. It has insufficient resources to acquire by purchase. But it can easily control, manage and even take over business which is sick or weak.

This bill edges up to the line of improverishment, and up against the question of whether individual

Unconquered People

New Government Book Tells How Occupied Countries Resist.

HATE of Europe's millions for the German invader is typified in this illustration by Edmund Duffy of the Baltimore Sun, for the OWI booklet, "The Unconquered People."

Wide World Features

MORALE of German occupational troops in Europe is weakening visibly because of open hatred of the mastered inhabitants. Sabotage, industrial slowdowns and open resistance against the Nazi invader are increasing despite frightful cost of patriots' lives.

So reports the Office of War Information in a booklet, "The Unconquered People," which makes an issue of the need of the peoples of occupied countries for help from the outside.

Resistance began, the booklet's authors set forth, almost as soon as the first shock of defeat were off, and self preservation seemed less and less important.

Norway Started It

Norwegians suddenly were unable to understand German commands and ignored Germans and Quislings as though non-existent. Norwegian jurists, nurses, educators and clergymen resigned, the younger and more able of them to make their way to Allied soil where they took up military training.

Belgians found unity on last Armistice day when they demonstrated before the tomb of their Unknown Soldier, the Dutch planted their tulip fields to resemble huge Dutch flags, Breton sailors with German observers conveniently became lost in the English channel and landed at English ports.

Those were the beginnings of resistance, as the booklet traces them. The underground press began to appear. Belgium now has 40 such papers, with revealing titles like "La Libre Belgique" and "Le Front de Resistance."

Radio Helps

Regardless of consequences, people of the occupied countries cluster around short-wave broadcasts from the Allies, and men like Jan Masaryk, who was the Czech foreign minister, counsel their countrymen from London and elsewhere.

The spectacular began with sabotage, and in its summary the booklet points to such results in France as transportation delays, slipshod work in factories, damage to plants, train wrecks and spilling of grain.

"Skillful industrial sabotage, especially of complicated machinery," it is reported, "has been difficult to detect during inspection, and has not revealed itself until the truck or tractor has taken to the road, causing breakdowns and delays.

Death In This Cargo

"One shipment of 20 million pieces of tampered-with ammunition had to be returned to a Czechoslovak factory because if German retouch workers had attempted to attach time fuses they would have been blown sky high.

War Labor Board Decision in Little Steel Case Analyzed.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT WAS the business of the War Labor Board in the "Little Steel" case to establish a practical working rule for carrying out the third of seven points in the President's anti-inflation program of April 27: "We must stabilize the remuneration received by individuals for their work."

In order to understand what the board has done, the crucial thing to bear in mind is that it has taken "remuneration for work" to mean the rate of pay for an hour's work. The board, quite properly, was not concerned with the total earnings of a worker, with the amount of money in his week's pay envelope. It was concerned with his "remuneration"—with the rate of pay for each hour of work. And it is this hourly rate of pay that the board has "stabilized."

In giving practical meaning to the word "stabilize," the board had to make a judgment on the broad grounds of equity. The board might have said that the hourly wage rate on April 27 should stay put unless the cost of living index rises after April 27. The board found, however, that for 16 months, from Jan. 1, 1941, up to April 27, 1942, the cost of living had risen 15 per cent — whereas for a long period before Jan. 1 1941, the cost of living had been fairly stable. The board, therefore, decided that it was fairer to stabilize hourly wage rates as of the stabler period, thus allowing for the fact that the country could have, but in fact had not, prevented the cost of living from rising 15 per cent.

In view of the fact that labor had renounced the right to strike before congress and the administration and the country got around to stabilizing the cost of living, the justice of this ruling is evident. It is significant that the four employer members of the board agreed that this was just.

Hourly Rates Stabilized

In estimating the effects of the decision we must continue to keep clearly in mind that what the board has stabilized is the hourly rate of pay. It has not frozen the income of the wage earners. If they work longer hours, they will have a larger income. Nor has the board frozen the standard of living so as to guarantee to the wage earners that they will be able to consume as much of the same goods as they did in time of peace. What the board has said is that for an hour's work the pay shall theoretically be enough to buy at Henderson prices the same goods that hourly pay bought 18 months ago.

But this is very different from saying that the board has ruled that the purchasing power of workers shall be maintained at the peacetime standard of 1941. For example, if it took a worker, who was paid a dollar an hour, 12 minutes to earn enough to buy one gallon of 20-cent gasoline in 1941, then under the board's ruling he must be able to earn a gallon of gasoline in 12 minutes. But that does not mean he will be able to buy as many gallons as he did in 1941. It means only that the very few gallons he is able to buy will continue to cost him 12 minutes' work per gallon. Like every one else, he is subject to rationing and to taxation and perhaps later to compulsory saving.

The four labor members of the board say in their dissent that the ruling "struck a serious blow at the foundations of the collective bargaining process." That is not a fair description of the ruling. The foundations of the collective bargaining process are untouched, and, if anything, they have been fortified by the other parts of the decision granting maintenance of membership and the check-off and by other provisions which recognize fully the collective bargaining process. What has happened is that there is now a rule for fixing the hourly rate of pay when employers and employes disagree because they have not reached a collective bargain.

Sets Upper Limit

In fact, this sets an upper limit on wage rates, provided the cost of living index remains fixed. The unions have been given a clear standard of what they are entitled to ask by collective bargaining for the duration of the war. The correct description of what has happened, then, is to say that the foundations of collective bargaining are untouched, but that the use of collective bargaining on wage rates has been regulated under the war powers.

In considering their attitude toward the policy, the leaders of labor will do well to remember that the real problem which wage earners and all others will face six months hence and thereafter will be how to obtain goods and services, not money. At the board's hourly wage rates, when the sub-standard wages have been taken care of, the income of the great mass of war workers will greatly exceed the goods they are able to buy. Many things a man wants he won't be able to get for love or money. Many things he needs he will be able to have only in rationed quantities. The things he will be able to buy he will, we hope and believe, be able to buy at present prices.

Therefore, what could be gained by rejecting the stabilization of hourly wage rates, by incurring the popular odium of unsettling industry in time of war, by confronting the country with angry disputes about rates of pay? Suppose the labor unions used their bargaining power to drive up wage rates as high as their power could force them. What would happen? Would workers have more tires, gasoline, iceboxes, radios, sugar or any of the other things that are going to be scarce? Not at all. The inevitable and certain effect would be to bring in more quickly higher taxes, more drastic rationing, severer restrictions on the choice of work. In other words, this country would have to resort to much more direct forms of compulsion to keep the national economy in order for the purposes of the war.

Almost certainly we shall come to these war measures anyway. If the labor leaders are wise they will prepare to play their part in seeing to it that the measures are wisely set up and justly administered. That is where they can do the most to protect the real interests of their members, and they will make a mistake if they weaken themselves morally and practically by fighting a phoney battle over hourly wage rates.

It was Monday, July 18, 1932.

Kaye Don, British speedboat racing king, won the world's water speed record on the Loch Lomond river with a speed of 119.81 miles per hour.

The Marion county jail reached the overflowing point when arrival of four prisoners from the city prison swelled the population to 43.

Miss Virginia Wilson entertained the Three D's club at her home on East Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas and daughter Lillian were guests at a meeting of the Three G's Sunday school class of Morral Baptist church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schertzer north of the city.

Miss Gertrude Cahill of Marion and Harold Buck of Lowell, Mich., were married in the First Church of the Brethren parsonage by Rev. G. G. Canfield.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Montgomery of the Agosta-LaRue pike and to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Guy of Curtis avenue, and daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Von Schertzer of Big Island and Mr. and Mrs. L. Pine of Fairground street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, July 18, 1922.

News dispatches from Washington stated that President Harding would not hesitate to approve seizure of the coal mines if production was long delayed in the current strike.

At a cabinet meeting it was decided that President Harding should address a communication to the governors of the 48 states, calling upon them to protect, by troops if necessary, the public interest which had been endangered by the twin rail and coal strikes.

As a result of late frost, Ohio's 1922 apple crop was expected to be only 40 per cent normal and the peach crop about 60 per cent of the usual yield.

The Lottery Ax

With or Without Permission, It Will Be Ground Once More: Rep. Knutson Has New Bill.

By DAMON RUNYON

REP. HAROLD KNUTSON of Minnesota adopting my suggestion that the profits of the federal lottery, if it comes into existence, go to the relief of families of service men.

He informs me that he intends introducing a new bill in the house of representatives to that effect. It will replace his H. R. 6587, which provides for the lottery as a means of raising additional revenue for defraying war expenditures and of financing increased federal grants for old age assistance after the termination of the present unlimited national emergency.

In this revised form, I think Mr. Knutson's bill will have a better chance of being accepted by congress than the original draft. It is a time when the hat is being passed around civilians to raise money for distressed dependents of our fighting men, and without adequate result. I do not see why there should be any hostility to a plan that promises to take care of the entire situation.

With all the benefits and collections that have been taking place in the country for army and navy relief purposes, the total that will be realized will not exceed a few millions of dollars which is wholly insufficient to meet the emergency. The federal lottery would produce, at the lowest estimate $250,000,000 a year. This would not only cover the relief required but would leave something over for other contingencies.

MY IDEA of the lottery is that it should continue only during the period of the war and perhaps a year afterward to gather in the loose ends, but should the experiment prove a success it might possibly be carried on longer to take care of old-age assistance. However, I am chiefly interested in the problem of the moment, which is getting the money for the moment, which is getting the money for the families of service men.

I think it was J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI, who estimated some years ago that the American public gambled more than $8,000,000,000 a year one way and another. While I thought at the time that the figure was a little high, I am now commencing to think it was conservative. In the past few months I have received evidence that indicates that lottery alone is practiced in various forms throughout the country to an extent that must involve millions and millions of dollars.

These forms include "club" drawings for cash prizes that have enormous vogue in San Francisco and other large cities, and in the numbers rackets of the east and middle west and the boleta of the south. I learn, somewhat to my astonishment, that the "club" drawings are deemed legitimate in some places though they are undeniably lottery and certainly have the gambling aspect that some persons contend is the objectionable feature of a federal lottery.

MOST of my readers will recognize this objection as a phase of that hypocrisy that is always prevalent in the United States when questions to which the argument of public morals can be applied in some manner. I have no doubt that members of churches which tolerate bingo or who participate in those movie theater drawings for prizes would be hostile to a federal lottery, though there is no essential difference between that and their own forms of chance-taking.

Besides the drawings mentioned, we have the legalized pari-mutuels gambling on horse racing, in which both state and federal governments figure to some extent as partners. They take their taxes out of the jackpot and in the case of the state governments, exercise considerable supervision over this method of realizing on the gaming instinct of the public.

My train of thought may be somewhat peculiar, but I think it the height of hypocrisy for anyone to object to the idea of federal lottery while saying nothing about the gambling on horse racing, if not indeed encouraging it to the extent of attendance and participation.

NEW HANGERS FOR BATHTUBS DEVISED

Prevent Settling and Costly Bills for Repairs.

Keeping old bathrooms looking new is more important today than ever before.

The crack in the plaster where the tub settled used to be accepted as an inevitable sign of an ageing bathroom. Today, however, two new developments have made it possible to prevent this crack and thus aid the bathroom in preserving its youthful appearance.

Modern built-in bathtubs are made with a raised guard or so-called high tiling edge which prevents water from seeping behind the wall. Equally important is the development of several types of sturdy hangers which permanently hold the tub in its place.

Not only are cracks around a bathtub unsightly but the seepage of water into the crack may cause rotting of the wood and thus eventually involve a major job of rebuilding the wall.

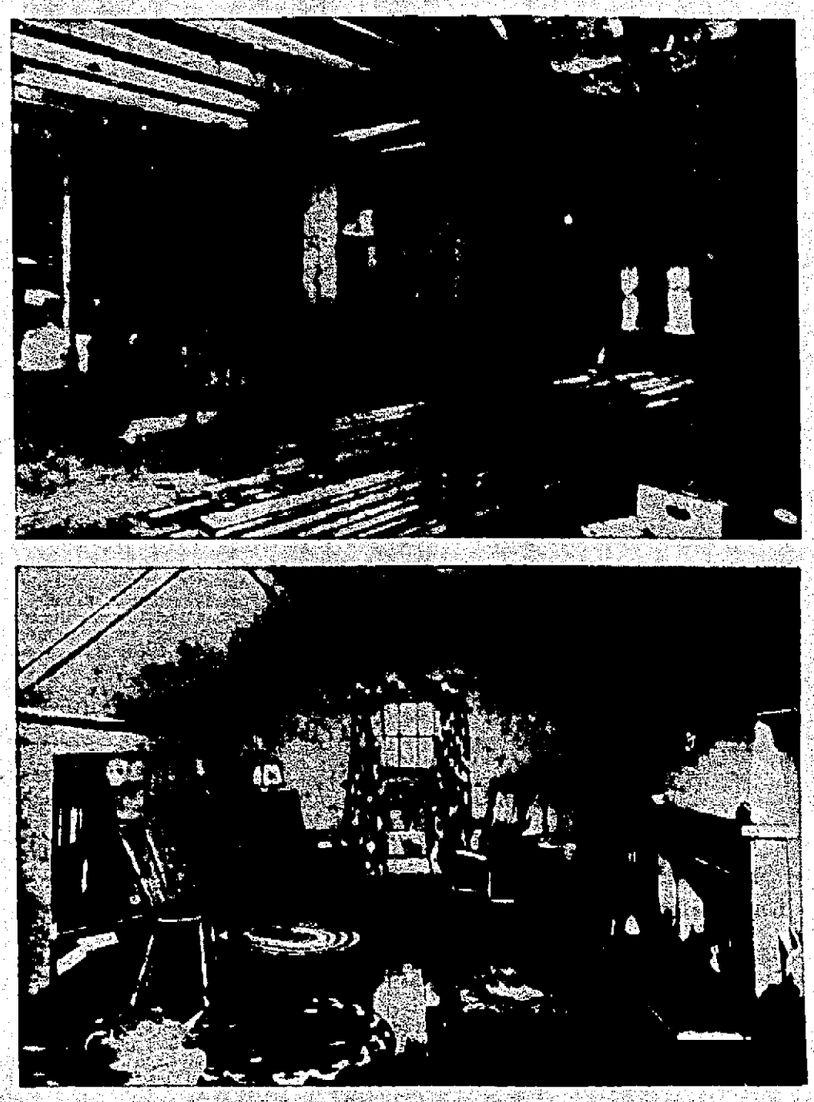
Thus the combined use of a tub with a raised guard supported on a hanger is a protection to property values in defense housing as well as in civilian construction and modernization.

Added to the advantage of having dependability benind the walls is the fact that the hangers are so made as to permit a wide range of adjustment. This is a protection to the surface of the fixture because it eliminates the necessity for handling the tub once it has been placed in position. The tub may be easily raised or lowered and perfectly leveled for permanent and waterproof installation.

REDWOOD FINISHING

Redwood can be finished and its natural color retained by applying two or more coats of pure white shellac, each coat being rubbed down with steel wool and the last coat being polished with wax.

Housing for War Industry Workers



In many areas war industry workers are badly in need of housing accommodations. One quick and inexpensive way to help fill this growing demand is the remodeling and conversion of existing homes. The "before-and-after" pictures shown above offer graphic illustration of how this work can be accomplished. Unused, except as a "catch-all," the attic of this home was turned into an attractive two-room apartment—bedroom and living room—providing much needed living space. Carefully planned, this remodeling job proved extremely simple and inexpensive, and the use of critical materials, if not eliminated, was kept at the very minimum. Loans to finance this type of home repair and remodeling may be financed on FHA's Title I Plan, and repaid in small monthly installments.

Post-War Use of Bonds Proposed By Builders Association at Detroit

Idea Seen as Means of Providing Market for Building Materials Immediately After War.

Issue of "Post-War Use Bonds," to be used by the purchaser when wartime restrictions are lifted in buying homes, automobiles, radios, phonographs, furniture and home equipment, clothing, raw materials, factory equipment and other merchandise, has been proposed to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., by the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit.

W. J. Gulnan, executive director of the association, has laid the plan before member groups throughout the country of the National Home Builders association, of which he is executive secretary.

As proposed by the Detroit builders, the bonds would be in addition to the present War Bonds, in the same denominations, interest rates and maturities.

"The sale or manufacture of hundreds of items has been stopped or drastically curtailed for the war's duration," Guinan said recently. "New residence construction, except for that permitted in a limited amount in defense areas, has been stopped. At the same time, thousands of men and women will be earning far more than they will be able to spend.

"It would be a good idea to keep reminding these men and women that all types of goods will again be available in the post-war era and that these goods, including cars and housing, will embody all the innovations and improvements which science has explored and developed during the war emergency.

"And it would not be unfortunate if the home buying public emerged from the war period with several billion dollars in Post-War Housing Use Bonds, which could be used as down payments for the purchase of new homes."

The purchase of such bonds would definitely provide a measure of the housing market of the future, and would also provide the initial momentum to get the residential building industry going as soon as the war had ended, the Builders Association believes.

An exciting dining room has walls painted pale turquoise blue above the knotty pine dado. The windows are hung with all length draperies of glazed figured chintz, mainly tomato red. Turquoise blue paint colors the spaces between the shelves of the cupboard, the rug is grass in natural color, and the furniture painted light to match the pine woodwork.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

CHAPTER 27

'Just Nervous'

ALL along Joyce had told herself that Ward Allen could not have killed Clarke, but this, she realized now, was simply because such a conclusion was the one she wanted to believe. There was no logic in such a belief; she was trying to reason with her emotions. If Ward was found guilty, Della's happiness, her life even, would be ruined; therefore Ward was not guilty. And yet...

"Even if he did," Thorndike was saying, "we're all going to stick by him. We'll see him through this."

"If he killed him he was justified," Della said resolutely. "He must have had good reason to. I won't believe he did and even if I'm wrong it won't make any difference. I love him."

"Well, it's no good worrying about it yet," Thorndike said.

He pulled up in front of Della's apartment house.

Joyce and Della got out and thanked him. When they entered the foyer they found Jack Fenner waiting for them. He looked very neat and well-groomed, his hat was in his hand, and his upward-slanting eyes observed them deliberately.

"I got here a little early," he said.

They went upstairs, taking off hats and coats and settling down in the living room. Della got a box of cigarettes and an ashtray and put them on the table beside Fenner's chair, and he watched her move about, his smile of approval constant.

Conversationally the going was awkward for the next few minutes. They talked of this and that, and Fenner asked Joyce where Kent was, and she explained, and the quiet crept up on them again.

"You haven't told them?" Fenner asked.

"About this?" Joyce said. "No, I told you I wouldn't."

Della stood up and walked over to the windows. Joyce and Fenner watched her and when she became aware of their inspection her face twisted in a rueful smile and came back.

"Just nervous," she said.

"That's okay," Fenner said, "you've got a right to be."

"You'd like a drink, wouldn't you?"

"Now that you mention it," said Fenner grinning, "I think I would."

"I can get it," Joyce said.

"In one of the lower cupboards," Della said.

In the kitchen Joyce found a bottle of Scotch. "I'll get you some ice."

"Never mind," Fenner said. "Ice dilutes it."

Long Wait

He poured whisky in the glass and added some water from the faucet. He rolled some of the mixture around in his mouth, said: "Ahh," and drank. Leaning against the sink, he held the glass up and studied it.

"When're you going to tell me the rest of it."

The question brought Joyce up with a start.

"But I've already told you."

He looked at her one brow up. "Have you?" he said; then removing the pressure of his glance. "All right. Whenever you're ready."

They went back to the living room and found Della pacing the floor. Joyce sat down and glanced at her watch. It was ten minutes of twelve.

"You know what you're going to say?" Fenner was watching Della and she stopped pacing. "You have the envelope?"

"Oh!" Della put her hand to her mouth. "But I haven't." She looked at Joyce. "I mean—"

Fenner stiffened and his eyes struck sparks. "Wait a minute! What is this? You tell me—"

"She can get it," Joyce said.

"How long'll it take?"

"Twenty minutes."

"Oh," Fenner said slowly. "So you've got it?"

Joyce started to deny this but changed her mind. "Yes."

Fenner leaned back. "Okay," he said.

Joyce looked at her watch. Twelve o'clock. Della looked at her watch.

"It's time," she said.

Fenner finished his drink and they waited. The quiet expanded until it became stifling. Della could not sit still for more than a minute at a time, and finally Joyce could no longer bear to look at her. Twelve ten, now; twelve eleven, twelve twelve.

The sound of the telephone bell was a physical shock to Joyce, jarring her nerves so that for the first second or two she could not move. Neither could Della. She gasped and the blood drained from her face and she looked helplessly at Fenner.

"All right," he said, a snap in his voice. "This may be it." He came out of his chair, touching her shoulder.

Joyce watched her lift the instrument, heard her say: "Yes," and then froze on the edge of her chair, holding her breath.

No Dice

It took forever for the next word to come.

"Oh," Della said, and that was enough to tell Joyce something was wrong. Never had she heard such relief come from one small syllable.

"Yes," Della said, color tinting her cheeks again. "All right. . . . Thank you, Uncle Dean."

"False alarm, huh?" Fenner disgusted.

"He said it was all right," she told Joyce. "About the lawyer."

Joyce leaned back aware that her muscles were aching. There was a dampness in her palms, and she was angry with herself for letting the suspense do such things to her.

"I was scared to death," Della said.

"I'll say you were," Fenner said.

At one o'clock Fenner stood up. "I guess it's no dice," he said. "Something must have gone wrong with his plans."

A look of alarm came over Della's face. "But what will we do?"

"Nothing."

"You think he's not going to call?"

"There's no good in hanging around for it. We don't know what the score is so there's no use—"

"But if he goes to the police?"

"Why should he?" Fenner went for his coat and hat. "If he wanted the envelope the other day he must still want it. Something made him change his mind about calling at twelve. He may have seen me or he may be playing cagey."

"You think he'll call again?"

"I do, but we can't tell when. I'll stay close to the office the rest of the day and if you should get word, let me know. It'll take you a half hour to get the envelope anyway and I can be around by that time. The thing is, you've waited an hour and he didn't keep his date, and if he should call and find you out he'll know why and wait until he can call again. It's okay for you to wait if you want to but there's no point in my sticking around until you have something."

"I suppose you're right," Della said, "but just the same I think I'll stay right here."

Joyce picked up her hat and coat. "Come on," she ordered. "Lunch."

Della shook her head. "I'm going to wait."

"Not on an empty stomach, you're not," Joyce said firmly. "You may be here all afternoon."

Home Run With Bases Loaded, Four Double Plays Help Yanks Scalp Indians

Champs Turn in Sixth Straight Win As Chandler and Three Other Pitchers Turn on Heat.

The New York Yankees are turning the thumbscrews on the rest of the American League again with four fine pitchers furnishing most of the pressure.

The world champions have won six games in a row and the last four of these were credited to Hank Borowy, Atley Donald, Ernie Bonham and Spud Chandler, who among them have won 34 games and lost only nine this season. Two of those last four games were shutouts and one was a one-run affair—the 2-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians yesterday.

Tenth Win for Chandler

Chandler was the winner, his tenth victory against two defeats. He limited the Tribe to six hits and had the benefit of four double plays as the slick-fielding Yanks boosted their total of double killings to 119 in 86 games.

The game was decided in the first inning when Phil Rizzuto homered with the bases loaded. Joe DiMaggio singled in the seventh to extend his batting streak to 14 games.

Chester Laabs continued his sensational slugging as Philadelphia as the St. Louis Browns captured a doubleheader from the Athletics 4-2 and 11-1 to run their winning streak to eight games.

Laabs hit a homer with one on and a double in the first game and another home run with one on and a triple with two on in the nightcap. This gave him 17 home runs and 64 runs batted in to date. He has hit seven homers and driven in 22 runs in the last week.

The Boston Red Sox nudged out the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 12 innings to keep from losing any additional ground to the Yanks.

The Brooklyn Dodgers piled onto the Chicago Cubs again for a 10-5 victory to take three of the four games in their rowdy series. Claude Passeau returned to the mound for the Cubs on one day's rest, was belted out in the midst of a five-run fifth inning.

Brooklyn saved its top talent for the series opening today with the second-place St. Louis Cardinals and started Schoolboy Rowe, who didn't have a decision in the National League. He had to have help from Ed Head in the last two innings.

The Cardinals slaughtered the Philadelphia Phils 10-1 with Howard Krist pitching five-hit ball and his teammates making 13 safeties as well as taking advantage of four Philadelphia errors.

The New York Giants overwhelmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-2 with a 20-hit offensive.

In the first twilight game ever played in the nation's capital, the Washington Senators blanked the Detroit Tigers 3-0 as Buck Newsom limited his former mates to four hits.

JACK STEPHENSON, the versatile 1941 Ohio State university grid captain and the son of Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Stephenson, of 488 South Vine street, is making great headway in the Chicago Tribune's all-star football poll.

In the last 24 hours the giant tackle received 6,022 votes, or nearly twice as many as he received in the first three days of the voting.

With 9,851 votes to his credit, Stevie is seventh among 30 tackles nominated to date by fans throughout the nation. Paul Lillis, captain of the 1941 edition of the fighting Irish, has taken the lead among the tackles. He has received 20,167 votes. Alf Bauman (Northwestern), Urban Odson (Minnesota), Al Blozis (Georgetown and Norville Wallach (Missouri) all have received 15,000 or more votes.

Meanwhile, Marionites continued to back the town's No. 1 football star. Over 1,000 signatures were obtained yesterday. More than 1,500 signatures have been obtained on a half a hundred petition now being circulated in the downtown area.

Local sponsors of the drive have set a goal of 20,000 signatures as Marion's participation in behalf of Stephenson.

All-star voting will end midnight, July 26. Those leading the poll will form the starting team against the Chicago Bears, pro football champions in Soldiers' Field, Chicago, on the night of Aug. 28.

Four other members of the 1941 Buckeye team besides Stephenson are candidates for all-star honors. They are Jim Daniell, tackle; Dick Fisher, halfback; Jack Graf, fullback, and Fritz Howard, guard.

Reds Release Hemsley; Recall Syracuse Star

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 18 — The Cincinnati Reds last night gave Catcher Ralston Burdett Hemsley his unconditional release and recalled Al Lakeman Cincinnati boy from Syracuse of the International League.

Hemsley purchased last December from the Cleveland Indians of the American League currently is near the bottom of the National League in batting with .113 for .115 turns with the stick and his 13 hits have driven in eight runs.

MISS NEOMA COPIC

MISS JANET SHOCK

Janet Shock of Dayton Wins Feminine Title Third Time; Defeats Neoma Copic of Toledo, 3-2.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18—Petite Janet Shock of Dayton, who knocked off Ohio's feminine golf throne twice in the last four years, was right back up there today.

The freckle-faced, 23-year-old blue-eyed blond, winning her third title, defeated defending champion Neoma Copic of Toledo in the 36-hole finals of the 23rd annual tournament yesterday by a 3 and 2 score.

Miss Shock had three birdies, 21 pars, nine bogies, and skidded two over par once, to finish the 34 holes eight over even figures.

Three-putt greens spelled ruin for the defending champion, for Miss Copic had five of them on the final 18 holes as she went through the match in 13 over par with three birdies, 17 pars, a dozen bogies, and two holes on which she slipped over by two strokes.

Miss Copic is the only feminine star ever to win both the state public links and state women's championships. She copped the "pay-as-you-play" laurels in 1939, shifted to the private club field the following year, and won the title a year ago in a 39-hole match with the former Dorothy Gardner of Steubenville.

HAGEN'S ALL-STARS TEE-OFF TODAY

DETROIT, July 18—Walter Hagen's challengers made a bold bid today to seize the lead from Craig Wood's Ryder Cup squad in opening competition of the two-day charity series that is big league golf's closest approach to an all-star game.

In the 36-hole best ball matches, the Haig sent his foremost twosome of Lawson Little and Lighthorse Harry Cooper against the unbeaten combination from the cup squad, Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret. The pairings:

CUPPERS	CHALLENGERS
Hogan-Demaret	Little-Cooper
Byron Nelson-Ed Dudley	Henry Picard-Sam Byrd
Gene Sarazen-Lloyd Mangrun	Clayton Heafner-Jim Turnesa
Wood-Sergt Vic Ghezzi	Ralph Guldahl-Dick Metz
Horton Smith-Jug McSpaden	Jimmy Thomson-Al Watrous

In a last minute decision, Hagen withdrew from the challenge lineup and also kept out Melvin (Chick) Harbert, sensational baby of the squad who will play in tomorrow's singles.

This third match of the war-orphaned international series promised to yield $25,000 for the Red Cross, with 5,000 spectators expected today and 10,000 tomorrow.

Comlpete Second Round Golf Matches in Scioto Ordnance Plant Tournament

Second round matches in the first quarterly handicap team play of the Scioto Ordnance Golf Club were concluded Friday night at Mar-O-Del course with the following results.

Class A. Hunkin Conkey "Dodos" vs Holabird and Root "Robins": Gene Zediker (79) lost to Sherry Borland (77), 4 and 2; P. H. Davis (81) defeated Jack Kennedy (87) 2 and 1; C. R. Davis (80) lost to Clyde Neer (85) 2 and 1; Walt Tyler (87) defeated C. Dunnakin (95) 3 and 1; Joe Berwanger (96) lost to Tom Rayburn (88) 5 and 3; Dick Sertelle (106) lost to Tony Aurilio (87) 5 and 3. Total Points: Dodos 6, Robins 12. Sherry Borland ran a hot streak of par golf on the back nine to upset Gene Zediker whose irons failed.

Hunkin Conkey "Birdies" vs army "Eagles": Ben Miller vs Lt. W. E. Berg postponed until Monday in special match. R. N. Lovett (81) defeated Evan Lloyd (90) 2 up; Ben Wiant vs. Maj. John S. Sears postponed until Monday in special match. Myron Welch and Capt. M. E. Smith were stymied by darkness on the 18th with the match all even. Play-off scheduled for Monday. P. J. Madden (97) lost to G. Stegmiller (103) 2 down; Bill Howe (92) topped Lt. Keegan (98) 2 and 1; Total Points: "Birdies" 4½; "Eagles" 4½.

CLASS B. Hunkin Conkey "Blasters" vs. Holabird and Root "Divoteers": Tess Tyler (52) lost to Ken Bruhl (45) 4 and 2; Bill Kuchinsky (54) lost to Ralph Wright (52) 3 and 1; Pat McAllister (46) played his best brand of golf to defeat Jack Lloyd (49) 5 and 3; Bill Klinger (56) defeated M. Cass (58) 2 and 1 with Cass's putter failing to function; Walt Boren (60) fell before Nick Carje (45) 3 and 1; Wes Grinstead (58) lost to T. Manna (50) 3 and 2; J. G. Kish (62) lost to Ray Clark (50) 1 down; Total Points: "Blasters" 7½, "Divoteers" 13½.

Hunkin Conkey "Excavators" vs. Army "Bombardiers". Leo Conway (51) lost to Lt. Pugh (47) 2 and 1. Lt. Pugh was also playing off his first round match with Tess Tyler and with the pressure on, uncorked a sensational recovery from the sand bunker in front of the 8th green with his 8 iron sinking the ball to make a double-match kill. W. Brickman (51) lost to Hammes (51) 1 down; Jesse Kendrick (50) trimmed Capt. Floyd Freeman (52) 2 and 1; John Warner (52) won over L. Mantell (53) on 10th green; Maj. Lockridge vs. Bob Patterson postponed. Mary Schneider (62) lost to Capt. Francis Klapp (49) 4 and 2; Helen Mahaffey (58) lost a heart-breaker to A. E. Schuman (52) 1 down. Total Points: "Excavators" 6½; "Bombardiers" 11½.

Team match play will be resumed at the Mar-O-Del course on July 22 with the following pairings:

Class A: Zediker vs. Miller, Lt. Berg vs. Borland, P. Davis vs. Lovett, Evan Lloyd vs. Kennedy, C. Davis vs. Wiant, Maj. Sears vs. Neer, Tyler vs. Welsh, Smith vs. Dunnakin, Berwanger vs. Madden, Lt. Keegan vs. Rayburn, Dick Sertelle vs. Howe, Stegmiller vs. Aurilio.

Class B. Pairings: T. Tyler vs. Conway, Lt. Pugh vs. Bruhl, Kuchinsky vs. Brickman, Hammes vs. Wright, Mc Allister vs. Kendrick, Capt. Freeman vs. Lloyd, Klinger vs. Warner, Mantell vs. Cass, Boren vs. Patterson, Maj. Lockridge vs. Carje, Marie Feehan vs. Mary Schneider, Capt. Klapp vs. Manna, Kish vs. Helen Mahaffey, Schuman vs. Clark.

CLARK IS OPTIMISTIC ON RAMS' 1942 GRID CHAMPIONSHIP HOPES

Head of Cleveland Pro Team Sorry To Lose Services of Johnny Drake.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND—Optimistic note from Dutch Clark, coach of the Cleveland Rams of the national pro football league.

"We have lost several men to the military services, and we will be losing more as the season goes along, but I do not believe we are as hard hit, comparatively, as some of the other teams. The champion Chicago Bears, for instance, can not possibly be as strong.

"The Bears first team will be just as good as ever, but they won't be able to throw in as many high-powered second and third stringers and run the other teams off the lot."

Clark, arriving in town to prepare for the opening of the Rams' training sessions at Hiram college Aug. 10, said he had been expecting Fullback Johnny Drake to play another season, and had learned of Drake's decision to stick to his war plant job when he read about it in a newspaper enroute from his Colorado home.

He will depend on Corby Davis, former Indiana university fullback to carry the line-bucking role, although he had planned to use both Davis and Drake in his first string backfield.

The backfield formation will resemble the famous "T" used by the Chicago Bears, said Clark, but the quarterback will not play back of center.

The Cleveland club's tentative roster lists 50 players, of whom 21 are holdovers. Len Janiak is the only veteran at blocking back, and the Rams are resting most of their hopes on Dutch Elston, of South Carolina, acquired by the process of outbidding Green Bay and Detroit. The halfback material includes Jack Wilson of Baylar. Cleveland's first choice in the national league draft, and Jack Jacobs of Oklahoma; holdovers are Parker and Dante Magnanini. The Cleveland club will make its first appearance Aug. 30 in the Akron Rubber bowl, against the New York Giants and its first home appearance will be Sept 6 against an army team from Camp Shelby. Eleven league contests are on the schedule.

RED BIRDS DEFEAT LOUISVILLE, 2 TO 0

Red Minger Allows Colonels Only One Hit.

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Red Birds, defending champions of the American association, staggered around a long time in the lower regions of the standings this spring before hitting their stride. Now solidly up in second place, they're trailing Kansas City by only 2½ games.

They gained a game and a half on the Blues last night as Kansas City lost both ends of a doubleheader to the last-place St. Paul Saints. Columbus defeated Louisville 2 to 0, one a one-hit pitching by Red Munger. The only Colonel safety came with two out in the eighth inning when pinch-hitter Sian Sperry tapped a twisting blow in front of the plate.

The Blues, double collapse was by scores of 11 to 0 and 3 to 1.

The Toledo Mud Hens climbed past Indianapolis into sixth place by beating the Tribe, 9 to 6. Milwaukee trimmed Minneapolis, 11 to 8.

Powell Replaces Besterdik at Top of A. A. Batters

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 18—At 32 Jake Powell, a former major leaguer, is making American association pitchers duck.

The St. Paul centerfielder has come up from the .260's, where he was plodding in early June, to lead the association's hitters with a snappy .329. Last week's rise of 19 points was the biggest since he went on the upgrade after joining the Saints, and he hit his pace just as last week's No. 1 man, Joe Besudik of Indianapolis, dropped off 21 points.

For the seven days through Wednesday Powell had 17 hits in 37 times at bat. He hit seven doubles and two home runs during his spree and knocked in 10 runs.

Joe Vosmik of Minneapolis, another ex-major leaguer, moved into second place by fattening his average from .314 to .325. Besudik's .324 put him third and Wayne Blackburn of Indianapolis held fourth with .320.

After the top four came Hal Peck, Milwaukee, .318; Eddie Stanky, Milwaukee, .314; Eric Tipton, Kansas City, .311; Guy Curtwright, St. Paul, .306; and Andy Gilbert, Louisville, and Heinz Becker, Milwaukee, both .302.

Bestudik was the head man in total hits with 111 and Stanky in doubles with 29. Chuck Stevens of Toledo had the most triples, 10, and three players were tied in homers with 13 apiece—Bill Norman of Milwaukee, Hub Walker of Minneapolis and Eddie Lukon of Columbus. John McCarthy of Indianapolis held the pace in runs batted in with 66 and George Myatt of Columbus led in stolen bases with 17.

Herb Karpel of Kansas City had the best pitching record with six wins and no defeats. Most victories were 12 by Charley Wensloff of Kansas City. He has lost five. Louisville's Nelson Potter led in strikeouts with 91.

STRANAHAN BATTLES WAR PLANT WORKER FOR OHIO GOLF TITLE

Toledo Youth Roars from Behind To Defeat Davy Hill, 3-1.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 18 — The Ohio Amateur Golf championship either goes back to Toledo for another year in Frank Stranahan's loving care, or it comes here to a night man helping guard a war plant.

Frank, who won the title on the 38th hole last year against Cincinnati's Maurice McCarthy Jr., and Elmer Tunker, a fellow of 28 who must not have to sleep are the finalists in today's 36-hole wind-up of the five-day tournament.

Both roared from behind in the afternoon rounds yesterday to down contenders Doug Hill and Bob Myers, both of Cincinnati. Stranahan's margin was 3 and 1 and Tunker's one up.

Hill, a veteran of the First World war, got along all right on his end of work for the first 18, but Stranahan finally got his driving range and won going away.

Myers looked like a possible champion for 27 holes. He had Tunker two down at nine, 18 and 27 and then Tunker broke out. They split the 28th, but Elmer took the next three, like ABC starting with a birdie three on 29 from a 40-foot putt. They had to play it through to 36, but Myers was done four holes back.

'Pot o' Gold' To Be on Double Feature Program at State

James Stewart, Paulette God-dard and Horace Heidt are the principals who unravel the plot of "Pot O' Gold," which is slated to show at the State theater Sunday and Monday. Watching for specialty numbers of Heidt's entertainers, James Roosevelt decided to utilize Heidt band and its radio fame. The resulting picture features the melodious tune and antics of the band. Also on the screen those two days is a west-ern picture, "Law and Order," with Johnny Mack Brown and Fuzzy Knight are co-starred. "Captain Caution" and "Ad-ventures of Tarzan" will be the double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday. Victure Mature and Paulette Platt share starring honors in the first one and Buster Crabbe is featured in the Tarzan picture. James Gleason and William Frawley play the chief rolls in the comedy, "Tanks a Million," to be shown Thursday, Friday and Sat-urday. With this will be another of the range busters' shows, "Saddle Mountain Roundup."

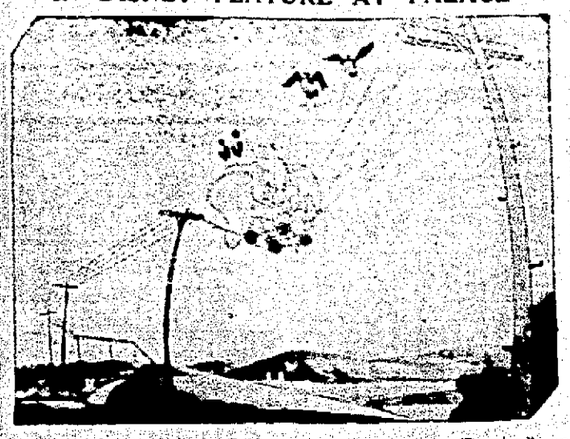
"LAW And ORDER"

AND CARTOON COMIC

IN DISNEY FEATURE AT PALACE



Assisted by the crows, Dumbo tries his ears and learns to fly in Walt Disney's full-lenth cartoon feature, "Dumbo," on the screen at the Palace theater Sunday-Tuesday.

New Shirley Temple Film, Disney Cartoon at Palace

"Miss Annie Rooney" To Show on Double Bill with "Dumbo," Color Cartoon.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Palace theater will be the double feature of "Miss Annie Rooney," featuring Shirley Temple, Willie Gargan and Guy Kibbee and "Dumbo," Walt Disney's full length cartoon.

In "Miss Annie Rooney," Shirley is seen as the granddaughter of a retired policeman and the daughter of an insurance salesman who would rather promote billion-dollar ideas than work at his job. When Annie gets her family mixed with that of a socialite boy friend from Park avenue, the complications begin. However, things right themselves as Annie innocently engineers success for her father's big idea.

The gayest of the Walt Disney full-length features, "Dumbo" is the story of a little baby elephant born with such enormous ears that he becomes the laughing stock of the circus where he lives with his mother. With only two friends to protect him against the jibes of the world, Dumbo goes through some amazing adventures before he becomes the world's first and only flying elephant, and therefore the most famous little pachyderm that ever lived.

"Shankhai Gesture"

On Wednesday only, "Shanghai Gesture," will be on the screen. Much of the action of this picture takes place in the flamboyant gambling establishment of Mother Gin Sling in the heart of Shanghai's International settlement. Mother Gin Sling, a fascinating, glamorous woman bent on vengeance, is portrayed by Ona Munson. Gene Tierney plays Poppy, a girl who rushed headlong into disaster. Walter Huston is the smoothie, Sir Guy Charteris, and Phyllis Brooks appears as Dixie.

The boy with a genius for getting himself into trouble—Henry Aldrich—gets in deeper than ever in the Paramount comedy, "Henry and Dizzy," which will be on the screen Thursday through Saturday. Jimmy Lydon as Henry and Charles Smith as Dizzy step into trouble when Henry borrows a dilapidated motor boat for a spin around the lake with Dizzy and a couple of girls. What follows forms the plot of the story. Henry's harassed parents are portrayed by John Litel and Olive Blakeney. There is also the long-suffering Professor Bradley, played by Vaughan Glaser, and Mrs. Bradley played by Maude Eburne.

Pat O'Brien Film

Also on the screne these days is "Flight Lieutenant," in which Pat O'Brien appears as a flying ace of World War I who finds himself ignored by the aces and air cadets of World War II. Discredited as a result of a tragic error which caused the death of a co-pilot, he loses his license, and leaving his young son played by Glenn Ford still under the impression that he is a hero, attempts to hide his past in the torrid tropics.

The boy grows up, determined to become an aviator like his father. On the eve of his last solo flight as a cadet, the boy learns the truth about his flying heritage. Adding dramatic force to the play is the romance between the young cadet and the daughter of the man his father killed. "Flight Lieutenant" reaches its climax with the bombing of Pearl Harbor and the necessity for test pilots to risk their lives so that America's fliers may win victories.

NEXT WEEK IN THE THEATERS

"Roxie Hart" At Marion

Ginger Rogers Is Starred in Story of Chicago in the 1920's.

Burlesquing Chicago in the roaring '20's when a pretty woman could get a "not guilty" verdict from any jury, "Roxie Hart," the picture featured at the Marion theater starting Saturday midnight and continuing Sunday and Monday, stars Ginger Rogers.

When a man confesses to a murder, a wide-awake reporter kills the story and suggests Roxie let herself be tried for the crime. Learning of the publicity she will gain from the trial and gaining the promise of a vaudeville contract, she agrees to stand trial —for her career's sake. The trial becomes a show played up in newspaper and radio until Roxie becomes a nationwide figure.

Adolphe Menjou is the lawyer who defends Roxie. George Montgomery is the cub reporter who believes that Roxie is innocent. Also showing Sunday and Monday is "Powder Town," the story of a war boom town at work. Players are Victor McLaglen and Edmond O'Brien in the male leads with June Havoc and Dorothy Lovett supplying the feminine angle.

Tuesday and Wednesday the attractions are "Moonlight Masquerade" and "Right to the Heart." The "masquerade" is the result of a will leaving a fortune to two young people if they marry each other in a certain time, the one breaking the contract to forfeit all to the other. The conflict between the two to make the other break the will makes the story.

When a playboy turns boxer you can wager things are going to happen, and what happens is described in "Right to the Heart," the second feature. Joseph Allen Jr. is the boy, Brenda Joyce, the girl.

As the Thursday, Friday and Saturday offering the Marion has scheduled "Yukon Patrol" which casts Allan Lane in the role of a Canadian Mountie who is fighting against foreign agents. A new actress, Lita Conway, is the love interest. Also on the bill is "Sunset on the Desert," in which a carefree cow-puncher (Roy Rogers) takes a hand to prove the innocence of the father of the girl he loves (Lynne Carver).

AMERICAN HEROES DAY DRIVE SET FOR BUCYRUS

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS July 18 — Miss Arlene Davis, world famous aviatrix, will arrive in Bucyrus by plane next Friday at 2:30 p. m. to assist in the sale of war bonds and stamps in connection with the American Heroes day observance.

The day's activities which are being directed by Wayne Phelps, general chairman.

Bucyrus' quota in bonds and stamps for the day has been set at $50,000.

TO GET CERTIFICATES

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 18—Two Red Cross Home Nursing classes now completing courses under the instruction of Miss Olive Becker, are to meet at Harrison Smith park Wednesday evening, July 22 to receive certificates for the work.

Ohio Shows War Picture

"Wings for the Eagle" To Be Shown Through Thursday; Plane Production Story.

"Wings for the Eagle", which began at the Ohio theater yesterday tells, the story of the world struggle to smash the Axis through the men and women who turn out planes.

Ann Sheridan and Dennis Morgan have the leading roles with Jack Carson and George Tobias in the supporting cast. The film is set, for the most part, in the huge Lockheed aircraft plant. Ann and Jack play the role of a married couple who split up when Jack becomes irritated over having wasted his money on a phoney engineering course.

Scenes at Plane Plant

Morgan portrays a care-free character who lands a job at the Lockheed plant in the hope that his draft board would consider his job "essential." However, Pearl Harbor changes his mind in a hurry and he realized he had a wrong slant on things.

Dennis also takes advantage of Ann's quarrel with Carson and goes all-out in his attempt to be pleasing but he soon learns that she still loves Carson. Tobias plays the role of the shop foreman whose whole life is wrapped up in Lockheed and the patriotic fervor to speed up the work. His son, played by Russell Arms, also works at the plant but leaves to join the air force and Tobias is prouder than ever of him.

Joins Air Force

It is only after the United States' involvement in the war and after Tobias' son pays with his life for his patriotism that Dennis decides he, too, has a debt, both to his country and his friends. He joines the air force, but before going he patches things up between Ann and Jack.

"Wings for the Eagle," will be on the screen through Thursday and starting Friday for four days will be "The Magnificent Dope", 20th Century-Fox comedy concerning the call for widespread "victory farming" to buttress the food situation during the war. Henry Fonda and Don Ameche co-star with Lynn Bari and Edward Everett Horton heads the supporting cast.

TO HOLD EXAM

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 18—A typists and stenographers civil service examination will be held in Upper Sandusky, Tuesday July 28.

IN "WINGS FOR THE EAGLE" AT OHIO

Dennis Morgan and Ann Sheridan have the starring roles in the new Warner Bros.' film, "Wings for the Eagle," which is currently playing at the Ohio theater.

Seven Stars Added To Prospect Church Flag

Special to The Star

PROSPECT — Rev. Paul Dobberstein has announced that seven insignia members have been added to the Lutheran church service flag. Those in the new group follow: Navy, Lyle Davell and Robert Layman; air corps, Ernest Stiffler and David Gast; army, Loren McNeal and Howard Miley; naval air corps, John Arnold Gast.

GALION BID AWARDED

GALION, July 18 — Service Director Charles R. Geiger announced Friday that the bid for the purchase of a new police cruiser has been awarded to the Galion Motor Sales, company.

Atta girl Ann!
WE ALWAYS KNEW YOU HAD IT IN YOU!
She was the queen of 'Kings Row' and the chisled-a-dazzle darling of 'Juke Girl'... But if you really want to see some smokin' on all the horses you've got to see her now!
SHE'S A RED-HEADED BOMBER IN A 'PLANE PLANT IN
There's nothing a machine can do that Ann can't do better!
"WINGS FOR THE EAGLE"
She just wants to make Bombers but the boys have other ideas!

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES LAG

Shows Combination of Doubtful War News and Legislative Speculation.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 18—The stock market today continued to reflect a combination of doubtful war news and inflationary talk and threats of higher corporation taxes although real liquidation never appeared.

Prices were hesitant at the start. Both large-scale buyers and sellers seemingly deemed it advisable to retire to safety zones pending more definite developments at Washington and on Egyptian and Caucasian battle fronts. The result was almost a market stalemate.

The ticker tape loafed throughout and, while small plus marks were in evidence here and there at the close, minor declines were plentiful. Transfers for the two hours of around 100,000 shares were among the lowest in the past year or so.

Inflationary psychology cooled appreciably as congressional authorities promised speedy consideration for recommendations President Roosevelt may make to link wage stabilization authority to over-all price controls in the campaign to stem mounting living costs.

The new wage formula established by the WLB in the case of little steel workers remained as a confusing element for market prognosticators. Acceptance of the labor board's steel pay award by the unions was in line with financial expectations.

Stocks under water most of session included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Union Pacific, Standard Oil, Loew's, Pepsi-Cola, General Electric, American Smelting, Westinghouse, American Can, U. S. Rubber and American Telephone.

Mild resistance was displayed by Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Texas Co., Goodrich, General Motors and Eastman Kodak.

Those watching merchandising share trends noted the compilation of the federal reserve bank of New York placing inventories of department stores in this district as of June 30 at 80 per cent above the same time last year. For June store sales in the metropolitan area were 3 percent under the like 1941 month but for the first half of 1942 they topped the comparable period a year ago by 11 percent.

Holders of rails found some encouragement in the summary of the Association of American Railroads estimated operating revenues for 88 class 1 carriers last month amounted to $479,227,572 against $370,863,416 in June of the previous year, or an increase of 34.1 percent.

Decline in Ohio Traffic Deaths Listed This Year

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, July 18 — Ohio traffic deaths were fewer in the first five months this year than early in 1941, but failed to keep pace with an 11 per cent decline nationally, Harry E. Neil of the state highway department's traffic safety division reported today.

Traffic deaths increased 21.2 per cent in Ohio cities larger than 5,000 population but dropped 21.3 per cent in rural areas, leading Neal to deduce that tire rationing had discouraged motorists from trips, but that industrial activity had stimulated city driving, congested traffic and increased hazards to pedestrians.

National and state officials' appeals for motorists to drive no faster than 40 miles an hour may have reduced the accident hazard in rural areas, Neal said.

January - through - March highway deaths in Ohio totaled 811 this year against 870 in the first five months of 1941.

	1941	1942
January	175	195
February	148	164
March	217	173
April	155	113
May	175	161

Gasoline consumption in Ohio closely paralleled the decrease. It was down 5½ per cent for the five months, of 528,832,120 gallons taxed against 560,426,695 gallons in the corresponding 1941 period.

An outstanding contradiction of the rural-urban trend was the city of Toledo, Neal's record showing only 12 traffic deaths there in the last six months compared with 22 in the first half of 1941. The corresponding Lucas county totals were 24 in 1942 and 50 in the like period of 1941.

Jay Thompson, Toledo safety council secretary, credited slower traffic and greater caution, induced by safety campaigns, for the record.

Stocks and Bonds

Stock and bond sales yesterday: stocks, 282,770; bonds, 2,690,900.

Stock and bond sales today: stocks, 98,810; bonds, 1,497,900.

21 FAIRS CANCELLED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O. July 18 — An unofficial survey shows 21 of Ohio's 89 county and independent fairs have been cancelled in compliance with a request of Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman. Fifty-one will be held and 17 have announced no decision. Fair executives must here next Tuesday to discuss promotion of war bonds and stamp sales at exposition.

ABBE CHEER WINS 3 HEATS AT ASHLEY

Takes Featured Event; Cartinal Horse Takes Two.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, July 18—Abbe Cheer, a bay gelding driven by Bob Vallery of Urbana, won in straight heats the featured 2:18 pacing stake at the second racing session of the Ashley fair yesterday.

Veteran Gabe Cartinal, Hanover, Ohio, reinsmen, piloted Betty C. Gratton, a bay mare, to a three-heat victory in the 2:22 pacing event. The mare set a new low time for the meet in covering the first mile in 2:09.

War Glory, driven by Abe Brinkerhoff of Indianapolis, won the 2:18 trotting stake.

In the amateur show last night Janice and Rhoda Schultis of Ashley, tap dancers, won first prize. Other prizes were awarded as follows: Second, Jean Manville of Waldo, vocalist; third, Ned and Davis Early of Cardington, singers; fourth, Esther Hatten of Kilbourne, tap dance; fifth, Dick Roth of Marengo, vocalist.

Mrs. Grace Smith was in charge of a business meeting and current events were given in response to roll call. It was announced that Mrs. Ethel Cochran, county Farmer field woman, AAA, will be a guest and conduct a roundtable discussion at the September meeting. Mrs. Glendora Peters, Mrs. Georgia Smith, Mrs. Pearl King and Mrs. Ida Allen contributed to the program.

LARD YIELD SMALLER THAN IN LATE YEARS

Price of Lard Against Pork Cited as Reason.

CHICAGO, July 18 — (Wide World)—Although hogs coming to market today are comparatively heavy, trade sources point out that the yield of lard per hog has been smaller than in recent years.

In April, the yield was 30.3 pounds per hog, in May 31.3 pounds and is estimated at 31.17 pounds for June. A year ago the yield per hog was running three pounds above the current rate, and, in the opinion of market analysts, a yield of 36 pounds or more could be expected from the weight of hogs now being marketed.

The reason for the decline in lard output per hog, in the opinion of traders, is the relatively low price of lard against that of pork meat. Processors, they added, find it profitable to reduce as much as possible the amount of fat material being turned into lard.

One analyst said if the lard yield per head from federally inspected hogs during the current marketing year had been equal to the ten-year average yield from 1921 to 1930, lard production in the last nine months would have been increased by 160,000,000 pounds.

Declining against the seasonal trend, the supply of lard and rendered pork fat on hand on July 1, was 15,448,000 pounds less than at the start of June. With the agricultural marketing administration making large purchases for lend-lease export, traders expect further sharp supply reductions the next few months.

Hog receipts continued small this week. Prices gained about 25 cents to hit $15 on Friday, equal with the peak for the past 16 years. Sows comprised between 26 to 31 per cent of the supply and were generally weaker.

Supply abatement stimulated steer trade with grain-fed steers and yearlings 25 to 50 cents higher. Cows were under pressure and mainly 25 cents lower.

Spring lambs closed steady to 15 cents lower.

MAN SLAIN TRYING TO HALT ROBBERS

Killed by Trio Following Hold-up Near Dayton.

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., July 18—A man trying to halt the escape of three masked cafe robbers was slain by a shotgun blast early today at nearby Alexandersville.

Everett "Ab" DeWeese, 34, was shot in the head by one of the trio, who obtained $280 in a robbery at the cafe of Arnold Wehner, six miles south of Dayton on the Dixie highway.

DeWeese, visiting next door to the cafe, saw the bandits leave the rear door of the establishment. They carried shotguns and were masked with handkerchiefs.

Armed with a pistol, DeWeese ran outside and tried to stop them. As he approached the trio, one gunman opened fire and felled him with a single blast.

The bandits fled in an automobile and 45 minutes later another cafe robbery was reported at Miamisburg, eight miles south of here.

DeWeese, superintendent of a nursery garden in Dayton, was widely known in sports circles.

Two Quit Teaching Positions at Ashley

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., July 18—The athletic coach and first grade teacher at the Ashley school have resigned, Supt R. B. Warner announced yesterday.

Coach Cleon Reynolds has accepted a coaching position in the Rushville, Ind., school and will move to Rushville in August. Miss Helen Dove of Centerburg, first grade teacher, for the last two years, has resigned to accept a position in the Mansfield schools.

Circus Draws Good Crowd at Night Show

The Wallace Bros. circus left Marion in the early hours this morning for Kokomo, Ind., after two performances yesterday at the Drake lot.

The tent was well filled last night and there was a fairly good attendance at the matinee.

One of the best elephant acts any circus has ever presented in Marion was a highlight of the show, which included excellent aerial, acrobatic, riding and balancing acts.

The clowns came in for their share of applause, particularly with their fire-fighting act, and four trained seals delighted the crowd with their act.

A fairly good-sized crowd remained for the concert, which starred Baron Nowak, reputedly the world's tiniest man, in a demonstration of top dancing and bicycle riding.

Green Camp Board Issues Certificates

Special to The Star

GREEN CAMP — The Green Camp rationing board last Wednesday issued sugar purchase certificates to 97 families for 4,900 pounds of canning sugar. In addition, 147 pounds of extra sugar was committed.

The local board will continue to meet on Wednesday evenings until it is disbanded, probably early in August, under the new county rationing set-up.

"In a factory at Letovice, important coats for urgent work were discovered hidden in a warehouse after two weeks of search. Tiny defects have been uncovered on airplane parts. Machines have been run so fast they have caught fire, or been worn out long before their normal life spans."

More spectacular still has been the armed revolt of Yugoslavs under General Draja Mikhallovitch, who, in small units, sweep down from mountain fastnesses to destroy axis troop concentrations, burn storehouses and wreck transportation facilities. The insurgents always are well-informed of the enemy's activities. Mikhallovitch is said to control three-fourths of old Serbia and parts of Herzegovina, Bosnia and Montenegro.

Nazi Reply Is Death

The Nazis' answer to such resistance, the booklet continues, is canceled food cards, exile, concentration camps, torture and death. There are numerous accounts of Nazi revenge, including the wiping out of the Norwegian village of Televnag.

Twenty-three hundred Yugoslav hostages, the booklet maintains, were put to death in two weeks in November for the killing of 26 German soldiers.

Only fragmentary stories of the patriots' resistance have been told, but they are resisting against all odds.

"The full story," the authors assert, "will not be told until the United Nations, by military action, have joined hands with the patriots in final battle for the ultimate victory."

When British Commandos landed recently in France, local Frenchmen mistook them for a full-scale army of liberation. Swiftly turning upon the Nazis, they seized German arms and produced hidden weapons.

"This is the shape of things to come."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Sense of Taste

ALL OF OUR senses—sight, hearing, smell, feeling and taste itself combine to make a meal taste delicious. You go home at night and hear something sizzling in the kitchen and the sense of hearing gives you an anticipatory feeling of pleasure.

The famous experiments of Pavlov, the Russian physiologist, proved that the sight of food caused digestive secretions to start to flow when the sight was pleasurable and also dried them up when the spectacle was disgusting. Smell probably enters into taste more than either of these senses—in fact, it is almost a part of taste itself.

Just exactly what taste is, is quite as much of a mystery as what any of the other senses are. According to the physiologist there are four primary tastes, sweet, sour, salt and acid, and it can be proved by blindfolding a person and dipping a pledget of cotton in solution of sugared water, salt, vinegar and acid, that the tongue is divided into areas which appreciate these tastes and none other.

But for most of us the pleasure of tasting an article of food does not depend upon its primary taste but upon a mixture of all of them. It would be hard for you to say whether such articles as meat and potatoes or bread and butter were sweet, sour, bitter or salt.

Hot chocolate, if it is not sweetened too much, can be analyzed into the four primary taste sensations, but hot chocolate really gives pleasure more by its smell than by any of the elements of the sense of taste.

Nobody is able to taste anything very much unless the mouth is moist or unless the article of food is moist. The taste buds in the mouth are pocketed in little wells and in order to reach them the article to be tasted must be in solution.

The part that taste plays in nutrition, in fact, in life and in civilization can hardly be exaggerated. Criminals and imbeciles are said to lack taste discrimination almost completely. Our senses have made our world for us and we have really investigated little else than what our senses are able to perceive.

Physicists have investigated the nature of light, sound and weight because we see, hear and feel. Taste has undoubtedly determined the nutrition of our bodies to the extent that we like the taste of substances which contain vitamins and tire of the monotony and insipidity of the substances which do not contain vitamins and minerals. For this reason I do not worry too much about the pronouncements of the laboratory scientists who think we are likely to get into a bad condition of nutrition because we do not eat the substances that have vitamins in them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

F.K.A.:—If a woman has been told that her blood test is absolutely perfect, could she have a malignant tumor? It seems to me that a cancerous condition in any part of the body would show up in the blood stream.

Answer: Cancer has no influence on any blood tests that are ordinarily given. There is no substance that occurs in the blood in the course of cancer which is diagnostic.

D.L.F.:—What is the cause and remedy for car sickness and sea sickness?

Answer: The cause of both is the motion of the train or ship, which moves the fluid in the semi-circular canals of the middle ear about. No remedy is very good, but any kind of a headache powder will help.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

JACK'S rage against Ruth Hayes had not abated, but increased, when from his own story I was able to convince him that Ruth Hayes was responsible for having drugged his chocolate on his last night in camp, and for abstracting the key pages from the cryptogram notes in which he had recorded the secret formula developed in the important experiments he was making, a formula vital to the country's defense.

And now Ruth Hayes herself stood before me, covertly appraising me with insolent eyes that yet held a touch of uneasiness.

Recalls Letter

"I remember your name now," I said. Guessing the value of keeping her in suspense, I paused and did not at once speak again.

"I must tell you," I then went on, "that it holds most unpleasant associations for me."

Her bold face was suddenly Quillpish.

"I was afraid it might," she said.

"If I am not mistaken," I told her, ignoring her interpolation, "you once wrote a most insulting letter to Mrs. Bickett. You know that I am her husband's cousin and her dearest friend, so I am surprised that you have the temerity to ask an interview with me."

She did not change color, nor appear at all concerned at my indictment. When I had finished she threw back her head and laughed with apparently genuine mirth.

Ordered To Leave

"I wonder if you know how amusing you are," she said, "you and your friend Katharine, with your antiquated notions of love and marriage.

"Hasn't it percolated through your mushy brains yet that if a woman can't hold a man she ought to give him up to the woman who can?"

I walked to the door and even opened it.

"I am sorry, I said, "but I must ask you to leave this apartment. I am exceedingly busy and I can give you no more time."

Even as I spoke I realized that my anger had run away with me, and that my father would wish me to find out just why Ruth Hayes had come to me. But I could not withdraw my ultimatum.

"You'll be sorry for this, you poor fool," she said threateningly. "I could tell you things about Jack."

"What could you possibly tell me about Jack that would be of any interest to me?" I queried idly, yet trying to convey a suggestion of curiosity.

"Jack is in South America," I went on. "Frankly, that is all I wish to know about him, and I hope he stays there."

"Giving Dr. Hal Meredith, the brilliant alienist, a clear field with his old sweetie," she said, with infinite malevolence in her voice. "For a Puritan moralist, Mrs. Graham, aren't you letting down on your theories a bit?"

Is Insolent and Defiant

She smiled viciously, but made no move to leave. Though my hands itched to take her by the shoulders and push her through the door, the thought of my father waiting in the next room to glean something from her talk kept me quiet.

"But you are letting down your Puritanism in another direction, Mrs. Graham," she went on. "Isn't there a commandment about telling lies? You know very well that Jack is in this country."

"You have proof of that assertion?" I said, and let the door slip as it by accident from my hand. I caught at it with purposeful awkwardness and it closed tightly.

Ruth Hayes once more gave her high, unpleasant laugh.

"Far better to leave it closed for a little while," she said. "And I have proofs—ample proofs—of your knowledge that Jack is in America."

Funeral Services Held for Bucyrus Youth

RETURNED TO HOME

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 18—Pete Mirand, 41, today was returned to the Montgomery County home by Wyandot county sheriff Fred Jonas. Mirand had wandered away from the home and yesterday appeared in Marseilles carrying a crudely drawn map of industrial towns, railroads and airports in Ohio. Village officers apprehended the man and brought him to the county jail here.
